Fire Causes Blast At Newton Hlds

A fire in the block at 25 Lincoln st., Newton Highlands, on Sunday morning about 2:45 caused serious damage to the barber shop conducted by John Geraci and the beauty shop operated by his wife. The cause of the fire, which started in the cellar of the building, is unknown and the State Fire Marshal's office has been making an investigation. A gas meter in the cellar was burned away by the flames and the gas which soon filled the place caused an explosion which shattered the barber shop and beauty parlor above. Smoke caused heavy damage to the stock of a First National Store in the building. The building is owned by George Dow of Cambridge.

The first victim to be reported was Irene Richards, 9, of 63 Dalby street, Nonantum. This case was reported to the Health Department on August 24. The child is being treated at the Newton Hospital and has been seriously ill. Other cases which have been reported are—Marjorie Dutton, 23, who was taken ill while visiting friends on (Continued on Page 4)

Vote 1 Hr. Parking At Newton Centre

A meeting was held at City Hall on Wednesday night by members of the Traffic and Claims and Rules Committees at which was discussed, among other matters, the restriction of parking in all parts of the business district at Newton Centre. The conference did not conclude until about 1:30 a. m. Thursday, which indicates that some of the aldermen present were long-winded.

The committee decided to recommend to the Board of Aldermen on next Monday night a change of the traffic ordinance which will restrict parking in all parts of the Newton Centre business district to one hour. At present such a restriction is in force in some parts of the district and not in others. Business men of that section have complained that certain residents of Newton Centre, who commute to Boston, and persons engaged in business places at the Centre park their cars all day long where parking is not restricted, to the detriment of business men whose customers cannot find parking spaces nearby.

Burglary At Nonantum Mill

Burglars entered the factory of the Boston Knitting Company, 217 California st., Nonantum, over the weekend and ransacked the place. The burglary was discovered on Tuesday morning. It is thought a quantity of cloth was stolen.

"Infantile" Will Not Delay School Openings

Dr. Choep Issues Statement on Situation Here

The following statement was made yesterday to the GRAPHIC by Dr. H. D. Choep, Director of Public Health for the City of Newton.

"Because of the large number of inquiries which have come into the office of the Board of Health of Newton it seemed wise to present to the people of Newton the facts regarding the incidence of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) in the City. To date there have been six bona fide cases of the disease reported from Newton. Over the period of the past ten years there have been on an average of 10.5 cases of poliomyelitis per year. The districts of the city from which the cases have been reported this year are as follows: Nonantum, three; West Newton, one; and Newton Centre, two. Cases of the disease have been reported as follows from the surrounding cities, Boston, 229; Brookline, two; Watertown, 9; Waltham, 15; Wellesley, one. Schools will open in each of these cities with the exception of Boston the first of next week. "There is no doubt that there will be a few more cases of infantile paralysis in Newton during the months of September and October. However, it is the firm conviction of the Health Department that the occurrence of the expected cases will in no way be related to the opening of schools. For this reason the local health officer and (Continued on Page 2)

OUR 64TH BIRTHDAY

This issue of the NEWTON GRAPHIC begins the sixty-fourth year of service by this newspaper to the citizens of Newton. Established in 1872 as the NEWTON REPUBLICAN the founders stated in the lead editorial that the aim of the newspaper was "to meet the demands of the times and keep the public fully posted on all the local events which may occur... our interest is the interest of the whole." Ten years later upon a change in management the present name of the newspaper was adopted and the new editors said in part "it will seek to make itself everywhere welcome as a family paper of the highest type. It will have a mind of its own and in every question will cast its strength on the side tending toward the public good. It has great faith in the possibilities of Newton and will help in the onward course. It will build no fence between the past and the present nor limit its vision with hidebound opinions. It will be pure in thought, catholic in spirit, and progressive in purpose. It will have great respect for earnest effort and sympathy for the 'underdog' in the fight... the standard will be set high and hope will be buoyant."

For thirty years we have witnessed innumerable changes throughout the city. While there have been rare instances where these changes may not have been for the better, there are any number of changes which have meant growth and improvement. We have attempted to carry on the ideals of the founders of the newspaper and take considerable pride in a feeling that we have in some measure achieved their goal. It will be our aim in the years to come to continue this kind of service to our several thousands of readers in all parts of the Newtons.

OUR NEW FEATURES

Coincident with the first issue in our sixty-fourth volume we take pleasure in announcing two new features which will appear regularly upon this page. "Wanderings with the Editor" will be a news-comment column of strictly local affairs of a wide range, including historical facts of interest, current topics of local discussion and odd bits of information concerning various sections of the city. "Newton in the Past" will be a continuation of our column "Fifty Years Ago" upon a broader scale. In this column we shall give the highlights of news happenings of various periods in the past sixty years taken from copies of the papers in our files. We also want to take this opportunity to welcome the return of the column "One Thing and Another" which for many years has been a feature well-liked by many of our readers. We have also made a number of other changes in the make-up of our editorial page of minor importance. We trust that our readers will find these changes and the introduction of additional features entertaining, informative and instructive and we will welcome any comments or criticisms.

SCHOOL DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN

School days are here again. On Monday morning more than twelve thousand Newton children will vend their way to the public schools to start another year of education. Many will look forward to the new subjects, new activities, and new tasks which confront them with ambition and enjoyment. They will experience that satisfaction which comes from setting their goal and achieving it next June. Others will go with a mixed feeling of pleasure and regret. Pleasure for the resumption of the phases of school life which they enjoy and regret for the restrictions which of necessity are a part of the training of youth. They, too, will find satisfaction in the school days ahead if they will play the game and realize that life is not all a bed of roses. And then there is a third group who find school irksome and confining almost to the point of discontent. For this latter group there should be extended a measure of additional help. They need the tactful training of understanding teachers and parents to enable them to throw off the shackles of dissatisfaction in order to enable them to realize the advantages that a school education offers.

The Massachusetts legislative session was exceeded this year by two other law-making bodies—Congress and the Wisconsin State Legislature. Although the Sacred Cod came in third in the race with the Eagle and the Badger we still claim the grand old Bay State is the best of all.

The Boston Transcript the other day applied the title "Demopublicans" to certain so-called Republican officials who have apparently gone Democratic. Wouldn't a better name be "Repocrats"—it seems more suggestive of acrobats and reprobates.

Taxpayers realized last week the import of Governor Curley's ten per cent surtax when they received their income tax bills in the mail. We never know in March what October may bring.

Within the coming weeks there will be increased local political activity. Isn't it rather peculiar that it takes cooler weather to start the political pot boiling?

Welcome home, returning Newtonians!

A most important community project to be undertaken this fall will be the construction of a new branch library building in Newtonville. During the past decade branch library buildings were erected in Newton Centre, Waban and West Newton through the generous efforts and civic-mindedness of the residents of those sections. Newtonville has been considering better library facilities for some years but the depression has sidetracked the proposition until now. Last spring the Newtonville Improvement Association started the ball rolling again with a $500 gift towards the purchase of the land upon which the old Newton Club once stood at the corner of Walnut street and Highland avenue. A few weeks later a group of citizens organized into a corporation and received a charter from the state and everything is set to go ahead with the immediate task of raising funds for the project. Due to the proximity of the proposed building to the high school it is certain that provisions will be made for adequate reference files for educational work. This factor gives the school authorities considerable interest in the project. The library trustees are also impressed with the need of better facilities in Newtonville with a continual increase being noted in the present small rented quarters. All things considered it is logical that within a few years the main library facilities will be located in Newtonville.

Motorists using Beacon street from Newton Centre to Boston are looking forward to the completion of the resurfacing of this important artery which was begun a few weeks ago. The rerouting of traffic has brought a number of complaints over the situation but the Newton street department is taking every precaution to reduce the inconvenience to a minimum. Street Commissioner Charles A. Mahoney has planned to divide the entire two and a half mile stretch into six sections. The first section, that from the Boston line to Hammond street he promises to have completed before September 25th when the football season opens at the Boston College athletic field. Incidentally the college is going to considerable expense in erecting a new fence which will be in keeping with the location and the college buildings. The fence will be of concrete and iron with stone pillars about thirty feet apart built of stone similar to that used in the buildings. The Newton street department has started the second section to be resurfaced between Newton Centre square and Walnut street.

It is expected that this part of the work will be entirely finished before winter weather sets in. If weather conditions permit a third section will also be attempted. The two sections under construction and that part of Beacon st. between Langley rd. and Grant ave. are the three most in need of repair. It will be gratifying to have this much accomplished this fall. During the winter it will be impossible to finish the project but there is much that can be done in preparing the section from Walnut st. to the Newton Cemetery near the Cold Spring brook area. The drainage problem here is one of considerable magnitude and the street department is planning to do this work during the winter months. The street work on this section can then be done after the spring thaw has removed the frost from the ground. The two remaining sections, through Newton Centre square and from Grant ave. to Hammond st. will also be done next spring. Although routing traffic through Newton Centre square will be a problem it will not last for any great length of time as it will not be necessary to tear up the present surface. Plans call for a two-inch new top upon the present roadway with existing manholes to be raised to the new grade.

We were conversing the other day with a Newton Center resident whose children have been bathing in Crystal Lake during the summer. The father was inclined to blame a severe case of "pink-eye" from which his fourteen year old son was suffering from an infection from the lake water. He recalled the occasion some years ago when the lake water was cleansed by use of a disinfectant which caused not only the purification of the water but the death of all fish in the lake. He expressed the opinion that fish were desirable in such a lake as a means of keeping the water pure. He further suggested that if it were not feasible to restock the lake with fish that it might be a good plan to prohibit bathing in the lake for two weeks in mid-summer during which time the water could be thoroughly disinfected and infection reduced to a minimum.

One of the prettiest sights we have seen along the Worcester turnpike is approaching Newton Upper Falls at night. Coming down the second hill from Wellesley Hills hundreds of twinkling lights stretching up the long viaduct which carries the pike over Quinoboscum rd. and Chestnut st. sparkle in the distance like many stars.

Just twenty-five years ago the cornerstone of the Y. M. C. A. building at Newton was laid. A number of residents will doubtless recall that at that time there was some wonderment and some criticism at the choice of this site, considerably removed from the center of activities. It proved to be a foresighted step. The location has been ideal and the work accomplished by the "Y" has played an important part in the development of the community.

Newton Schools To Open

the Chairman of the Board of Health have strongly recommended the opening of the Newton Schools on schedule.

Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, Commissioner of Public Health of the Commonwealth, has made the following statement in a letter addressed to the Board of Health:

"On many previous occasions attempts have been made by boards of health and school departments to shorten an outbreak of infantile paralysis by postponing the opening of schools. There is an instance on record in which such action has in any way affected the incidence of the disease. In fact, in some communities that did open schools the disease has fallen off faster than in neighboring communities that delayed the opening. It will be obvious to those giving thought to the matter that with the schools open the children will during the greater part of the day be separated from one another at their desks, with no increased contact except at recess and entering and leaving school. On the contrary, with the schools closed the children who are already in the community will to a large degree be in contact with one another on playgrounds, on the streets and in other places where children may congregate. Consequently, opening schools will not increase the number of contacts of those children already in the community. There is a further advantage that with the schools open the children will be under regular medical and nursing supervision to detect early cases of illness that otherwise are in too many instances overlooked.

"For those children who are summering outside of the community and through returning are brought into an area of higher incidence of infantile paralysis, reasonable exceptions might be made, provided the parents were to request. For the same reasons it would be reasonable to delay the opening of private schools that draw their clientele from outside of the area, but not of day schools that are drawing only from the community in which they are located."

"The Newton Health Department will make every effort to keep the parents of the community fully informed of the incidence of the disease in the city both through the press and in response to inquiries made directly to the Health Department."

Community Chest Personnel

of the Speakers' Bureau, which will provide trained speakers on request. A new departure, found by study of national Chests to be most effective, will be the mass opening dinner, to be held at the Armory in West Newton on the evening of November 4th. All workers will be asked to attend, to get off to a flying start. Mr. William V. M. Fawcett is the Chairman of the Committee handling this affair, full details of which will be given later.

60 YEARS AGO

(From Newton Republican September 2, 1876)

The tax rate in Newton is $13.60 per $1,000.

The assessors report 3,004 dwelling houses in the city; 1332 horses, and 711 cows.

The Republican committee has called a caucus for this evening in ward for the election of delegates to the State Convention. New Ward and City committees will also be chosen.

The Democrats of Newton held a general caucus at City Hall on Friday evening for election of delegates to the several conventions.

The Sunday school of Grace Church took their annual excursion on Friday, going by teams to Waltham, where they took the steamer "White Swan," spending the day at Lily Polat Grove.

Investigation has decided beyond question the time of the breaking of glass in the stores of Thayer & Stiles, Ducey and Robbins. It was between 7:20 and 7:30 on Wednesday evening. The police are on duty all the time; the night officers coming on at 8 o'clock, the day officer being on duty until that time. We mention this to assure the citizens that the police are on duty all the time.

Water pipes are being distributed on Hammond st. The new reservoir is rapidly approaching completion.

A farmer from this locality could not obtain in the Boston market over 62¢ for a barrel of cantaloupe melons; nearly 40 in the barrel. Cheap enough for anybody's breakfast table.

The crop of rowen this fall will be small on account of the dry weather.

50 YEARS AGO

(From Newton Graphic, Sept. 5, 1885)
Several cases of fever are reported at Thompsonville, said to be caused by impure water.

Mason School building is being put in order for the opening of the school term on Sept. 14. The Charles River water has been brought up to each floor of the building for the convenience of the 300 scholars. Heretofore they have been obliged to go to the basement to quench their thirst.

A second trial of the relief valve of the hose on Hose 3 was made at Hall's Moon Cove, Crystal Lake, on Thursday. It is designed to control the quantity of water discharged from the hose.

The question is often asked—"When is the Circuit railroad to be finished and the trains running?" Can anyone answer the question?

The finishing of the Chestnut st. bridge is the last of the six bridges upon the route of the Circuit railroad. About half a mile more of rails is to be laid.

We understand the Boston & Albany railroad is to put that part of Boylston st. in the vicinity of the bridge in poorer condition. It has not been passable for heavy teams for months.

25 YEARS AGO

(From Newton Graphic, Sept. 2, 1910)

Dr. Francis G. Curtis, chairman of the Board of Health, is on his way to the annual convention of the American Health Association which will be held next week at Milwaukee. He will read a paper—"Quarantine or Isolation in Scarlet Fever? Which?"

The 12 o'clock express train from Boston this noon met with a hard accident at Riverside bridge. Two cars jumped the track and rolled down the embankment on the West side of the river. The police report no one killed or seriously injured.

About 200 people were present yesterday afternoon in the drizzling rain when the corner-stone of the new Newton Y. M. C. A. building was laid at 5:30. A temporary stand had been built at the northwest corner of the building on Church street, and it was filled with some of the most representative men and women of the city. President Allen Emery of the Y. M. C. A. presided and Rev. George E. Butters of the M. E. Church offered the opening prayer.

10 YEARS AGO

(From the Newton Graphic September 4, 1925)

Metropolitan Police at Riverside had one of their busiest days in years on last Sunday. More than a dozen canoe tipovers occurred at various points along the Charles River.

Building Commissioner Chadwick stated yesterday that permits issued for the month of August have as large a valuation as those issued in July. The value of permits issued since January 1st is about $9,000,000. This is more than double the value of permits issued for the similar period of last year. As the Aldermen have the erection of several large public buildings in mind, it is problematical that this great increase in valuation will lower the 1926 tax rate.

Powers' Paragraphs

We returned from our annual vacation this week. Part of our yearly "rest" period was spent in taking an automobile trip along the Maine coast as far as St. Andrews, New Brunswick. This little town, which boasts a swank hotel, is only about 25 miles beyond the U. S. A. border from Calais, Me., but this was far enough for us to travel after motoring for many miles over long stretches of poor highway along Route 1 in Maine. Inasmuch as summer tourists provide Maine with its leading source of income, it would seem that the Pine Tree State should at least have its most used highway in better condition than it is over much of its length. New Hampshire and Vermont, though receiving far less revenue from tourists than does Maine, have longer stretches of cement roadways on their principal highways than one observes between Brunswick and Calais, or even between the Bowdoin College town and Ellsworth. According to figures printed in the "Boston Herald" yesterday $100,000,000 was spent by tourists in Maine this season.

The outstanding scenic spot in Maine is Cadillac Mountain on Mount Desert Island. The view from this elevation on a clear day is worth the 275 miles trip from Newton. According to the history written by Ida Tarbell, old John D. Rockefeller resorted to some very unethical methods in building up the Standard Oil Company. But many commendable philanthropies and public benefits have been since financed by the Rockefeller fortune, and the assistance given to permit the construction of the wonderful road up Cadillac Mountain has brought pleasure and a marvelous panorama to hundreds of thousands.

We stopped for gasoline at a pump outside a small market and grocery in a little town not far this side of Eastport. The owner of the place was an intelligent appearing, middle-aged man of serious mien, wearing an old fashioned blue smock. We asked him—"What do the folks up this way think of the big Quoddy project over Eastport way?" His answer was—"Well, naturally we are glad. You know we folks up here in Washington County are a dying race, and any thing that will help us, we welcome."

He explained that the sardine and lumber industries which formerly had provided livelihoods for the residents of Northeast Maine, have dwindled away, and economic conditions there have been very bad. The big hydro-electric project at and near Eastport is giving employment to hundreds of men and women of that section of Maine. The wages specified for laborers, $14.50 per month, are not enthusiastic married men who live too far to commute to Eastport daily. They contend that this wage would hardly give them enough to pay for their board and lodging at the project vicinity, and would leave nothing for the support of their families.

Just why should Rumford avenue, an unaccepted street at the Waltham line be improved without cost to the owners of adjoining properties and at the expense of Newton taxpayers? There are no residences on this street which runs through a swamp and it is used as part of the route of the Middlesex & Boston line from Newton to Auburndale. This line serves many residences in Waltham. There are many unaccepted streets in Newton in terrible condition on which hundreds of residences are located. Owners of these residences have been paying taxes to the city for many years, but they would have to pay large betterment assessments to have their streets improved and accepted. Why the discrimination?

One street not included in the list of those to be resurfaced under the WPA projects is Watertown st. God knows it needs resurfacing. And so do the motorists who must use it. It carries a steady procession of heavy trucks during the day and night hours.

According to reports from the State House, Insurance Commissioner DeCelles is to announce the new automobile compulsory insurance rates today. It has been stated that there will be an appreciable decrease in rates for Boston, Revere, Chelsea and Cambridge—and an increase for Newton and Brookline. Of course there is no political significance in this; no punitive motive.

Many, including the writer, will approve of Mr. DeCelles' action in raising rates in certain towns in which are located hundreds of summer camps. The reason for the increase in rates in these places being given as a result of many persons who reside in these camps for only two or three months getting their cars registered from these addresses to avoid paying the higher rates which they would have to pay if they gave the addresses of their permanent homes, as the law specifies. Not only should the poorer classes who summer in Burlington, Wilmington, Billerica and such towns receive this attention from Mr. DeCelles, but, also the wealthier automobile owners who have summer homes in more exclusive resorts, and who have been registering their cars from their summer addresses.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. BENTLEY

Fall Flirtation

Hardly the poetic nature rising to the top, and yet, when I think of autumn there appear in my mind's eye rows and rows of marvelously preserved and canned foods, stored already in the pantry or on the kitchen table, soon to be shelved. Golden pears, luscious raspberries, delectable peaches, richly palatable currants, blueberries—these and more beckon enticingly through the glass sides of their jars. Winking roguishly, I tip my hat. "Ah, there, darlings," I whisper. "See you later!"

Men in Evening Clothes

An occasion which demands evening dress and is intended to draw all sorts of men together is one I would never miss. Observation of conventionalities still remains a solemn obligation with many. Attending such an affair, since last year and I talked things over in this column, I experienced two emotions. The first was my own struggle to meet requirements and the other what triumphs my fellow celebrators had reached in accumulating suitable attire.

Looking about me I saw, among other things, what I am confident was the oldest modern dress suit in America, if you get my meaning. The man who wore it, if he was its original possessor, had shrunk, whereas the suit had retained its earlier proportions. This made him look a trifle lost and emphasized the bagginess. But he was brave and indifferent and moved about with sangfroid, which is the only way to do if you happen to know a little French.

Another had the toga in which he was married, so he said, and although we did not discuss dates I am certain he will soon celebrate his 50th wedding anniversary or thereabouts.

Some of the shirt bosoms were short and narrow, causing them to protrude at awkward points. Some were soft and ruffled and others angled. Several white vests had an antique suggestion. Collars ran from the flat, turned-down style to the high, stiff and wide-wigged. The variety was amazing and proved that somebody at home (no doubt a thoughtful wife) had preserved all portions of the raiment against the ravages of moths and time.

Failure of tailors to induce men to buy new outfits surprises me. I should expect them to be hammering away on the public mind to make us men "evening clothes conscious." Personally, I'm not fussy about it for I have a taste for the weird and wonderful even on myself.

Wasted Effort

Breaking-up the summer home, no matter how humble it may have been, is hardly a pleasant duty. Yet it is going on all around these days. A young man, whose Newton habitat is not far from me, tells how his regret at parting was made less doleful, and all by his good mother. She had gone back to get the winter home in order, and during her absence the dutiful son, who still has two more years in college, decided to clean the place, a seashore cottage, from top to bottom. He assures me he never scrubbed floors and washed woodwork with greater earnestness. Next day his mother arrived to close up. Not a word did she say about the results of her boy's efforts. Finally he asked, "Mother, how does the cottage look to you, pretty fine?" Mother paused and looked about her, "It will be after I've cleaned it," she replied.

Misplaced Sympathy

News reporters have a reputation for cynicism. If it is deserved, something is responsible. They observe many sides of life and no doubt are impressed more by the unusual than the commonplace. From one of the I learned the circumstances surrounding a fatal automobile accident. Two of three occupants of a car had been instantly killed when the machine skidded into a tree and was completely wrecked. The driver, who was also the owner, escaped with only a shaking up. He stood apart from the wreckage while the police and physicians performed their grim duties and newsgatherers and photographers deluged and took pictures. Hard-bitten as they were, several of the group felt a touch of sympathy for the lone survivor. "Too bad," they said. "Yes," he answered, as he viewed the ruined vehicle, "that was a swell car—could do 80 easy."

Sauntering with Science

I was making my way among the parked cars back of the State House when I saw sticking-up from the rear mud-guard of a snappy-looking automobile a contrivance, which at a distance, appeared like a horse-whip. I felt that here was an attempt to blend modern mechanical progress with the horse and buggy days. An odd happening, I counseled myself. Soon, however, my view changed and it struck me that this gadget was really a jointed fish-pole of steel, stuck in a convenient socket. The lower joint was the larger and the upper the smaller, an even graduation of sizes, all along, just like I had seen fishermen employ. Strolling by and watching me in my studies was a traffic policeman, and so I said, "Of course that isn't a fish-pole, but it does look like one, doesn't it, officer?"

"Whatever it looks like it's the newest scheme for a radio in an automobile," he replied. "Antenna," I replied, knowingly. "Ah! how," he rejoined.

I looked up Satisfy and it says—

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

By JACK MORRIS

TWO-LEAGUE TO HOLD TENTH ANNIVERSARY

The tenth anniversary banquet of the Newton Twilight League of the Newton Playground Department will be held next Thursday evening, Sept. 12th, at 7:00 o'clock at the Newton Catholic Club, West Newton. Mayor Weeks and many members of the Board of Aldermen have accepted invitations to be present as has ex-Mayor Edwin O. Childs who was Mayor of the city when the league came under playground auspices.

Superintendent of Playgrounds, Ernst Hermann, whose foresight made the league possible, will be an honored guest and will recount briefly the early history of the league and its purposes.

Five vandeville acts have been secured and it is expected that Bill Werber and "Babe" Dahlgren, who are Newton residents, will be able to induce their teammates "Lefty" Grady, "Wes" Farrell and Manager Cronin of the Boston Red Sox to accompany them to the banquet.

Chairman Barwise of the banquet committee has lined-up a hang-up program which will be terminated by the presentation of the championship trophies, Silver Baseballs to the League Champions, Newton Catholic Club, and Gold Baseballs to the City Champions, Newton A. C.

Nearly two hundred tickets have already been disposed of and Chairman Barwise states that interested male baseball fans who wish to attend this banquet may still secure tickets from him by calling Newton North 5073, as provision has been made for 250 people.

NEWTON A. C. WINS THREE IN ROW FOR TITLE

Producing only one run for their pitchers in 22 innings, the hitherto hard-hitting Catholic Club fell easy prey to the Newton A. C. in three straight games by scores of 5-0, 6-0 and 2-1. In only the last game did the "Club" show its fighting qualities, this third game going to eleven innings and ending with Charlie Gallagher on third base when Marruzzo struck out on three pitched balls for the final out.

Great interest was developed in this final series and it is rumored that the backers of the "Club" helped in no small manner to make this holiday a financial success for the boys from Nonantum.

The final game opened in the usual manner for the "Aces". Lombardi reached first on an error and as in each of the previous games was sacrificed to second by Louis Tabaldi. Lochiatti hit through short and the Aces were in the lead. Catholic Club scored an earned run in the fourth to tie the score and both pitchers did excellent work until the eleventh when Francis Tabaldi tripled to score Herlby with what proved to be the winning run. In the last half of this inning, C. Gallagher tripled to right center and the Catholic Club had the tying run on third with no one out. Many thought the smart thing to do would be to replace Byrne, who hadn't been hitting against Colletti, with Leo Cannon, a left-hand hitter, and squeeze in the tying run. Byrne was allowed to hit and struck out. Red Gallagher, the next hitter, was expected to bunt but he hit in short right and the ball was caught by second baseman, Joe Herlby. If C. Gallagher had been held on the bag he could easily have scored. The last hitter for the Catholic Club was Marruzzo. Again the critics felt Cannon should be substituted. He was not, however, and Marruzzo struck out on three curveballs to end the series.

Joe Colletti pitched marvelous ball, allowing only four hits for the eleven innings and being credited with winning three of the five games in the play-off series. "Red" Joyce was not far behind and with better support would not have lost this game. The "Aces" proved to be the snappier and cleaner fielding team, making but a single error to the Clubs' three, and through their play in the series deserve to be known as City Champions.

EIGHTY-SIX OUT FOR FOOTBALL AT NEWTON

Eighty-six boys reported yesterday to Coach Ralph M. Sanborn at Newton High School for the opening practice session of the 1935 season. While the initial turnout was larger than expected, making the squad difficult to handle, many more boys will be outfitted next Wednesday at the first practice of the regular school season.

Coach Sanborn drove down from his summer camp in Maine yesterday morning to put his new squad through morning and afternoon workouts, and will follow the opening day's light work with two more conditioning drills today. Tomorrow there will be only one workout, and on Monday the regular afternoon practice sessions will be inaugurated, since the school will begin on that day.

Material Plentiful

While he has no extravagant predictions to make concerning the season at hand, Sanborn is rather pleased that the Newton A. C. in three straight games by scores of 5-0, 6-0 and 2-1. In only the last game did the "Club" show its fighting qualities, this third game going to eleven innings and ending with Charlie Gallagher on third base when Marruzzo struck out on three pitched balls for the final out.

Newton has no freshman or junior high school football, so that the varsity coaches have to rely heavily on the junior varsity teams, but there is compensation in the keen competition for places on the varsity eleven. With more than a hundred boys trying for the team, there will be little let down until the last cut has been made.

Those in uniform at the early practice sessions were Albert McAnis, Jr., Ralph Barisano, C. C. Bonediet, John Houdreau, Charles Callahan, Eugene J. Callahan, Joseph A. Campbell, Jr., Ralph Carno, John Cavanaugh,

Kiwanis Club

The Kiwanis Club was addressed at its regular Tuesday meeting by Rupert C. Thompson, Secretary of the Newton Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Thompson's subject was "The Position of Chambers of Commerce Throughout the Country with Relation to Recent Acts of the Present Administration." The two principal acts which Mr. Thompson discussed were the National Recovery Act and the National Housing Act. He pointed out that where these measures had the support of the Chamber of Commerce in the city or town the benefits were invariably secured.

Mr. Thompson gave some recent figures in connection with the NHA drive which has been conducted all over the country. His figures showed that Newton people have spent $4 on repair work as compared with $1 for the rest of the country. Or, in other words, the average Newton resident has spent four times as much on property improvements in the last year as has the average citizen throughout the United States.

Mr. Thompson told how the Chamber of Commerce is endeavoring to help business men in all kinds of business here in Newton and explained that the Chamber was organized and ready to help in any way possible.

Broke Sunday Law; Is Fined $10

William Karalekas, 27, of 202 Boylston st., Watertown, who conducts a fruit market at Centre st. and Norwood ave., Newton Centre, was fined $10 in the Newton court last Friday for having work done at his premises on Sunday. A couple of weeks ago Karalekas applied to the Newton police department for a permit to have a concrete driveway built at his property on a Sunday. Both Chief Hughes and Captain Vedicchio testified that they had refused to give Karalekas permission to have this work done on a Sabbath Day. Captain Vedicchio contended that the work was of an emergency nature, and the proximity of a church which brings a large amount of traffic on Sunday was another reason for refusing the permit. Notwithstanding the refusal Karalekas went ahead and had seven men building the concrete driveway on a Sunday. The police made him stop the work and he received a summons to appear in the Newton court. When he did not appear, he was arrested by Patrolmen Monroe and Taffe.

John Fallon Hit By Automobile

John Fallon of 300 Centre street, Newton was hit last Friday evening at 5:40 by an automobile driven by Charles E. Cunningham of 35 Lewis street, Newton. The accident happened on Washington street, opposite the bank building at Newton Corner. Mr. Fallon received slight injuries and was treated by Dr. Cummings.

Postal Carriers At Convention

Letter Carriers Joseph M. Bishop and John J. Shea of the Chestnut Hill Post Office and Thomas J. Noonan of the West Newton Office left last Saturday by auto to attend the National Convention at Cleveland, Ohio.

Currier Bishop is attending his twentieth convention having been elected a delegate from Boston to the National Convention of 1888 held in San Francisco.

Mr. Bishop had completed 44 years in the Postal service and was placed on the retired list 5 years ago. On account of his long years of experience in Postal Affairs he was the only retired carrier to be honored by this distinction.

Baby Suffocated At Newton Centre

Patricia Davis of 28 Cummings road, Newton Centre, 5 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis, was suffocated last Friday afternoon about 5 o'clock under a rubber sheet in her crib. The baby's mother had placed her in the crib and returned about 10 minutes later to find that a rubber sheet which was on the side of the crib had fallen on the infant and smothered it. A call for aid was sent to the police and fire departments and Dr. Deroy of 571 Commonwealth avenue also responded. Patrolmen Taffie and Monroe applied the prone method of resuscitation and a crew of firemen from Ladder 1 used an inhalator in vain efforts to revive the baby. The dead child was the younger of two children of Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

Judge Lenient to Youth Out of Job

Victor Ferreira, 21, of Natlek was arraigned in the Newton court on Tuesday charged with refusing to furnish information about himself to Patrolman Thomas Walsh of the Metropolitan police when asked to do so. Walsh came upon the youth parked in a car near Echo Bridge, Upper Falls and asked him to show his license and to give his name and address. Ferreira's lawyer told Judge Bacon that his client was kept in jail 3 days following the arrest because he could not get bail, and that he had also lost his job. The judge agreed that this was sufficient punishment and placed the case on file.

Refuses To Let Girl Take Blame

Hallowell Morgan, Jr., a student at the Harvard Graduate School of Business was fined $5 in the Newton court last Friday for speeding, and $5 for driving without a license. Morgan was driving a car when he was stopped by Officer Hammell for speeding. His companion in the car, Nancy Holdsworth, 19, of Sears road, Brookline produced her driving license and told the policeman that Morgan was driving on her license. She was therefore summoned into court as the defendant. Morgan apparently decided not to let the girl assume the blame and appeared in court with her when the case came to trial. He told Judge Bacon he had a Pennsylvania driving license, but it was not in his possession when he was stopped. The charge against the girl was placed on file.

The spacious garden of Mrs. Francis Woodward Davis of Waban, with its green terraces and sparkling pool, was the scene last Friday afternoon, Aug. 30th, of a beautiful wedding when Miss Suzanne Davis became the bride of Mr. William Haven King of Richmond, Va. Because of the heavy rain, a tent was erected over the altar with a nuptial reaching to the house and street. Dr. Lloyd Gillett of Emmanuel Church in Boston officiated at the four-thirty o'clock ceremony, which was followed by a reception. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Cyrus Yale Ferris.

Satin in the palest shade of blue, fashioned the bride's gown, which was made on princess lines. Her veil was of the same exquisite blue shade, and she carried white daisies. Miss John H. White of Waban was the matron of honor. She wore a gown of French blue with matching hat, and carried white and Chinese red gladioli, a handsome color combination. The gowns of the six bridal attendants contrasted with that of the matron of honor. They wore thurston frocks with matching hats and carried delphinium in three exquisite shades, and peach gladioli.

In the bridesmaids' group were Miss Maribel Vinson of New York and Winchester, Miss Susanna Saville of Dallas, Texas; Miss Polly Paine of West Newton and Duxbury; Miss Mary Elizabeth Stanwood of Wellesley Hills and Squirrel Island, Me.; Miss Marion Ferris of Akron, Ohio, and Miss Diane Cummings of New York City. The bride attended the Beaver Country Day School and the Erskine School. She is very well known in the skating world and was the 1934 holder of the women's figure skating championship, and that same year won the national pair dancing championship with Mr. Frederick Goodridge of Cambridge. This year she was runnerup to Miss Vinson, one of her bridesmaids, for the women's championship. She is a member of the Boston Skating Club and was one of the stars in the skating carnival at the Arena last March.

Mr. King is the son of Mrs. James Edward King of Richmond, Va. He was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1933, where he was a member of Psi Upsilon and Casque and Gantlet. Oak Hill Residents Protest Against Unlimited Operation Of Gravel Pits There

Urge That Time Be Set To Stop Spread of Gravel Pits Over Wide Area in That Section

Controversy over the far spread gravel pit activities at Oak Hill, which has been waged annually and semi-annually for years at City Hall before meetings of the Aldermen, was renewed again on last Monday night when a hearing was held on another petition of George S. Wilbur for a renewal of the permits for operating the plant off Viswall rd. Mr. Wilbur repeated information he has given Aldermen on previous occasions. He stated that the property included 71 acres, and, when he bought it, consisted largely of swampy area with glacial ridges of gravel. He said there have never been any objections from neighbors or neighbors. James P. Esty of 961 Dedham st., on whose property Wilbur has extended his gravel pit activities, favored the renewal. He said the pit has given employment to many men, and not to grant a renewal of the permit would leave a large area in a partly unfilled condition.

Henry S. Cummings, secretary of the Oak Hill Village Improvement Association, read a protest against the renewal of the permit. He said in part: "Residents of the Oak Hill District have repeatedly appeared before you to express their annoyance and disapproval of the granting of a Permit for Gravel Pit operations within their community. The entire section is zoned for residential purposes only, yet a gravel pit has been permitted to operate here for over six years, each year setting so much further involved that cessation has become increasingly difficult to force or even expect."

Aldermen Decide On Oak Hill School Site

Following a long meeting in secret session on Monday night, it was announced by Aldermen McKay, when the Board resumed its open session, that the members of the joint committee on school sites, the aldermen members being McKay, Atkins and Lyon, had decided on a site for the proposed new school at Oak Hill. It was not stated where the location will be, but it is understood that the site decided on is about seven acres of the Barry farm near Greenwood st. This will be taken in conjunction with 40 acres of land which is to be donated by the Hurley family. Arnold Hartmann, the Badger estate and several others. The 47 acres will provide for one of the largest civic centers in Greater Boston.

12 Qualify For Appointment As School Doctors

On September 6th the eligible list was published of Newton physicians who had taken an examination on June 15th for appointment as School Physicians in Newton. The names and addresses of the physicians who qualified are:

Louis I. Skirball, Vet., 14 Exmoor rd., Newton Ctr.; William T. O'Halloran, Vet., 107 Centre ave., Newtonville; Luther G. Eastman, Vet., 69 Grove st., Auburndale; George F. H. Bowers, Vet., 156 Woodward st., Newton Highlands; Joseph E. Flynn, 457 Washington st.; Randall W. Rutherford, 31 Institution ave., Newton Ctr.; Joseph D. Ferrone, 860 Beacon st.; Robert E. Glendy, 219 Commonwealth ave.; John R. Barker, 16 Austin st.; Richard N. Shields, 17 Park st.; Hyman Shrier, 229 Chapel st.; Evelyn B. Ellus, 20 Orchard ave., Waban.

Want Gasoline Station On Centre St., Newton Corner

The old Basset estate on Centre st., Newton Corner, next to the Waterhouse line at Williams st., will soon be converted into a gasoline station if a petition presented to the Board of Aldermen on last Monday night is granted. Arthur B. Green of Needham appeared for the petitioner, his wife, Pearl Green, who is one of the four owners of the estate. Mr. Green said that the property has been owned by one family for the past 78 years and has a frontage of 209 feet on Centre and Galen sts.; 70 feet of this being on Galen st. in Watertown. Mr. Green told the Aldermen that the property is in a business zone and that all possibilities have been canvassed to dispose of it. He said that chain store companies and such concerns as Sears, Roebuck Company and Montgomery Ward had turned down offers for the sale of the property. He stated that the number of vacant stores at Newton Corner had retarded the sale of the property for business purposes and the only opportunities are to sell it to gasoline companies for a filling station, or to have the property remain undeveloped. Four large gasoline companies are ready to negotiate for the purchase of the property if a permit can be obtained. A survey has shown that an average of 600 cars per hour pass the place between early morning and midnight.

A permit has already been granted by the Town of Watertown for a Sunoco filling station on that part of the property located in Watertown. In connection with this station, the Newton Aldermen on Monday night granted a permit for a 25 foot driveway on the Newton side adjoining the station which is to be located on the Watertown side. The petition for the additional station on the Newton side met with no opposition, and was referred to the Licenses Committee.

Trustees Will Fully Control Cousens Fund

Control by the Newton Board of Aldermen of the large fund left by Horace Cousens for the purpose of enabling Newton residents of limited means to own their own homes, will pass from the Aldermen if an ordinance change recommended to the Board on last Monday night is accepted. When he made the request about a half century ago, Mr. Cousens specified in his will that the Newton Board of Aldermen should select the beneficiaries of the fund and decide on the loans. When the fund became available several years ago, the then Board of Aldermen, at the suggestion of the City Solicitor and the Mayor, voted to authorize a Board of Trustees, not members of the Board of Aldermen. In order to legally conform with Mr. Cousens' will, the Aldermen have had to approve the many loans on real estate made by the trustees. The purpose of the change is to simplify the work of the trustees. The fund, which amounts to about a half million dollars, has been largely converted from bonds into loans on real estate.

When the trustees started to function, it was proposed that the Aldermen vote to approve loans without knowing any details such as the names of those obtaining mortgage loans, the location of the properties on which the loans were made, or the amounts loaned. A member of the then Board of Aldermen protested, and as a result a compromise was agreed upon whereby the details were given privately to the Aldermen, but not revealed to open Aldermanic meetings. The purpose of this being to keep the names of those receiving loans from becoming public. This information, however, like information regarding all mortgage loans, is published weekly in a Boston financial newspaper.

Alderman Colby Submits Plan to Aldermen For New Ward Lines in Newton

Would Limit Wards to Present Number, Combine Wards 1 and 7; Create New Ward South of Boylston St.

Alderman Clarence Colby of Ward 7, who is a member of the special committee of the Board appointed to consider the matter of redistricting this city by Wards, submitted a plan to his fellow members on Monday night. Each member was given a map of the city showing the proposed changes. Accompanying the maps was a report made to the Committee on Legislation by Alderman Colby. In his plan Mr. Colby has retained the present village communities so far as possible as well defined political units of the city.

His report is as follows: I am submitting a suggested plan for redistricting the City of Newton. In working out the suggestion which I am enclosing I have kept in mind the following general policy:

1. The maintaining of seven wards in the City of Newton, which is our present set-up.
2. The maintaining of ward lines in such a manner as not to divide villages or sections of the city which have a community of interest.
3. To allow not more than one ward to a village.

Highland Gas Station Comes Up Again

Several months ago a hearing was held at City Hall on a petition of Anna Delaney for a permit to establish a gasoline filling station at the northeast corner of Walnut and Floral sts., Newton Highlands. Opposition was registered against the petition and Ward 5 aldermen opposed it. It was argued that the proximity of the lots to the railroad bridge, which obscures the view, the passing of many school children, and the fact that there is a bus terminal opposite, are reasons why the permit should not be granted. The petition was refused.

At the meeting of the Aldermen on Monday night, Alderman McKay who had voted against the permit, said that at the hearing on this matter, many were in favor and since that time many neighbors and authorities had stated they prefer a filling station at the site rather than stores. McKay said that although he has a strong personal objection to more gasoline stations, the neighbors of Mrs. Delaney have a right to another hearing for such a station.

perley seconded the motion. He said he had voted against granting the permit, but he since found one of the objectors has a son working in a nearby filling station. On a rising vote all the aldermen favored that another hearing be held and waived the rule that only one hearing on such a petition may be held in one year.

Slight Increase In Auto Insurance

The 1936 compulsory automobile liability insurance increases the rate on Class W and Class X cars in Newton from $36 to $36.20 and eliminates guest insurance unless the insured pays an additional $3.25. On Class Y cars there is a reduction from $40 to $38.10 with the guest clause also eliminated.

Another Case Of Infantile

The seventh case of infantile paralysis to be reported in this city was that of Robert D'Amico, 7, of 312 Langley rd. The child was taken to the Newton Hospital on Sept. 6th and the case definitely diagnosed as infantile paralysis on the ninth. It is reported as a mild case.

Infected Foot Confines Mayor Weeks to Bed

Mayor Sinclair Weeks has been confined to his bed the past week because of a badly infected right foot. A week ago Sunday the Mayor was scalded on this foot when he accidentally overturned a kettle of hot water during a picnic at his summer estate in Lancaster, N. H. The burn was treated by a physician and his foot bandaged for a few days. When the Mayor returned to Newton last week he removed the bandages too soon and the foot became badly infected. He was ordered by his physician to remain in bed to give the foot a chance to heal.

THE LOUISIANA TRAGEDY

The deplorable tragedy in Louisiana has made itself felt throughout the length and breadth of this country. No matter what we may think of the late Senator Huey P. Long's methods, politics or talents, his assassination is deeply to be regretted. As many have remarked since the incident early in the week the use of bullets instead of ballots to decide a political controversy is un-American and unworthy of the so-called civilized western world. His courage and his kind-heartedness to his friends and followers will long be remembered, as will his oratorical powers and his political prowess.

Senator Long ruled Louisiana with an iron hand. By his personal magnetism and a ruthless lashing of those who stood in his way or opposed his wishes he built up a political machine second to none in the long political history of this country. Unsavory as the workings of his political organization may at times have been, Senator Long instituted many political reforms. He distributed free text books to the children of Louisiana; he built two thousand miles of good roads while he was Governor; and erected a five million dollar state capitol in which the fatal shooting took place. He had many failings, his ways were often uncouth, his language at times was coarse and his attitude toward his opponents overbearing. In many ways he was a political menace to the good of the country.

What the result will be in the death of Senator Long no one will ever accurately know. There already have been many opinions expressed as to the effect of the event upon national politics. There seems to be little question that he was a thorn in the side of the Democratic administration and there may well have been considerable in his threat to lead a third party in the coming presidential campaign. Out of the tragedy there may come a continuation of the revolting trend toward rule by violence yet it is more to be hoped that there will be an awakening by the people of Louisiana and the nation and a speedy return to sound government.

AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE RATES

The 1936 compulsory automobile insurance rates announced last week differ slightly from those of the present year. Newton will have a slight increase in rates even with the elimination of the so-called guest clause. That Newton was due for an increase in rates was foreshadowed by the increased number of accidents in which Newton autos figured. The reduction in the number of zones by Commissioner DeCelles has resulted in an increase in some sections and a decrease in others. The elimination of the guest clause, however, is the real reason that the 1936 rates will be slightly higher, on the whole, than those at present. If an automobile driver wants guest coverage he must pay an additional premium which brings the total cost of 1936 insurance considerably higher than that of 1935 for the same protection. Commissioner DeCelles has publicly stated that anyone who takes out guest coverage is openly admitting failure as a conscientious driver. In this view the commissioner is absolutely wrong. Thousands of drivers will continue to take out guest coverage because they know that circumstances over which they have no control may cause injuries to persons riding with them. And we have no doubt that the insurance companies will gladly issue guest coverage to those drivers who are not classed as poor risks. The longer the question of compulsory insurance exists the more convinced we are becoming that the only adequate solution is the repeal of the present law and substitution of a financial responsibility act.

THE CHANGING TIMES

Secretary Rupert C. Thompson of the Newton Chamber of Commerce informs us that he has been giving considerable thought to the question of opening of retail stores on Friday evenings. It is surprising how the changing times have changed ideas of shoppers. Some years ago retail stores did a considerable volume of business on Saturday evening, but today this volume has fallen off to a large extent. In many places where stores have kept open for business on Friday evenings they have showed a marked increase in sales. Whether or not this would be the situation in the Newtons can only be determined after a fair trial. The retail storekeepers are asking the question—does the public want to shop Friday evenings? It would be a great help to the merchants if the public would give their views on the subject.

Newton motorists welcome the news that several important streets are to be resurfaced provided approval is obtained from Washington under the WPA plan. While the main arteries have been kept in fairly good shape some of the less important intersecting streets have had nothing more than a yearly patching. Street resurfacing is an expensive but it would seem practical to perfect a five or ten year plan, spending the same approximate money each year on such work.

We still hope that Postmaster Hurley will retain his position although "Sunny Jim" Farley wants Peter Tague.

A few years ago the tendency was to "go modern"—today in Massachusetts it seems to be "go Democratic."

When Italy and Ethiopia meet will the result be Utopia?

The new school on Nevada st. will soon be officially named the Frank F. Carr School. It was revealed this week. This name will be recommended to the School Committee at the next meeting by the sub-committee which was appointed to make the selection of a name. It is understood that the Committee is unanimously in favor of the sub-committee's choice of a name and doubtless Mayor Weeks will confirm the designation of the new school as the Carr School. The late Frank F. Carr was a pioneer in the founding of the junior high school system and much of his work was accomplished in the area now served by the new grammar school as principal of the F. A. Day Jr. High where he served from its opening in 1922 until 1931. In that latter year he went to the new Weeks Junior High where he served until his sudden death last January. Previous to the opening of the Day School he had served as principal of the Clifton Grammar School, coming to Newton in 1904. The naming of the new school as a memorial to Mr. Carr's valued service to Newton schools for more than thirty years is a fitting tribute and doubly so in that the new school is located in an area over which he had jurisdiction in school matters for many years.

Incidentally the new Carr School is practically the last word in modern school construction. It is well worth one's while to visit the school to see at first hand the many new ideas that have been put into practice here. The new building is a long rectangle in shape with two short wings at the back which later can be extended to provide for additional rooms and facilities if desired. The classrooms are located at the front and on the ends of the two-story building for the advantages of natural light while the assembly hall, stock rooms, lavatories and the like are at the back of the building. Modern lighting equipment floods the building when necessary with a soft well-directed illumination and an adequate ventilating system supplies the rooms and corridors with fresh air well above the maximum specified by state regulations. The ventilator shields in the various rooms have been specially constructed with rounded corners and finished to blend with the interior decorations. The corridors have been finished with acoustical proof material to minimize the noise of the passing of pupils. The assembly hall, seating nearly 400 will later be tested and the acoustics improved as found necessary. The inner clothes closets in each of the classrooms where the pupils leave their outdoor garments are fitted with light, noiseless sliding doors and with ventilation to take care of the dampness resulting from stormy weather. Even the toilet facilities for the kindergarten tots are reduced in size.

It is interesting to learn that the entire project which was handled in cooperation with the Federal PWA plan will cost considerably less than the estimate. Building Commissioner Hageman states that the cost, including a little less than $10,000 for furnishings, will be approximately $300,000 as against the estimated figure of about $340,000.

Now that the aldermen have selected a site for the new school and playground plans another step has been taken towards development of that section of the city. Few residents of Newton, particularly on the north side of the city, realize that practically one-quarter of the entire area within the city boundaries lies south of the Worcester turnpike. During recent years this area has developed somewhat but it is still sparsely settled. In years to come this section will play an increasingly important part in city affairs. With the growth in population there will come an increasing demand for participation in the advantages the city has to offer. It will require constant thought along these lines by the planning board and the aldermen to bring the Oak Hill section into as an integral part of the Garden City.

Contemplating future changes in the city we are reminded that many changes have taken place in the various sections of Newton in the past decade or two. Perhaps West Newton square has changed more noticeably in recent years than any other business section of the city although Newtonville and Newton Centre are in a position to coast for such honors. The changes in these two sections have been largely due to increased demand for places in business with the changes in West Newton have been more of a civic character. The first building constructed which made a marked appearance in this section was the Unitarian Church. Later followed the savings bank building and within more recent memory the razing of Players Hall and the stores at the corner of Chestnut street. On this latter site the branch library building and the branch of the Trust Company have improved West Newton immeasurably. More recently the new court house and police station and the demolition of the old city hall building where a small park has been laid out have further beautified this part of the city. Along with these improvements are other minor changes such as the widening of Elm street and the replacement of some of the older business blocks with more modern edifices. As one looks back over the years it is almost difficult to picture what West Newton square was twenty years ago.

Further Plans Of Community Chest Discussed

Further plans for the preparatory period of the 1935 Campaign of the Newton Community Chest were discussed in a meeting of the executives of the member-agencies of the Chest on Wednesday morning last. Those present were: Mrs. Mabel Worth, of the All Newton Music School; Miss Roth, Assistant Manager of the Stone Institute; Miss Gertrude MacCallum, of the West Newton Community Center; Miss Helen Sandstrom, of the Stearns School Community Center; Miss Hilga Nelson, of the Newton District Nursing Association; Miss McNelly, Assistant to Miss Harriet Parsons of the Newton Welfare Bureau; Miss Caroline Freeman and Miss Bessie Adams, of the Newton Girl Scout Council; Mr. Harry Bascom, of the Newton Y. M. C. A.; Miss Bertha Allen, Superintendent of the Newton Hospital; Mrs. Chester Keppeler, Recording Secretary of the Newton Circle; Mr. Harold Young of the Mayor's Relief Committee. In addition, the following Chest officials were present: Mrs. J. Earle Parker, Campaign Vice-Director in charge of the Women's Crusade and worker with Mesdames Decatur and Lord of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs; Mr. William B. Phelps, Chairman of the Public Relations Committee of the Newton Community Chest; Mr. William V. M. Fawcett, Chairman of the Opening Campaign Dinner, and Mr. L. A. Bruce, Jr., Executive Secretary of the Newton Community Chest.

Mrs. J. Earle Parker discussed the plans in detail with the group for the Women's Crusade, which will be held on Oct. 28th and 29th. Members of all women's organizations in the city will be invited to attend this Crusade. It will be in the form of a Motor Cavalcade starting from the Memorial Hall of the City Hall on each of the two afternoons. The tours will cover the offices and buildings of the member-agencies of the Chest.

Mr. William Phelps submitted his plan for the Speakers' Manual and requested specific information from the member-agencies. He pointed out that, after all, the success of the Community Chest Campaign depends upon the information which the public has about the member-agencies and the information and enthusiasm which the individual solicitor has for his job.

Mr. William Fawcett discussed the detail plans for the dinner including a brief dramatic presentation there of the work of each member-agency.

The group were most enthusiastic about the detail plans submitted to them and co-operated in their usual splendid fashion supplying information and ideas and suggestions to the three chairmen of these important phases of the Chest Campaign work.

NEWTON 60 YEARS AGO

Newton Republican, Sept. 9, 1876

There is not yet political enthusiasm enough in Newton to form a Tilden & Hendricks or a Hayes & Wheeler club. The attendance at the caucuses did not show much enthusiasm.

Chief Engineer Whipple and Engineer Judkins of the Fire Department and Policeman George Rigby are at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia this week.

The subject is being agitated of erecting a monument upon the spot memorable as the place where the Apostle Eliot preached his first sermon to the Indians. This spot is at the rear of the residence of P. C. Jones on Kenrick street, Newton.

Many persons have wondered what use could be made of the tower of Eliot Block at Centre and Elmwood streets, but the boys who have been practicing as a drum corps, having been ordered away from so many places on account of the noise made by them, have hired the tower of this block, and will hold their first rehearsal in it on Wednesday evening.

NEWTON 50 YEARS AGO

Newton Graphic, Sept. 12, 1885

The Newton Natural History Society in charge of Dr. J. F. Frisbie arrived at the Kearsarge House, North Conway on Monday evening. A portion of the group visited Mount Washington. The party arrived safely home on Thursday.

The quarterly report of the Overseers of the Poor was accepted at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday afternoon. The amount expended by the Charity Department during the three months was $2,692.25.

Tuesday evening as Policeman Bosworth was proceeding to Auburndale on the 8:30 train he was informed by the engineer that the body of a man was lying beside the tracks. Securing the services of the depot master, and a lantern he returned to West Newton but failed to find the body, as a switch repairer who had been lying down while making a connection on a parted rail had finished his work and departed.

While George F. Peck was picking apples in Lowell Smith's estate on Auburn street on Wednesday, he left his horse standing in the orchard. The horse became frightened and ran away, pulling the front wheels from the body of the wagon. The horse was stopped near the residence of Rev. Mr. Kimball, and the remainder of the wagon was badly demolished.

NEWTON 25 YEARS AGO

From Newton Graphic, Sept. 9, 1910

Because their wages had been cut from $2.00 to $1.80 per day, 200 Italian laborers employed by Cavanaugh Brothers, the contracting firm which is laying the immense main of the Metropolitan Water Works through Commonwealth avenue, struck Tuesday morning. Because of their threatening attitude toward a few men who remained at work, it was thought necessary to call the police. Sergeant Clay and six officers remained on duty throughout the day, until the men had been paid off.

Frances Lane, a 16 year old West Newton girl, distanced five other swimmers and swam the three miles between the Riverside Recreation grounds and the Moody street bridge in Waltham on Labor Day. Her time was 3 hours and 6 minutes. None of the others finished the swim.

The Registrars of Voters certified 116 names this week on a petition to have the direct nomination question placed on the ballot in this senatorial district. The names were obtained by a committee of Democrats.

Thomas Purcell, Jr. of Washington street, Lower Falls, employed as a driver by C. H. Spring Company was driving a heavy wagon along Worcester street on Wednesday when in some manner it was upset. He was hurled to the ground and one of his legs broken. He was taken to the Newton Hospital.

NEWTON 10 YEARS AGO

From Newton Graphic, Sept. 11, 1925

Whether or not John W. Weeks returns to his desk as Secretary of War, he will not lose his place in the affections of the people of Massachusetts, or his influence among them. The news that the Secretary is going to his summer home on Prospect Mountain is the best that has come from his household; for if any place on earth can restore a man to his normal vigor, such an exquisite spot as the Secretary chose for his hot weather residence will do so.

At the Hearty Contest Ball held in Provincetown Town Hall on last Wednesday night, Miss Mildred Beardsley of Crescent street, Auburndale was awarded a handsome loving cup as the prettiest girl in the hall. The dance was under the auspices of the American Legion.

Next week will see the climax of the dendlock between city authorities and the Middlesex & Boston management over the matter of transportation of pupils to and from high schools.

Edward H.

Powers' Paragraphs

We mentioned last week the fact that Watertown street is not included among those which are to be resurfaced under the proposed WPA projects in Newton and that it is in very bad condition. Adams street, which carries far less vehicular traffic than does Watertown street is to be resurfaced, and it is in better condition. What Adams street is badly in need of is better sidewalks. Few streets in Newton are traveled over by more pedestrians than is Adams street. The uneven, dangerous, dirt sidewalks should be replaced with concrete sidewalks without cost to abutters as were a number of sidewalks at Newton Upper Falls within the past few years.

At the meeting of the Aldermen on Monday night a recommendation was received from Mayor Weeks that $30,381 be appropriated for improving Rumford avenue, West Newton, under the general laws. In this column last week we criticized this proposal. Thousands of Newton taxpayers have been residing for years on unacceptable streets which are in deplorable condition. Many of these taxpayers in past years have asked that the Street Department only dump a few loads of gravel to fill in holes in some of these streets and those making such requests have been told that the law forbids the city co-operating to even this small degree. Now, it is planned to improve a narrow street running across a swamp, on which there are no residences, and where the property brings very little tax revenue to the city. Rumford avenue has been used for many years by the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway as part of the route which serves residents of the Wood avenue section in Waltham. In former years when industrial plants on Wood avenue employed hundreds of persons, many Newton residents worked in these factories. But, those prosperous times are past and the number from Newton now employed there is small by comparison. It would be more convenient for residents of this city if the M. & B. buses from Auburndale to Newton traveled via Lexington and Moody streets to Crescent street, Waltham, than by way of Rumford and Wood avenues.

Huey Long expected assassination and his fear was realized. Financial dictators can use subtle methods, but political dictators must be openly ruthless and therefore engender enmity which results in violence.

The Horse Show and Field Day held last Saturday at "Ard Righ" the estate of Mrs. Donnelly in Dover for the benefit of Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre, was a big success, socially and financially. A large committee assisted Bishop Francis Spellman in arranging the affair. The horse show was ably conducted by Mr. W. L. Sawyer of Newton Centre. Mrs. Harold H. Sawyer of Haverhill, Waban, won the silver cup as the owner of the horse scoring the most points. It was presented by Governor Curley. Among the attractions were Dan O'Mahoney and Don George, famous valetians. Several thousand persons attended the event.

Now, that the summer is nearly over and Newtonites have returned to this city, we can expect real activity to begin in the Mayoralty fight campaign. Much water will go over the dam between now and next December. We hope there will be less mud in it than was evident in the campaign two years ago.

Someone friendly to King Halle Selassie ought to advise that royal gentleman to quit wearing that costume that reminds one of an advertisement of a cod liver oil emulsion.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. BENTLEY

Saving Time and Ink

This week's mail revealed two things. One, that there are those who still have their vacations on their minds and the means with which to travel. The other was more important in a way as it brought a discovery. I am convinced I have found the quintessence of brevity.

On a post card—a plain, unornamented one—was my address where it should be and on the other side a message, from the White Mountains, all in capital letters, merely the first letter of each word, reading:

"I.L.A.W.F.W.Y.W.I.I."

It was signed by an office associate, who sought to tell me in his quaint way the following: "Having a wonderful time. Wish you were here."

Strictly Local Problem

Newton's official aversion to apartment houses may be a popular expression of the will of the majority but it is, nevertheless, accountable for the loss of several gains in my education. Indeed, I could do without some of the few things not which I have exhibited proficiency and be a better man if I possessed more general information about the homes of the modern city-dwellers.

I truly believe that had there been a generally large or even moderate number of apartment houses in our own beloved city I should have acquired a facility, now woefully lacking, for finding the correct number, pressing the right button and waiting either for a call down the tube or the clicking of the lock hiding me come in. Going about and doing these things every day in my own city, almost at my own door you might say, would have established confidence. As it is now I have a definitely amateurish way of approaching either a "walk-up" or a building where there is automatic elevator service.

My aching suffering, only the other day, may give you a slight idea what I am driving at. It was down in Allston, where I had an errand. I groped around that section between Brighton and Commonwealth avenues, noting the streets, until I found the place. Locating the party's name among the collection of little narrow brass plates, I pressed the corresponding button and then lifted up the speaking-tube. It was one of those devices that swing upward and outward, like an arm, with both transmitter and receiver in one. My ear was cocked as one should do in anticipation of an unswerving voice from above.

There had been scarcely time for reply than the front door was pulled open from the inside. There stood a man in overalls and jumper, a pair in his hand and a cigarette hanging from his upper lip. "Here," he yelled, "you can't use that thing."

With the indignation of an outraged citizen demanding his rights, I turned and angrily asked, "Why can't I use it?"

"'Cause it ain't workin'," came the reply in much softer tones.

In fact, the man, supposedly the janitor, was so willing to be of assistance that the rest of my adventure became tame and consequently of no interest. Like a Canadian "Mountie," or one of our own "G-men," I got my man, only it happened to be a family I was hunting.

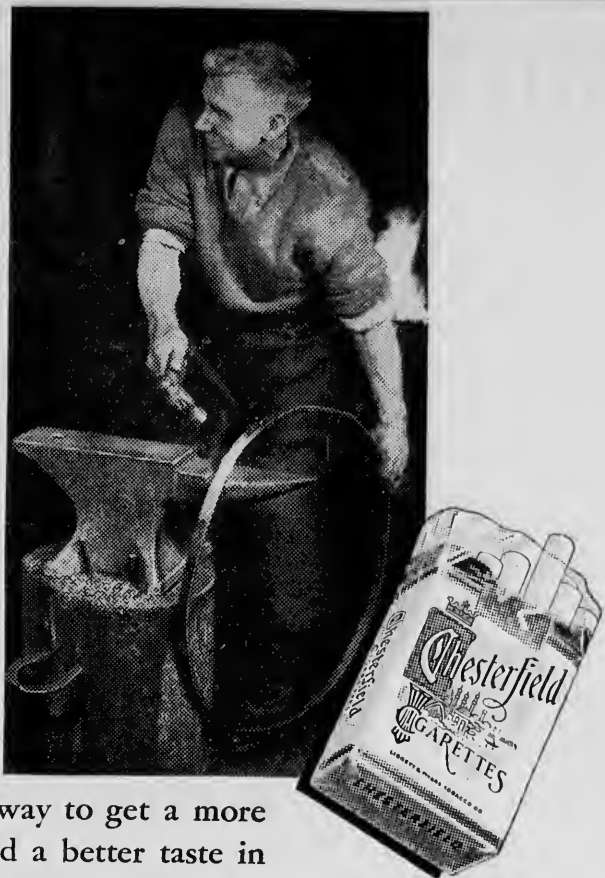

Heels Over Head

Happiness hits us in many ways. Children jump up and down; adults often hug each other or, if compelled to observe mild restraint, slap somebody or everybody on the back. Other evidence of jubilation is a matter of record. The top of all enthusiasm, as far as my observation has revealed, was the conduct of a middle-aged colored man. He was so delighted when informed that he was to have a regular job that he stood on his head. I saw him. It was no half-way stunt, either. Both palms were flat on the floor, his head touched it, too, and his legs were straight in the air. He held the position for at least half a minute. I waited for his gold-bowed spectacles to slip off, but they remained secure. No doubt this cheerful soul had learned the trick as a boy and kept in practice.

Humor of the Hills

Our rural neighbors may not have everything we city dwellers enjoy but there is little that escapes them. Chatting with a philosophical member of a small town Board of Selectmen, I commented upon the forlorn appearance of the bridge over the river bordering the town. It was part of the main artery of travel in that section of the State and as such, in my modest opinion, should be repaired, if not rebuilt. So I ventured, "Couldn't you induce the Federal Government to provide or lend the town necessary funds?"

"We thought of putting it up to the Government," he replied, solemnly, "but the estimated cost was so small we didn't think it would interest them."

Welding

... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco ...

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish. When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

Chesterfield... the cigarette that TASTES BETTER

Newton Seed Store Opens

The readers of the GRAPHIC will recall an announcement in its columns last April of the opening of a Lawn Supply department by the New England Toro Co. at 1121 Washington st., West Newton.

The acceptance by the home owners of Newton of the products offered by this new department has been so gratifying that already the space allotted for this part of the business has been outgrown, necessitating larger and more convenient quarters. This is being accomplished by completely rebuilding the front section of their building with a separate entrance to this department.

When seen by the GRAPHIC reporter, Mr. Orville O. Clapper, manager of N. E. Toro Co., said:

"Hardly a day has passed since we started the rebuilding of our store, that we have not been asked the question, 'Why a Seed Store in Newton?' The gladly folks seem to question the advisability of such a venture here and at this time. We have not the slightest doubt as to the success of this needed store.

"Before taking this step we made a long and careful study of the situation and are acting on the firm conviction that here in Newton, 'The Garden City', there is room for such a service as ours is planned to be. This feeling is partially supported by the excellent response of Newton home owners to our past offerings of Millorganite fertilizer, grass, flower and vegetable seeds from our Golf Equipment division, and by the fact that as one of New England's oldest and largest Golf Supply and Equipment houses carrying a full line of seeds, fertilizers, power and hand mowers and kindred items for the golf courses, we should be able to adapt our experience to proper selections of the needs of your garden, lawn and flower plantings.

"The opening of this department by us should in no way affect those long-established and excellently-managed seed houses of Boston whose names are known and respected by our many probable clients. On the contrary, it will help them considerably as we shall do our full share towards marketing quality materials at considerable prices.

"Our close proximity to your home, our ample parking space and lack of traffic congestion should make it convenient for you to call and inspect our new store.

"We have spared no effort to make the interior as attractive and convenient for you as possible."

There's lots of room in the FORD V-8

EVERY ONE who steps into the Ford V-8 for the first time is surprised at its roominess. There's exceptional seat room, leg room and head room in all body types—the whole car gives you a feeling of substantial size.

The Ford gives you extra body room because of the compact design of the V-8 engine—an exclusive Ford feature at a low price. This V-8 engine takes up less space in the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passenger comfort. Many a car selling at a higher price does not give you as much interior room as the Ford V-8.

Rear seats are wide and restful... three people can ride comfortably in the front seat of the Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Convertible Sedan and Phaeton, and in the Coupes and Roadster. The seat of the Ford V-8 Roadster is 52 inches wide. A ride in the Ford V-8 will show that it combines unusual body room with fine-car performance, safety and comfort.

CALIFORNIA GIRL WINS FROM ELENA IN FINALS

Elena Cleone of Newton Centre lost to Patricia Corinne Henry of Los Angeles in the final round of the National girls' tennis championships played last Wednesday at the Philadelphia Cricket Club in Philadelphia. The western ace, seeded fourth in her first attempt at the national title, beat the Massachusetts champion and third-seeded entry in two sets, 6-3, 8-6.

Miss Henry, whose most potent weapon was a chop drive, led 3-0 in the first set, then ran through to win a 6-3. She also led 5-3 in the second, but Elena rallied courageously and won the next three games and a temporary lead at 6-5. Miss Henry then broke Elena's service again and finished the match at 8-6.

Wins Early Matches Easily

Elena swept through her preliminary matches with decisive victories, and lost only one set in nine on her way to the final. After a week of rain had put the first round matches ahead from Monday to Saturday, the Newton girl came from behind with commendable courage in defeating Barbara Nields of Rye, N. Y., 3-6, 6-1, 6-3. The loss of that opening set seemed to have a stimulating effect, and Elena had little trouble the next day with little Helen Bernhard of New York City, whom she outplayed 6-4, 6-0. The result was a great boost for Elena, who had required a gruelling 14-12, 6-4 match to overcome the same plucky opponent in the national indoor championship semi-final last winter at Longwood.

Came the quarter-final round on Monday, and Elena pulled out a straight-set victory over Bunny Harshaw of Philadelphia, the girl who had put out Louise Hedlund of Watertown in short order the day before, winning 7-5, 6-0. On the same day, Elena teamed with Polly Morrill of Boston in a quarter-final doubles match, where they were defeated by Jean and Bunny Harshaw 6-3, 6-4.

Elena's semi-final opponent, Louise Raymond of Scarsdale, N. Y., couldn't keep pace, and the Newton girl won 6-2, 6-1. In the other half of the draw Patricia Henry played a 55-game marathon match with Virginia Hollinger of Dayton, Ohio, winning finally by 6-3, 16-18, 7-5. Miss Hollinger was the indoor titlist last winter, defeating Elena Cleone in the final at Longwood by 6-2, 6-1.

Patty Henry is eighteen this year, and consequently will be out of the girls' competition next year, whereas Elena Cleone has two more years to try for the coveted national championship. The Newton girl has returned to classes at Newton High School, having been forced to miss the first days when rain interfered with the start of the Philadelphia tennis.

ART AND BLOOD WIN HORSESHOE DOUBLES

Before an enthusiastic gathering of harrnyard golf fans "Art" and "Chick" Blood of Charlesbank Horse-shoe Pitching Club annexed the doubles championship of the City of Newton last Sunday afternoon at Cabot Park.

There were sixteen teams entered in the tournament and several aspects in the first match (Gibson and Sullivan, rated as one of the best teams, were eliminated by Wm. Wilkes, Jr. and R. Morrissey, two 17 year old youths, hitherto unheard of, by a score of 52-19. Curtis and Bartley of Norwood A. C. eliminated De-George and Perley Wilkes 50-27.

"Chick" Blood and Art defeated R. Morrissey and Harney 54-15. Gentle and Foley defeated Hewitt and Varney 52-33.

Hodgdon and O'Leary defeated Crough and Paquette 52-18. Cus-tean and Bell defeated Taylor and Zakarian 55-43.

P. Murphy and J. Murphy defeated Kenny and Dunham 50-17. Collins and Ryan defeated Wright and L. O'Leary 50-36.

Quarter final matches resulted as follows:

Murphy 51-24.

Cus-tean and Bell eliminated the Gentle and Curtis 53-22.

Hodgdon and O'Leary eliminated Shono Collins and Ryan 51-36.

Blood and Art eliminated Wilkes and Morrissey 50-43.

In this last match the former team got 13 rings and the latter 17.

In the semi-final Cus-tean and Bell gave O'Leary and Hodgdon the most one sided beating of the tournament, winning 50-5. Blood and Art had difficulty in defeating Gentle and Foley, the latter leading at 46-14 at one time. The final score was 50-46 with Blood and Art the winning combination getting 20 rings while the Blood-Art combination continued to get 20 rings a game.

The final match was a close one, which they won from Cus-tean and Bell by a score of 50-38 and 4 double ringers in the final game which they won by a score of 52-39. The losing combination got 16 ringers and 3 double ringers in the last match and 19 ringers 2 double ringers in the final match.

The great Shono Collins, who with his quarter finals, said that he could give a better account of himself in singles and invited the assembled horseshoe pitchers to participate in a sweepstakes to be held at his courts next Sunday p. m. at 2 o'clock.

Newton Highlights

Back To College

Perry Elrod is working out with the Brown Football men, but his Newton teammate, halfback Norman Appleyard, has not returned. Charlie Butler is again passing up the gridiron for hockey and baseball, as he did last year. Other returning Bruinians are Jack Skillings, tennis and hockey brilliant, and Bill Dickinson.

Jim Cahill and Jim Colligan are out for Al McCoy's Northeastern University eleven, the fleet Cahill as quarterback and the shot-putting Colligan as tackle. Fred Schipper is going back for another year at New Hampshire University, where he plays center for the football and hockey teams; and Joe Nolan, the very successful amateur boxer, also takes off for Durham next Tuesday, where boxing is a very strong activity. Bill Porter, whose sprint career has been jeopardized by a muscular injury to his knee, makes his start as a Boston University freshman this week.

Claude "Johnny" Frazer and Ewan Davis returned early for football at Bowdoin College, where Adam Walsh will inaugurate the Rockne system this fall; freshmen from Newton entering Bowdoin will include Jim Hunter, Ross McLean, Jim Stewart, Lewis Bruemmer, Duncan Whitehill and Al Thorsquist. Bill Spillman has been accepted at Penn State, which is not to be marvelled at, since Spilly would be acceptable at almost any institution sponsoring baseball, football, basketball, or hockey. Round Cul-len is off for Maryland to prepare for Annapolis at the Severn School, where the tennis season is twice as long as that in Newtonville.

Springfield College football hopes this fall will be built around Warren Hinson, who will do the passing, kicking, and ball-carrying, and run the team in the bargain. A Boston sports-writer asked the other night "Why did Warren Hinson go to Springfield?" implying that he should have gone to some university whose quadrangle is arranged around a football stadium. The answer is that Warren's first tutor in athletics, who painstakingly brought him along at junior high and at high school, was Frank M. Simmons, a Springfield alumnus, Warren probably realized that no other institution could better prepare him for coaching athletics, which may very likely be his ultimate profession.

SANBORN'S 170 LB. TEAM TRAINS FOR ARLINGTON

Newton High will open its football season a week from tomorrow at Arlington, and Coach Ralph M. Sanborn is fast shaping his varsity squad for that first game. Arlington is touted as the strong member of the Mystic Valley conference, but it remains to be seen whether the Spy Pond eleven can perform the weighty Newton line and outguess the veteran Newton backs.

Sanborn and his chief aide, Charles Conditine, have an even 400 pounds in tackles to throw against Arlington, since Allen "Oxo" Wilson and Howie Milner tip the beam at 202 and 198 respectively. Bob Provost, 185-lb. converted tackle, will be posted at the end next to Wilson, and Ralph Salvucci, 160-lb., will be at the opposite wing. The guards are Gerard De Napoli, 160-lb., and Carl Davis, 145-lb., heavy and hard as nails. Packard, another 180-pounder, will probably start at centre.

Savignano Will Run Team

Captain and quarterback, Ernie Savignano will call the turn in the huddle, and the other backs will probably be fullback John Rendon and halfbacks Bert Woodward and Ernie MacLeod. The first-string named here, while only tentative, is likely to take the field at Arlington next week. The line carries an average weight, end to end, of 175 lbs., the backfield an average of 165.

Coach Sanborn will give the squad their last workout of the week to day, and next Monday will begin to taper off the preparations for the first game. Using a novel coaching system, the Newton mentor gives no black-board diagram work and passes out no lineprints, but prefers skill practice that makes direct contact with the skill. Every play is memorized on the gridiron in actual practice sessions.

Herrick, Marrazzo Injured

While the varsity squad has been gradually cut to fifty, and will be further thinned out to thirty-eight boys, the total number of boys out for football at Newton is 175, and all have been furnished with complete equipment. During the coming week, coaches L. P. "Jef" Jones, Howard Ferguson and Beverly L. Wilson will segregate this unwieldy number into the conventional junior teams, intermediate, J. Y. "A" and J. Y. "B", but they remain in one squad for preliminary work.

Coach Sanborn's second varsity line for this week's practice comprised George Duane and Jim McEwen ends, John Tschel and Bob Whelden tackles, John Newcomb and Howard Gross guards, and Brad Thompson center. Bill Daniels was quarterback of the seconds, Red Callahan held one half-back position and the other alternated between Jack Herrick and Lloyd Walker, while Al Thompson, twin brother of Brad, played at fullback. Herrick took light work only after smashing his nose in Wednesday's contact work.

The varsity third team has C. C. Bendict and Bob Steinbeck on the wings, MacAuslan and Colony tackles, Wenger and McHugh guards, and William Loud, center. Loud is a transfer from Birmingham, Michigan, experienced and heavy. This team has Johnston at quarter, Fitchet at full-back, and two fast halfbacks, Joyce and Cormier.

John Marrazzo, temporarily on the injured list, has shown promise as a back, and so has Bill Smith, Adolph DeSantis, Don Manchester, Bill Kenney, Paul Forte and Sylvio Paulini. Forte is fast, Paulini inexperienced but learning fast, and Kenney has shown plenty of drive in the battle for varsity places.

The best among the reserve line players are Peter Donovan, Bert Marrazzo, Paul Rohey, Link Morton, Bob Mather, McGrath and Sharpe.

GIANFERANTE WINS N. Y. PRO GOLF MONEY

Jerry Gianferante, the professional at Minute Man Golf Club in Lexington, who not long ago was captain of a Newton High golf team, came out fourth best in the Glen Falls, N. Y. open golf tournament, completed last Sunday. Gianferante had four sparkling rounds, 71, 72, 71, 71 for a 285 total of 285, three strokes under par for the whole distance, and brought home $100 of the $3500 prize money.

The veteran Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y. won first money with a score of 274, 14 under par. Gianferante's steady playing put him well ahead of such top-flight pros as Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood and Tom Crevey.

On Wednesday Jerry Gianferante paired with his brother Nick, the professional at Westboro Golf Club, and these two defeated Joe Kirkwood and Joe Stein over the Westboro layout. The Gianferantes had a best ball of 67 against a 68 for the visiting pros.

Day Jr. High School

Three new additions to the faculty are being welcomed this week at the F. A. Day Junior High School in Newtonville. Wheeler Merriam, a graduate of the University of Maine, is teaching science and social studies. Mr. Merriam has been head of the science department in the Whitman High School, teaching chemistry, physics, and biology. Previous to that he taught physics and biology at Wareham, Mass.

From St. Paul's School in Concord, N. H., comes W. Scott Brent, a graduate of the University of Buffalo, and a graduate student at Yale. Mr. Brent is teaching ninth grade English.

Miss Lois Johnson, an alumna of Wellesley College, has joined the Latin department. She has taught at Dana Hall Schools and in the public schools of Westport, Ct.

At the monthly faculty meeting on Tuesday, Mr. Burkhard, principal of the F. A. Day Jr. High School, spoke briefly of the notable teaching of Miss Harriet Goodnow, who has recently retired. Miss Goodnow taught social studies and will long be remembered for her quiet, friendly manner toward her pupils and her associates.

Several members of the faculty of the F. A. Day studied this summer. Mr. F. Tanner and Miss Gibson, the librarian, both did graduate work at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. Miss Spelman took several courses at Columbia. Some of the faculty travelled. Miss Paul to France, Miss Manning to Mexico, Miss Johnstone and Miss Wright to California, and Miss Richards to China.

A new experiment is being tried this week at the F. A. Day. Pupils are having two periods for lunch instead of three. This is possible through the use of additional space for this purpose. There are several advantages, an outstanding one being an opportunity for study which is now afforded the entire school at 11 noon-day hour. In this way, it is hoped that the teacher will be able to give more complete attention to those pupils who may still find seventh period help an essential.

Weeks Jr. High

On Monday, September 10, the John W. Weeks Junior High School opened its fifth school year with a very substantial increase in enrollment over that of a year ago.

There are several new members on the faculty, among them Mr. Raymond W. Malsdell, the new principal, who comes from Reading, Massachusetts.

Mr. Arthur W. Howard, Ph.D., Chicago, '26, has joined the English Department. Mr. Howard came from Lakewood, Ohio, but had previously taught in his home town, Gurnee, Illinois.

Mrs. Ernestine S. Dinsmoor, A.B., Radcliffe, '25, and Ed.M., Harvard, '33, of Amherst will teach General Language and English. Mrs. Dinsmoor has taught in the public schools of Andover and Keene, New Hampshire, and Beverly, Massachusetts, and in a private school in St. Paul, Minnesota.

Miss Celia A. Russell of Gosham, Maine, B.A., Wellesley, '29, and Ed.M., Boston University, has been added to the mathematics department. Miss Russell has taught in Windsor, Connecticut, and Winchester, Massachusetts.

A Newton girl, Miss Chellise R. Cook, a graduate of the Bouve Boston School of Physical Education, has replaced Miss Marlon Maxim in the girls' physical education department. Miss Maxim is on a leave of absence. Before coming to the Weeks School, Miss Cook spent a year in Utica, New York, and two years in Cleveland, Ohio.

Miss Grace A. Hubbard of Boston, taught in Winchester, Massachusetts, and has studied at Simmons College and the University of New York. Miss Hubbard will teach sewing in the practical arts department two days a week.

Mr. Wilson C. Colvin, Ph.D., Yale, '21, LL.B., Yale, '24, and Ed.M., Harvard, '22, has been teaching in Staunton Military Academy, Staunton, Virginia. Mr. Colvin replaces Mr. John H. Coleman in the social studies department. His home is in Roslindale, Mass. Miss Margaret L. Sutcliffe, A.B., Radcliffe, '23, has taken Miss Gray's place as office assistant and will also teach in the mathematics department.

Within the next few days, all pupils will be given a home-study schedule which will inform parents exactly what amount of home preparation is expected of each pupil in the different subjects.

The Bigelow Junior High School opened on Monday with an enrollment of 333. This year there are 12 divisions. In the senior grade there is a commercial division, a general academic division, a Latin division, and a French division.

In the eighth grade there is a commercial division, two Latin divisions, and a French division. The seventh grade is divided into four groups. There are several additions to the faculty. Mr. Herbert Berry, who has been teaching in Hanover, Mass., is teaching mathematics and science. Miss Bretvogel is director of physical education for girls. Miss van der Groen is teaching in the English department.

There have been several pieces of equipment added to the printing shop, including a new 10x15 printing press, paper cutter, type racks, and a roller. A new lathe has been added to the woodworking shop.

The school session is running on the same schedule as last year. School begins at 8:30, followed by a twenty minute home room program period. Classes begin at ten minutes of nine. The periods are fifty minutes long and school closes at 2:15. There is a seventh period from 2:15 to 3:00 o'clock for pupils to get special help from teachers.

Extra-curricular sports for both boys and girls are scheduled between three and five o'clock in the afternoon.

The first weekly assembly was held on Wednesday. The program consisted of a short talk by Mr. Pearson, xylophone solos by Clifton Wilson; a talk on the school paper by Barbara Ford; on the dramatic clubs by Leon Kruger; a violin solo by Albert Tashjian, accompanied on the piano by his sister, Harriet; an illustrated talk on art sketching by Virginia Weston, and a piano duet by Ina Burns and Ivan Jacobs. Miss Genevieve Hansen was mistress of ceremonies.

Improvements At Our Lady's School

Last Sunday parishioners of Our Lady's Church at Newton visited the parochial school on Adams st. to see the improvements which have been made in the building during the past several weeks. The school building, which was erected about 40 years ago, was the first parochial school in this city. It was built under the direction of Rev. Michael Dolan, for many years pastor of Our Lady's Church.

The improvements which have been made under the supervision of Rev. John Sheridan, who was appointed pastor of the parish a few months ago, include the substitution of electric lighting throughout the building in place of gas lights which served since the structure was built, the renovation of rooms in the basement of the school, and improvement in sanitary facilities. It is Father Sheridan's intention to modernize the building.

Our Lady's Parochial School has graduated many hundreds of boys and girls during the 42 years of its activities, and by providing free education for thousands of children, has saved taxpayers of Newton in the course of over two score years at least $2,000,000.

Newton Centre Girl Wins Conservatory Scholarship

Miss Hettie Preble of 22 Ridge ave., Newton Centre, has been awarded a scholarship by the New England Conservatory of Music. The conservatory last June announced the offering of scholarship to one qualified pupil in the graduating class of each high school in New England for enrollment in the four-year course leading to a diploma or to the degree of Bachelor of Music. Candidates for these scholarships were to have a good scholastic record and to have shown promise in their particular field. During the second semester of the year holders of scholarships will be entitled to compete for a State scholarship, the winners of which will be awarded scholarships for the following year.

WOMEN'S CLUB ACTIVITIES

New England Conference Outstanding Event

The Providence-Biltmore Hotel, of Providence, Rhode Island, will offer its accommodations to those attending the New England Conference for State Federations on Tuesday afternoon, September 24th, at 2 p. m., this hour marking the opening session in the Ballroom. Mrs. Frederick Glazier Smith, chairman of the Conference, known to Massachusetts clubwomen as a former president of the State Federation, will preside at the opening session, and will be assisted at later sessions by other officers of the Conference. Any clubwomen who wish to attend will be cordially welcome. Many features will make a delightful three days.

Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; the Honorable Theodore Francis Green, Governor of Rhode Island, and the Right Reverend Gaylord Granville Bennett, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Rhode Island, will be among the prominent speakers at this the 26th Annual Meeting of the New England Conference.

The keynote of the Conference is announced as "New England, Alert, Finds New Frontiers to Conquer". Among social events there will be a Tea and Reception for Mrs. Lawson on Wednesday, the 25th; and at the conclusion of the Conference, on Thursday, the 26th, a delightful Play Day has been arranged, with a drive to Newport and a sightseeing tour.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be the usual annual reports of officers, and the Conference committees reporting will be Highway Beautification, by Miss Florence A. Paul, of Maine; Industry and Agriculture, by Mrs. Hazel A. Albertson, of Massachusetts; and Urban and Rural Relations, by Miss Sara E. Coyne, of Rhode Island.

The address of that afternoon will be given by Mr. James G. Connolly. The State Song of Massachusetts also will be a feature of this session.

Tuesday evening will be a gala evening, with dinner at 6:30 o'clock. The Governor of Rhode Island and the Bishop of Rhode Island will give addresses that evening. The speaker will be Ira Lloyd Letts, on the subject "The Rhode Island Tercentenary". Music will round out the program.

On Wednesday morning the session will open at 9:15 o'clock. The New England Conference Song, and the State Songs of Maine, Oklahoma, and New Hampshire will be sung between reports and addresses. The Oklahoma Song, with Mrs. William C. Chapman, soloist, will be a fitting—and one may realize how it will be received in applause—introduction to the address by Mrs. Lawson, president of the General Federation, who hails from this State. Her topic will be "We Belong to the Ages".

There will be a Round Table of State Presidents, with Mrs. Albert E. Chittendon presiding, with its subject "Facing Tomorrow, Future Trends". Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and Massachusetts will be these States, with our own State Federation president, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, presiding for Massachusetts.

AT 11:15 THERE WILL BE A RADIO BROADCAST.

Voting for new officers will take place from 12:30 to 2 p. m.

At the Wednesday afternoon session Mrs. Chittendon, of Maine, who is vice-chairman of the Conference, will assist Mrs. Smith in presiding. Conference committees reporting will be Art, Music, and Literature. Miss Phoebe Lee Hosmer, of Massachusetts, is chairman of the last named. State Songs of Vermont and Connecticut will be sung. The address of the session will be by Mr. Wallace Stearns, of Boston.

Another gala evening opens Wednesday, with a Reception to Mrs. Lawson, in the Foyer outside the Ballroom, at 6:15 p. m.

At 7 o'clock there will be a Banquet in the Ballroom. Mrs. Henry I. Cushman will be Toastmaster. Presidents of the six New England State Federations will respond to the toast "Our Pioneer Women". Maine, Mrs. Maybelle F. Brown; New Hampshire, Mrs. John F. Beck; Vermont, Mrs. Frank H. Wright; Massachusetts, Mrs. Walker; Rhode Island, Mrs. Frank Fenner Mason, and Connecticut, Miss Florence L. Sutton.

An illustrated lecture will be the feature of the evening by Mr. Eugene Cecil Van Wyck, of New York. There also will be musical programs.

On Thursday morning, the 26th, at the morning session, opening at 9:15 o'clock, Education and Maternity reports will be given, the latter by Mrs. May Dickinson Kimball, of Massachusetts, and the Annual Report by the chairman of the Conference, Mrs. Frederick Glazier Smith, of Somerville, Massachusetts. Mrs. LaFell Dickinson, treasurer of the General Federation, will bring greetings. The speaker of the morning will be Mr. James Lee Whitcomb, of the Class of 1926 of Brown University.

The report of the Elections committee will be followed by the presentation of new officers, closing the Conference.

Entertainment offered to delegates—and only those wearing registration badges will be eligible therefor, which badges may be secured at the Registration desk—will include:

On Tuesday afternoon, at the close of the session, a Visit to the Museum of Rhode Island School of Design; a Motor Ride through Roger Williams

Park, and a Visit to Historical Sites. On Wednesday afternoon, at the close of the session, Tea at Providence Plantations Club, in honor of Mrs. Lawson.

On Thursday afternoon, at close of the session, Motor Trip to Newport, Visiting Historical Sites and the Famous Ten-Mile Drive.

Newtonville Flower Show Sept. 26

Those who attended the exhibition of the Newtonville Garden Club last fall will anticipate with interest the Flower Show which the Garden Club, together with the Conservation committee of the Newtonville Woman's Club, is arranging for September 26th, from 1 to 9 p. m., at the Woman's Club House on Washington park. The schedule shows eight classifications, each with its own chairman to whom exhibitors should apply for entries not later than September 24th; the exhibitor allowed to have one entry only in each class. The committee prefers that garden flowers be used, if possible.

Class I, Mrs. H. L. Slade, chairman, is for Wild or Wayside material not on the Conservation list, to be displayed in niches 24x24x30 inches, and this class is open to neighboring Garden Clubs and to Conservation committees.

Class II, Mrs. G. A. Edmunds, chairman, is for Intimate Bouquets, the containers for which are not to exceed four inches, and is open to members of the Newtonville Woman's Club.

Class III, Mrs. F. A. Wightman, chairman, calls for Flowers, Berries or Foliage arranged in a prune bottle to decorate the kitchen window sill, and any resident of Newtonville is eligible to enter.

Class IV, Mrs. N. A. Hallett, chairman, specifies Something New from the catalogues, growing from Seed, if annuals, by the exhibitor, and is open to any resident of Newtonville.

Class V, Mrs. C. W. Somers, chairman, is for Specimen Zinnias, grown by the exhibitor, with but one bloom of each variety, and this group is also open to any resident of Newtonville.

Class VI, Mrs. A. W. Church, chairman. Members of the Newtonville Garden Club only may exhibit in this class which calls for Arrangement of Flowers in Crystal, bubble bouquets and reflected bouquets.

Class VII, Mrs. J. W. Allen, chairman, is unique, in that it is open only to men of Newtonville, and is listed as "Products of My Garden". There may be an arrangement in a basket of Fruit, Flowers, Vegetables, singly or in combination, and a space thirty inches square will be allowed for each exhibit, only twelve entries being accepted.

Class VIII, Mrs. C. E. Beatty, chairman, includes the Arrangement of Garden Flowers of two or more varieties for the living-room, and may be shown in a tall metal or in a low pottery container, but must be grown by the exhibitor. This class is open to members of the Newtonville Woman's Club and of the Garden Club.

Contributors are asked to name the flowers in their exhibits for the benefit of visitors, and no exhibits may be removed before 9 p. m. on September 26th, but must be removed by 10:30 a. m. on September 27th.

Tea will be served between 2 and 5 o'clock at a small charge.

Nation-Wide Broadcast

It is not surprising that there is a note of pride in the announcement made from the General Federation of Women's Clubs that there is to be, through the courtesy of the National Broadcasting Company, a regular weekly period for a national broadcast of news pertaining to this organization, beginning October 4th. This generous offer of Mr. Merl H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, means much to clubwomen throughout the country. The personal presentation of facts, timely, and in form that can reach every clubwoman at the moment of greatest interest, will carry a value that all will be sure to realize and to seek. The time for the broadcast has been tentatively set at 2:45 p. m., but news lists will keep clubwomen informed.

Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, president of the Federation, in making the announcement in her first letter to clubwomen in September, rightly speaks of this recognition of the work of women's clubs as "wonderful". In its opportunity for spreading interest, it is also in line with her avowed "keynote" for the work of the General Federation during the next three years—the period of her presidency—EDUCATION FOR LIVING. This she states means "not only education for earning a living, but that sort of education which teaches the real value of life and helps in solving current problems with fairness and intelligence."

By which it will be seen that Mrs. Lawson intends to think of "education" as a practical asset toward improving daily life.

Fall Flower Show Wednesday Sept. 18

All who are interested in the attractive displays that feature Flower Shows will wish to attend the Fall Show to be held at the Workshop, Newton Highlands, staged by the Newton Highlands Garden Club. The Show will be open to the public from

Natl. Committee Appointments

Appointments of chairmen of the nine departments of the General Federation is announced, and the result of the selection of outstanding women of the country to head these branches of national work will be of interest to all clubwomen. It is noteworthy that more than one hundred divisions and committees also have chairmen appointed to serve at the direction of the women who head each department. The task of finding such women suited to their field, not to mention the work that each such subdivision entails, calls up quite a picture to the thinking clubwoman of the colossal task it is to be the presiding officer over this great machine.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, of Baltimore, has been chosen to be chairman of the department of Education. She is a former president of the Maryland Federation, and during the past three years, as vice-chairman of the department of Legislation, had the significant task of "liaison officer" between the General Federation and Congress.

Mrs. Elbert W. Shirk, of Redlands, California, is the new chairman of the department of Junior Clubwomen, the newest of the Federation's departments. Her work in California for Juniors has made her an outstanding figure in this interest.

Mrs. William Dick Sporborg, of Port Chester, New York, is chairman of the department of Legislation. She was a president of the New York Federation, and then its director to the General Federation, and she has been chairman of Resolutions for three years.

Mrs. Herbert F. French, of Braintree, Massachusetts, is Extension Secretary for International Clubs. She is fourth vice-president of the Massachusetts Federation, and has traveled extensively, her last trip being the World Friendship Tour conducted by the General Federation two years ago. This contact will be valuable in her club extension work.

Dr. Anna Lewis, of Chickasha, Oklahoma, is chairman of Literature. She is Professor of History at the Oklahoma College for Women.

Mrs. Frederick B. Hall, of St. Louis, Missouri, is chairman of Art. She is chairman in this department in the Missouri Federation.

Mrs. William J. Pigott, of Chicago, is chairman of Music. She is now serving the Illinois Federation as chairman of this same department of work.

Mrs. Edgar B. Merritt, of Washington, D. C., is chairman of Radio. She is a former president of the District of Columbia Federation and has just retired as General Federation director for the District.

Mrs. Howard B. Hancock, of Greenwich, New Jersey, is chairman of Homemaking. She has served her State as a district vice-president and as a Parent-Teacher speaker, and lately as chairman of the department of American Home.

Mrs. May Dickinson Kimball, of Boston, has been reappointed chairman of the committee on Mothercraft, to which she has devoted many years of study and effort.

Mrs. Arthur C. Flory, of Wauwatosa, Wisconsin, has been reappointed chairman of the committee on Gardens, in which capacity she served most efficiently during the latter part of the past administration.

Mrs. J. H. Munster, of Port Washington, Wisconsin, again will serve as chairman of the committee on Community Music.

Mrs. Loretta L. Blankenburg, of Philadelphia, known as the Federation's "youngest" member, having celebrated her nineteenth birthday this year again will serve as chairman of the Historical and Continuation committee, and Dr. Clara B. Burdette, of Pasadena, known as the "mother of clubs", will serve as vice-chairman.

Mrs. William F. Lake, of Hot Springs, Arkansas, a former president and General Federation director of Arkansas, is chairman of the committee on Credentials, Badges, and Elections.

Mrs. Thomas H. Grimley, of Ridgewood, New Jersey, former president and General Federation director of that State, will be chairman of the committee on Resolutions.

Mrs. Edwin Revens, of Helena, Arkansas, has been reappointed chairman of the committee on Rural Cooperation, of which work she has made a great success.

Mrs. Thomas J. Gillooly, of Clarksburg, West Virginia, has been made chairman of the committee on Standardization.

3:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. on Wednesday, September 18th.

There will be six classes of exhibits, a detailed description of which may be found in the NEWTON GRAPHIC of August 30th, on page four.

Mrs. Emil F. Haberstroh is chairman of the event.

Music School To Begin Silver Jubilee Year

Several years ago a Newton woman was pressed by a group of social workers in New York City to come to that metropolis for the purpose of heading a large settlement music school. It was a flattering and tempting offer and one that came to mean much to Newton because out of it grew the idea and inspiration for the institution which is now the well known All Newton Music School. That woman, Miss Elizabeth Fyfe, today well known and honored throughout Newton, did not go to New York, but instead started out to establish the same sort of work that they were doing in the big city in her own home town.

After securing the confidence and support of some few public spirited citizens of Newton by demonstrating her faith in the function of the art of music as an element in creative living, and by showing the need to supply music instruction of a high order at low rates, Miss Fyfe founded the West Newton Music School in April 1911. For many years it has been the All Newton Music School, taking in every one of the villages, and Miss Fyfe has been its director and moving force from the start.

When the fall season opens on October first, the Music School begins its Silver Jubilee Year. It has built up a splendid organization with a background of twenty-five years of constructive and successful work, with a staff of expert teachers, experienced leadership, and the co-operation and support of the public school system. The All Newton Music School has given to thousands of Newton's young people a sound musical education, and to the whole community a greater love and appreciation of fine music. Its pupils have gone out far and wide into positions that do credit to themselves and their teachers. In many ways the school has been a pioneer, and similar schools in other localities have come to know its work and follow its example.

Year after year the All Newton Music School has grown and expanded,—each year the demand for the advantages it can give is greater,—and each year there is a larger opportunity for usefulness. Indications now point to a large enrollment on registration days, which come during the last week of September, and to a banner year for the Music School's Silver Jubilee.

FHA Staff To Hold Mortgage Clinics Here

Members of the staff of the Federal Housing Administration from the Boston office will be at Room 100, Atwood Bldg., 763 Washington st., Newtonville, Sept. 17-18, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. to explain to property owners and builders the advantages of the Federal Housing Administration's insured mortgage plan, according to an announcement by John P. Malley, State Director of the Federal Housing Administration.

Information will be supplied individually and literature will be available for distribution to all persons interested in insured mortgages on home property.

Under the Federal Housing Administration's Mortgage Plan it is now possible for approved banks to lend up to 80% of the sound value of homes of not more than four families and for as long a period as twenty years. The maximum limit of mortgage on any one property is $16,000. This plan involves a budgeting of the property owner's income, whereby the property owner makes a single monthly payment to cover interest, reduction of the principal, mortgage insurance, fire insurance, and taxes.

This will be the first time that officials of the Federal Housing Administration have come to this district to give individual explanation of the insured mortgage under the Federal Housing Plan, and the public is invited.

A dance and entertainment under the auspices of the Sgt. Eugene Joseph Daley Jr. Post No. 2334, V. F. W., will be conducted on next Tuesday evening, Sept. 17, at the Post Hall, 251 Washington st., Newton Corner. Comrade John Scarlett, O. D., heads a huge committee who have procured several vaudeville acts for the evening's entertainment, after which dancing will be enjoyed until a late hour.

The committee on "Old Times" night have announced that on Wednesday evening, Oct. 16, another in a series of a "get together" will be held at the headquarters. These affairs are to be conducted at least once a month during the winter season in conjunction with a membership drive which is now under way.

At the next regular Post meeting the semi-annual election of officers for the ensuing year will take place, Monday evening, Sept. 23; and to be elected at a designated meeting in October. Several members will "fall in" at Brookline tomorrow at the parade of the 101st Inf. reunion, assembling at Coolidge Corner at 1:15 p. m.

Past Commander George McNamee and Director of Junior Activities in the Post is seriously ill at a hospital where he has been confined for several weeks.

Kiwanis Club

At the regular Tuesday meeting of the Newton Kiwanis Club at the Charles River Country Club Tuesday, Sept. 10th, practically the entire membership of the club joined in an enthusiastic meeting.

The meeting was addressed by Mr. John W. Lane, Automotive Engineer of the Socomey-Vacuum Oil Co. Mr. Lane discussed the recent improvements in gasolines and motor oils and the application of these products to the automobile. He pointed out that the cooling system was just as vital a unit in winter operation as it was during the hot months, outlined a procedure for servicing the system and gave helpful data to be used in the selection of an anti-freeze.

Mr. Lane then explained how the winter starting problem was minimized by the use of the light grades of winter oil but that these oils must be double ranged to give adequate protection to bearing surfaces under high speed winter driving.

"More hard starting is caused by poor battery conditions than any other one source. The battery and ignition should be carefully checked before cold weather sets in. A half-charged battery freezes easily and once it has frozen it cannot readily be repaired.

"The drag of friction in the transmission and differential may be greatly reduced by the use of a properly selected winter gear oil. This insures easy shifting and adequate lubrication of the gear teeth.

"The chassis should be thoroughly lubricated to minimize wear. By keeping the drivings full of lubricant ice and snow cannot work in and maximum protection is afforded.

"The fall of the year is a very desirable time to check up on tires and brakes as traction is considerably reduced on icy, snowy roads."

Mr. Lane concluded his remarks by stating that development work was continually being done by the research departments of petroleum marketers to insure better products. As these refinements are developed the motoring public is continually benefited. As a matter of fact none of us today would be satisfied to use gasoline or motor oil in our cars that we felt was adequate ten years ago.

Meeting of the Newton Kiwanis Club will be held next week on Tuesday, Sept. 17th, in the Vernon Court Hotel in Centre st., near Newton Corner, and will be featured by the fact that there will be distributed at that time 12 attendance prizes to be contributed by Wilfred Chagnon.

A record attendance is expected because of the fact that final plans will be made for Newton's participation in the annual New England district convention which will be held in Swampscott on Sept. 22, 23 and 24. Atty. James P. Gallagher, Governor of the district, will preside at the convention.

Newton Women At Joint Conference at Radcliffe

Many prominent American women will attend the joint conference of the State Division of the American Association of University Women and the Friends of the Mary E. Woolley Fellowship of Agassiz House, Radcliffe College, next Saturday, September 14.

Mrs. John Murdoch, Jr., of Newtonville, Unit Chairman, will preside at the morning session of the conference. Mrs. F. G. Atkinson of Minneapolis, will lead the Fellowship discussion and Miss Beatrice Woodman of Newton, Massachusetts State Pres., will preside at the luncheon to be served at the Hotel Continental, Cambridge.

At seven o'clock there will be a dinner at Agassiz House in honor of Miss Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke, for whom the Fellowship is named. Mrs. William R. Bell of Waban is chairman of hospitality; Mrs. Lydia H. Dalton of Newtonville is in charge of tickets for the luncheon and the dinner and Mrs. Francis J. Flagg of Newtonville is Publicity Director.

Would Limit Oak Hill Gravel Pits

"The operation of any gravel pit involves trucking and its damage to roads, danger to pedestrians and annoyance to those who assumed their homes to be a quiet retreat from such intrusion because of zoning laws existing in this district. It involves the never ceasing process of digging, moving, shifting, dividing and storing these deposits and these each require machinery which adds annoyance of noise, dust and a measure of menace to the public while the complete process is followed through.

"The operation of any gravel pit retards community development rather than encourages it; it repels rather than attracts; it lowers the general standard of land values rather than enhances them. It is argued frequently that ultimately valuable property is made taxable and usable; that certain land topography is improved by leveling and rearrangement—but experience has too often proved that Gravel Pit operations are strictly business ventures and that such havocs of scavenging and sampling here and then there are normal expectations and very seldom is the cleaning up process completed.

"We have reason to believe that a sincere effort is being made by the owner of this Gravel Pit to complete the terms of his Permit in remedying unsightly and certain unauthorized excavations and that he is proceeding with as much speed in this reclamation process as could be reasonably expected. We believe also that there remains little to be gained from the further exploitation of property standing in his name. Were his operations restricted to his own property the need for any extension of permit would be practically unnecessary. Something over operations could be accomplished with a minimum amount of time and expense and made immediately available for residential development. However the extension of activity on land adjoining opens up another situation, and in this respect we see a challenge to the city in the general continuance of Gravel Pit operation for an indefinite period.

"We have tolerated and suffered under this situation for a good many years now and can see no protective limitation of this abuse; no relief from the city for the breach of zoning ordinances that has permitted a business enterprise to intrude within its restricted residential area. Besides we learn that the City through its Assessors have in fact encouraged the use of this land for sand and gravel purposes—influencing the yielding of this land for these reasons in preference to other uses. We have seen property in other sections of the Oak Hill District blossom with homes and beautiful estates, but its status is blighted by holes and ditches, stretches of forelorn open spaces—stripped of soil, trees and life—just to satisfy a few stockholders and to keep a handful of people employed.

"We believe that the City should take steps to put a stop to the operation of gravel pits anywhere in Newton. We feel there should be an ordinance PREVENTING THEIR EXISTENCE, OPERATION OR ACTIVITY IN ANY FORM AND UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCE. We are willing to yield our opposition to the continuance or extension of a permit at the present time if we could be assured that by Oct. 1, 1937 such a city ordinance might become operative and the pits made irrevocable. Within this time present operations should be satisfactorily concluded and arrangements made to transfer equipment and smooth over all areas worked. At the same time, residents in Oak Hill as well as in all other parts of the Newtons could look forward with relief and comfort to the elimination of this vexing and harassing perennial problem—the unpleasant contemplation of having your home merely a suburb of a Gravel Pit."

"It is time we citizens should become aroused and protect our homes, the safety of our children and the security of our investment in property by eliminating the gravel pit tined areas. It is time we would ask for the elimination of this nuisance and annoyance. In two years it should be reasonable to suppose our neighbors could withdraw with grace and not too great a loss. In the same time, the citizens should be a most grateful and to be able to enjoy a community without such potential annoyances, we have your wholehearted support in the framing of such an ordinance? May we count on your setting the date when this ordinance may become OPERATIVE AND IRREVOCABLE? Till then you must hear repeatedly our growing voice of protest which we think is in the interest of a better community in which we chance to live."

Willard E. Smith of 325 Brookline st. said some steps should be set on which the operations of the big pit at Oak Hill should cease. He said the gravel is now largely being excavated on the Esby land, and had it been confined to the property owned by Wilbur, the excavating would now have been finished. Mr. Smith argued that if the permit is renewed the excavating operations can be indefinitely continued by being extended onto other properties in the district. He admitted that when he visited the pit area recently he observed that a lot of filling had been done and found placed on the refilled areas, but he stated some limit should be placed on the renewals. He said his family has been annoyed by the noise of the pit machinery and of heavy trucks going to and coming from the pit. He stated that one of the assets of the Highland Sand & Gravel Co. (the company name under which the pit has been operated) included among its assets $50,000 worth of gravel, and he asked why have not the Newton assessors taken this amount into consideration?

Mr. Smith also charged that Oak Hill residents who have in past years protested against the pit after a previous hearing gave their names to the City Clerk and asked to be notified before the next hearing. Last week he tried to learn when the hearing would be held, and the Alderman he asked even did not know. Notices were not sent out and he did not learn of the hearing until that day. He said proper notices should be given. He said he is willing to have a proper period allowed to complete the operations and filling on the land already excavated.

Alderman McKay asked Wilbur how long operations will be continued at the gravel pits, and what extent of territory is yet to be excavated? Wilbur said that $50,000 referred to by Smith as an asset of the Highland Sand & Gravel Company cannot be rightly assessed onto the property as the land is his personal property. He said it would be difficult to guess how long it will take to excavate all the area. He also added that when he started operations on his own land he also intended to excavate on the Esby property. He explained that there are probably 1,000,000 tons of material on the area to be excavated, and the longer he can operate the area the more improvements he can make to the land which needs filling. He claimed that the only places excavated below prescribed levels were those needed for water basins, or for refilling with sand. He said he started operations in 1928 and would have completed them in five years but for the depression. He stated he expects to be finished in less than two years.

Asked by Alderman McKay if he would favor an ordinance which would limit further operations at the pit to two years, Wilbur answered in the negative. He said one swamp in the area will require much fill, that part of this swamp is on land owned by Joseph Tomassello, and that there is two years' work there alone. James Esby took the floor to assert that all the opposition comes from residents of Brookline st. and that they show poor grace in still protesting after they received concessions a few years ago by having trucking prohibited on their street. Esby claimed that Oak Hill has developed more since the pit was started than ever before.

Suggest Changes In Ward Lines

line of the Newton Cemetery on the West, and Beacon st. on the South. This territory includes the cemetery and the neighborhood between City Hall and the cemetery property which includes Cummings rd. and North st. Ward 5 would also lose all its present territory South of Boylston st., including Newton Upper Falls and Oak Hill. This area would be part of the new Ward 7. The proposed Ward 5 would contain about 4100 voters.

Ward 6 would lose to new Ward 7 the area bounded on the West by Centre st. between Clark st. and Locksley rd., on the South by Clark st. and Boylston st., on the North by a line starting at Locksley rd., thence along Hereward rd. to Rowena rd., Browning rd., Ridge ave., Carlisle st., and the present ward line at Hammond woods to a point near Heath st. at the Brookline line. It would contain about 5350 voters.

The proposed Ward 7 on the South side would contain about 3500 voters.

Barking, Biting Dogs Restrained

Last Friday Newton police notified Frank H. Stuart of Woodchester drive, Chestnut Hill, to restrain his dog on complaint of Mrs. Earl Waldo, 66 Algonquin rd. The dog was accused of having bitten a member of Mrs. Waldo's family.

Oppose Gasoline Station Near Crystal Lake

Newton Centre and Newton Highlands residents appeared again at City Hall on Monday night to protest at a hearing before the Board of Aldermen on a petition of Catherine Karalekas for a permit to establish a filling station at 1365 Centre st., near the corner of Norwood ave.

Stephen Burke of Norwood ave. said a similar petition had been presented to the Aldermen last year and was refused. The same objections now obtained—the fact that the locus is on a sharp grade at heavily traveled Centre st., a nearby bridge obscures view of approaching motorists and hundreds of school children pass the place. Burke referred to a recent arraignment in the Newton court of William Karalekas for having truck illegally performed at the location in question on a Sunday. He said there should not be further disfigurement of the neighborhood. Mr. Burke stated he had a petition opposing the proposed gasoline station and signed by 30 persons residing in the neighborhood. He also read a letter of protest from Mrs. Julia English of 1375 Centre st., who has resided in Newton Centre for 75 years.

J. Weston Allen of Lake ave. spoke at length against the Karalekas petition and urged the changing of the former ice company property near Crystal Lake from business to residential zone. He again advocated that the city acquire that part of this property contiguous to the lake for park purposes. Charles K. Novin, president of the Newton Centre Improvement Association, said this organization has been consistently opposed to a gasoline station at the proposed locus. On a showing of hands about 20 present opposed the granting of the petition, and 1 person favored it.

Man Hit By Car With Bad Brakes

William R. Bailey, 80, of 358 Massachusetts ave., Boston, was hit last Thursday afternoon at the corner of Newtonville ave. and Eastside parkway, Newton, by a car driven by Pasquale Lupo of Waltham st., Watertown. The aged man received fractures of the right leg and arm and other injuries which placed him in a critical condition. Lupo claimed that he had to swerve his car while travelling along Newtonville avenue to avoid a car which came out of the parkway. Bailey was hit as he was stepping onto the sidewalk. Lupo reported he was only driving at a speed of 15 miles. Sergeant Cullen of the Newton police found the brakes on the car to be quite defective. Lupo has been summoned to appear in the Newton Court on September 10th, charged with driving so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public, and driving a car with defective brakes.

Dramatic Club To Open Little Theatre Season

On Sept. 30 the Little Theatre League will have its opening night at 48 Boylston street, which time the Newton Dramatic Club will present the one-act play, "The Last Wife," written by Marjorie Chalmers Carleton, one of the members of the club. It deals with a dramatic incident in the life of Henry the Eighth and Catherine Parr. The cast is an excellent one including Hortense Creed Balthus, Wm. C. Grabe, George Hubert, Iland and Louise Adamo, members of the club are privileged to attend.

The League is formed of groups and clubs in New England who are active in dramatics.

Rotary Club

The speaker at Monday's meeting was Warren K. Brimblecom, member of the club, who reviewed some of his experiences as a representative in the General Court. One of the most interesting and pertinent of his observations referred to the criticism that has been levelled at the General Court and at the calibre of its members. If the plea so constantly heard in some quarters could be heeded and the Legislature become filled with men of greater education, wider business backgrounds, or broader legal training, the General Court would immediately cease to be the true cross-section of the general population which it now is and there would result tremendous dissatisfaction from those groups in the electorate which would find themselves unrepresented.

As for the character of the legislation which was passed, consideration must be given to the fact that this session of the General Court was subjected to a greater extent than any recent session to three factors which greatly influenced its deliberations: (1) the general conditions of the times, (2) the unusual ability of certain individuals or groups to successfully impress their desires upon legislators, and (3) the political lineup which gave the Democrats 116 votes against the 124 votes of Republicans, some of whom frequently split away from their associates.

The year was exceedingly busy on Beacon Hill. Some 2500 petitions which were filed in the opening days resulted in 491 acts and 63 resolves of which only 50 or 60 vitally affect the entire state. Some of the most important acts were: (1) the 48-hour law for State employees, (2) the Governor's Bond Program, (3) the Teachers' Oath Bill, and (4) the Boston Elevated Bill.

The law limiting the hours of work for all employees of State institutions will result in an increase of personnel of about 1900 with a consequent addition of about a million dollars to the payroll each year and an expenditure spread over a period of years for additional dormitories and accommodations. This construction promises to cost around $2½ millions. The Boston Elevated Bill was largely a matter of gesture for it was apparent to all that there was no likelihood of the State, the City, and the Federal Government ever agreeing on any particular line of action. Despite the argument that the Teachers' Oath Bill would instill patriotism in all connected with education it may prove to be no more fruitful than was the Prohibition amendment in improving the habits of citizens in the consumption of alcohol. The defeated legislation on the Billboard question had little to commend it but there certainly is a real need for serious study and a change of the existing law.

Mr. Brimblecom expressed the thought that at election time the voters would do well to consider the entire actions of a candidate for reelection rather than be influenced so largely by more recent acts.

Hearing on Waban Hill Apartment House Site

Residents of the Waban Hill section of Chestnut Hill are up in arms over the matter of rezoning a small area of land on Commonwealth ave. near the Boston line. Their purpose is to prevent the rebuilding of a small apartment house building at 41 Commonwealth ave. The structure was badly damaged by fire last winter and owners of the property applied for a

Four More Cases Of "Infantile"

Four additional cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in Newton during the past 10 days. They are those of Marcia Tingley, 14, of 1507 Centre st., Newton Highlands; Antoinette Tocci, 19, Linwood ave., Newtonville; Anne Countee, 3, 31 Miller rd., Newton Centre. The Tingley girl has been under treatment at her own home; the other two girls are patients at the Newton Hospital. A fourth case was reported last Sunday—a child residing in Newton Centre. No cases have been reported since.

Goddard To Run For Ald. at Large

Paul M. Goddard of 20 Trowbridge st., Newton Centre has announced that he will be a candidate for alderman-at-large from Ward 6 to succeed Sydney Holden who will be a candidate for Mayor. Goddard is serving his second year as Ward Alderman from Ward 6. He is engaged in the insurance business. He is the second person to announce his candidacy for this office. Last week Roger Gardner of Westminister rd., Newton Centre announced his candidacy.

Newton Cen. Girl Dies of Infantile

Dorothea A. Jarvis, 14, daughter of William I. and Ethel (Kennedy) Jarvis of 653 Commonwealth ave., Newton Centre, died at the Haynes Hospital, Allston on September 14th of infantile paralysis. The girl is supposed to have contracted the disease while at the family summer home in Scituate. Her funeral service was held on Monday at Sacred Heart Church and burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Scituate. Another child of the Jarvis family became ill with the disease while at Scituate a few weeks ago, and is recovering.

Cars Driven By Boys In Crash

Two cars driven by boys attending Newton High School and Newton Trade School collided at the intersection of Lowell ave. and Otis st., Newtonville at 8:20 Tuesday morning. One car was driven by Gilbert Ogilvie, 17, of Weston rd., Wellesey, a student at Newton Trade School, Ralph Wilbur, 15, of Wayland, another student at the school, who was riding with Ogilvie, received an injury to his back and was taken to the Newton Hospital.

The other car involved was driven by Thomas Roche, 16, of 164 River st., West Newton. Roche has no license to drive, and was operating the car on the license of Joseph Lucchetti, 17, of 19 Magnus pl., West Newton. William Libby, 18, of 59 River st., West Newton, riding in the car driven by Roche, was slightly injured about the hands. Six high school students were riding in the car driven by Roche and Ogilvie reported that one of them was standing on the running board of the car. Both automobiles were considerably damaged.

Drive Thru Red Light, Fined $5

The growing practice of disregarding traffic signal lights received a setback in the Newton court on Monday when six motorists were fined $5 each for driving past the flashing red light at Centre st. and Commonwealth ave. between midnight and 7 a. m. Patrolman Smith was the complainant. Those fined were—Jerry Tocci, 391 Dedham st., Newton Centre; Tony Ferlazzo, 1177 Walnut st., Newton Highlands; Pasquale Capone, 81 Boyd st., Newton; Louis Cioffi, 20 Colonial ave., Newtonville; Adelbert Investor, Massachusetts ave., Arlington, and Robert Tair, George st., Arlington.

Driver of Car That Hit 82 Year Old Man Fined $75

Pasquale Lupo, 52, of 151 Waltham st., Watertown, was fined $75 in the Newton court yesterday by Judge Bacon for driving a car so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public; he was also fined $25 for driving a car with defective brakes. Lupo was the driver of the car which on September 5th ran onto a sidewalk on the steep grade at Newtonville avenue, Newton, opposite Eastside parkway, hit William R. Bailey, 82, of 358 Massachusetts avenue and critically injured the aged man. Bailey, who was walking on the sidewalk, received a fractured leg, fractured jaw, and other injuries. He is at the Newton Hospital.

Lupo claimed that he had to swerve his car in order to avoid colliding with a truck which was emerging from Eastside parkway at a high rate of speed. Harry Crommet of Weston, driver of the truck, contradicted Lupo and testified that he stopped his truck when he saw Lupo's automobile coming down Newtonville avenue, and that Lupo's car did not come within 10 feet of the truck. Donald Craig of Parkview ave., Newtonville, testified that Lupo's car went onto the sidewalk and hit the old man. Serg. Cullen, mechanic for the Newton police department, testified that after the accident he examined Lupo's car. At a speed of 20 miles an hour the foot-brakes on the car failed to stop it within 70 feet, and the emergency brake did not stop it until it had gone 200 feet. Lupo claimed he had taken the car to a repair shop on the day of the accident to have the car inspected, but the repairs were busy and he was told to return later.

Lupo asked that he be given two years in which to pay the fines as he is only working two days a week for the $8 he receives weekly from the Watertown welfare department. He said he is the father of 7 children. Judge Bacon ordered him to have the fines paid by October 5.

Two Appointed School Doctors

Dr. George Bowers of 156 Woodward st., Newton Highlands and Dr. Luther G. Eastman of 60 Grove st., Auburndale were appointed on Wednesday as school doctors. Dr. Bowers will serve the Weeks, Hyde and Emerson schools. Dr. Eastman will serve the Warren, Franklin, Davis and Peirce schools. They succeed the late Drs. Fisher and Withee. An examination was held on June 15 by twelve physicians to qualify for these positions. Dr. Eastman rated third on the list of those who took the examination, and Dr. Bowers fourth. Dr. Louis Skirball of Exmoor rd., Newton Centre headed the list, and Dr. William O'Halloran of Central ave., Newtonville was second. The fact that all four had "veterans" ratings because of some service connection in the World War was a factor in determining their ratings.

Ask That Purity Ice Co. Land Go In Business Zone

A petition has been presented to the Board of Aldermen asking that land on Beacon st., Newton Highlands, near Walnut st., be changed from residence zone to business zone. The land in question includes that where the building formerly used by the Purity Ice Company to manufacture ice is located, and also land owned by the Sullivan estate and Frank Ciccone. Similar petitions have been presented to the Aldermen in past years and have been refused. The Purity Ice Company was absorbed several years ago by the Metropolitan Ice Company and it has been desired to use the property at the locus in question for the storage of fuel oil. Protests have been made in the past by Mr. Ciccone whose residence is adjoining, and because of the development of the property.

Police Want Time Off With Extra Duty

Night Men on School Traffic See Chief

A delegation of Newton policemen on the night platoons conferred with Chief Hughes last week and asked that they be given compensatory time off for extra duty performed on days in school traffic work. They asked that any night policeman who does off for each day on which he performs school traffic duty. Under the arrangement which has been in operation for sometime, each policeman who does night duty must perform school traffic work one day each week. Chief Hughes informed the delegation that he would not be able to grant their request because the Newton police department is now undermanned. The Chief asked for 10 additional patrolmen last year and only 2 were provided for in the 1935 budget by the Mayor and Aldermen. It has been suggested that men be assigned from the ERA lists to perform school traffic work. Traffic duty was performed in Newton for a number of years by Boy Scouts.

City Employee Breaks Ankle

Russell Meekins, 41, of 56 Derby st., West Newton, an employee of the Newton Street Department, had an ankle broken Monday noon when he slipped off a truck on which he was riding and was run over by a trailer attached to the truck. The accident occurred at Seminary ave., Auburn-dale. Meekins was taken to the Newton Hospital.

NEW WARD LINES

We have occasionally commented upon the desirability of redistricting the city to provide for more balanced distribution of voters in the various wards and to the necessity of making provisions for the development of the south side of the city. The outstanding fact in the present set-up of seven wards is that the two wards on the southerly side of the city have nearly twice as many voters as in the two wards on the north side of the city. Consequently the voters on the north have approximately twice the representation in city affairs as those on the south.

Alderman Clarence C. Colby of Ward 7 has submitted a plan to the legislative committee of the Board of Aldermen which is studying the problem. The Newton alderman deserves much commendation for the time and effort which he has given to it, although his plan may not be the proper solution. He has presented something definite to work upon and it is now up to the legislative committee to give the matter public hearings in all parts of the city so that the voters themselves may express their ideas and possibly make additional suggestions which will prove of value.

The Colby plan retains the seven ward plan which has existed in Newton for many years and under which we have grown. One of the disputed points will undoubtedly be that with seven wards and a large number of voters to each ward representation is not as close to the voter as with a larger number of wards with a smaller number of voters. Another point which will loom large in the minds of many of the voters on the north side of the city is the combining of the present Wards 1 and 7 under the Colby plan. There are numerous other points which will be brought out in the course of time as the committee pursues its deliberations.

We believe that Mr. Colby has shown a clear insight into the redistricting problem as far as it concerns seven wards. In all probability there can be little improvement in the Colby plan in this regard but let us not overlook the possibilities that exist in plans to increase the number of wards without increasing the number of members of the Board of Aldermen. In this connection we have put before the legislative committee the outline of a nine-ward plan which was suggested in these columns last fall when the previous attempt to rearrange existing ward lines was before the aldermen.

This nine-ward plan gives to each of the wards a ward alderman and an alderman-at-large as eighteen members of the Board. Three wards in each of the geographical sections of the city, the north comprising Wards 7, 1 and 2, the western section comprising Wards 3, 4 and the Waban and Upper Falls portion of Ward 5, and the southerly section comprising the remainder of Ward 5 and all of Ward 6 as at present, each sending one district alderman to the Board, complete the membership of twenty-one. Incidentally each ward would have a comparative voting strength of from 3500 to 4000 voters with opportunity for growth in those wards where there is still prospects of large increases in the population.

It is not our purpose at this time to compare the nine-ward plan with the seven-ward plan suggested by Mr. Colby. There will be ample opportunity to discuss advantages and weaknesses of either plan or other ideas that may be suggested. We do desire to focus the attention of the voters on this problem of local government which so vitally concerns everyone and to promote wider thought with the ultimate end of perfecting a plan which will be for the best interests of the city.

WILL MAYOR MANSFIELD GO THROUGH?

During the past week we have frequently been asked if Mayor Mansfield will continue his efforts to bring about the political defeat of Governor Curley, or will the matters which the Mayor of Boston is speaking of become sidetracked and forgotten issues. No one can predict what will transpire in the coming fourteen months before the next state election. However, Mayor Mansfield has shown himself to be an intrepid official, who is unlikely to bow to the will of those with whom he has righteous differences. He has taken up a task which is not an agreeable one, but one which he believes as the mayor of the largest city in the state he should not and could not conscientiously overlook. Public spirited citizens who realize the depths to which Massachusetts may fall within the coming months are rallying to Mayor Mansfield and those others who stand shoulder to shoulder with him. Whether or not Governor Curley is defeated for re-election, for the office of Senator, or whatever position for which he becomes a candidate, it is certain that the voters of Massachusetts will know a great deal more about the Governor's political activities than they have known in the past.

Will the "breathing spell for business" promised by the national administration be followed by more "artificial methods of respiration" such as have been attempted in the past three years is the question business men would like to have answered.

The occasional tastes of fall weather we have had recently will serve to remind many that the foliage is beginning to turn, bringing with it one of the most glorious seasons of the entire year.

The Newton High School has purchased a new musical instrument as an aid in connection with the musical program of the school. The instrument is one of the new type portable Hammond electric organs. The installation of this instrument is the first in any public school in the United States. Several private schools now have these electric organs with that in the Taft school at Watertown, Conn., and that in the high school here being the first two installations in New England. The acquisition of the electric organ is the culmination of an idea conceived some fifteen years ago when a fund for the purchase of a pipe organ was started.

When the newest of the three high school buildings was constructed the possibility of the installation of a pipe organ was considered and efforts were provided in the assembly hall to take care of the necessary piping. The expense of this project was estimated at about $15,000. A few years ago the portable electric organ was developed and it became evident that it would not be necessary to undertake the more extensive project.

With additional bequests coming to the organ fund from a faculty contribution of a portion of the receipts from the annual faculty play, and other such sources the gift of the class of 1935 at the graduation exercises last June made it possible to purchase the new musical instrument at a cost of $1290 including the amplifying equipment. The instrument, weighing but two hundred and seventy five pounds may be taken to any room and plugged into any alternating current circuit. It can be used at an operating cost of about one cent per hour. The instrument contains twenty tubes similar to radio tubes which need occasional replacement so that the operating cost is almost negligible when compared with that of the ordinary pipe organ. The portable instrument fills all the needs of the pipe organ in the school and the ease with which it can be put into operation anywhere is a most desirable feature. This new type of organ is being installed in quite a number of the large broadcasting stations where they have been found to possess many advantages.

While at present the organ at the high school is being used in the music hall it will be used in the assembly hall in connection with school musical programs and in all probability will be available at times when the hall is granted for public use.

The accident at the corner of Lowell avenue and Walnut street on Tuesday morning in which several schoolboys were slightly injured calls attention to the dangerous conditions which exist in that vicinity at times when many are going to and from school. It is surprising that many more accidents, some of which might result more seriously, do not occur. While a large number of the pupils who drive automobiles to school operate properly, there are other young drivers who seem to have little regard for the safety of themselves and others. It is a common sight to see automobiles with six or more occupants where there should be only three at the most and frequently some of these boys are riding on the running boards. It is perhaps only natural that a boy wants to be a good fellow and give a classmate a ride but the sooner some of these young drivers realize that they are only exposing themselves and their chums to the dangers of serious injury the sooner the possibility of accidents will be lessened. And on this point parental influence and responsibility is the greatest.

The playground season has officially come to an end in Newton with the notice being issued by the playground department that all lifeguards and supervisors have been withdrawn. During the past several months lifeguard supervision has been provided at Crystal Lake bathing beach but from now on any youngster who braves the chilly waters and strives to emulate the L-street brownies does so at his own risk. Parents are urged to warn children of this fact. Throughout the city supervisors have been in charge of games and programs on the various playgrounds but with the reopening of the schools and the conclusion of playground season, equipment for many of the summer activities has been stored away for the next nine months.

This is a month of garden shows and in almost every show will be found an event for men which is proving to be one of the most popular and interesting classes of competition on the programs. Given an opportunity the men will turn out to be as competent at flower growing as many of the ladies. Last Saturday a most successful affair was held by the Waban Community Garden Club with exhibits in eight different classes. Miss Helen Monk was the winner in the class for miniature flowers in a miniature container. Ingenuity played a great part in this event with tiny flowers in such containers as thimbles, perfume bottles, ash trays and the like. Mr. George H. Moore was the winner in the men's class with fine blooms and careful arrangement. Mrs. James took the blue ribbon in a display of home grown flowers in a personal container and the prize for monochrome arrangements with flowers and container of the same color went to Mrs. Thomas Taylor for her copper bowl with marigolds. The large floor arrangement prize went to Mrs. Clifford H. Walker and the window box class to Mrs. Herbert Stettin. Mrs. William Henry won the table arrangement prize and in the final class for children under twelve Donald Black was the winner. The fall flower show at Newton Highlands this past Wednesday attracted much interest with its six classes and that at Newtonville next week Thursday with eight classes is being widely commented upon. Other flower shows are planned for this time of year in which the residents show their interest in an activity which has brought Newton its well-known designation as the Garden City.

Mothers' Club Has Outdoor Weenie Roast

The Mother's Club of the Stearns School Centre enjoyed an outdoor weenie roast at Cedar Hill, Waltham, on Thursday evening. Supper was followed by social singing and a visit to the flower display at the State Agricultural Experimental Station. The mothers were transported to and from the school in a bus.

The committee in charge of the outing included Mrs. Walter Carley, Mrs. James Butler, Mrs. Edmund White and Mrs. Patrick Moorhead.

Auburndale Couple To Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Somers of 9 Ware rd., Auburndale, are observing their golden wedding anniversary on Saturday, September 21st, and are being entertained by their daughter, Mrs. Fred C. Alexander of Newtonville, at Cedar Hill Mansion House, Waltham, for dinner where there will be a family gathering.

This Week at Your Boys' and Girls' Library

Vernon St., Newton Corner

It is the aim in offering a list of books on music, to relate music and its appreciation to the lives of boys and girls and set it to work as a training in wholesome use of leisure hours.

Frances Elliott Clark, in the foreword to "Music and Romance," by Hazel Gertrude Kinsella says: "Whether we will or no, music is now 'in the air,' in every social function, in every part of our daily life. Never before has it mattered so much whether one appreciated music, but now life is so full of it that not to have an acquaintance with the world's best music literature is to argue one's self illiterate indeed, uncultured and uneducated."

The following books on music are among those to be found on the shelves of the Boys' and Girls' Library:

- Music and Romance—Kinsella. (A course of study in music appreciation.)
- How Music Grew—Bauer and Peyser. (From prehistoric times to the present day.)

NEWTON 60 YEARS AGO

From Newton Republican, September 23, 1876

Our readers should notice the sale on Monday next by auction of desirable building lots on Sargent, Cherry and Henshaw sts.

The Republican rally in the school-house hall at Newton Centre on Saturday night was a grand success. Early in the evening fireworks were displayed in front of the school and a large audience assembled in the hall. Hon. F. M. Johnson presided in his usual and happy manner. General N. P. Banks made a lengthy address on the national and State campaigns.

A reunion of the family of Dr. S. F. Smith, author of "America," took place at the homestead on Centre st. last week. The occasion was the expected return of his son, Rev. D. A. Smith, to Burma where he has been a missionary.

A boy named Johnson was run over at Lower Falls by the Cataract Engine last Friday evening. Boys are apt to be careless in their eagerness to see the new machine. (The Cataract was a hand-th. Ed.)

NEWTON 50 YEARS AGO

From Newton Graphic, September 19, 1885

Edward Burnham of Fayette st., Newton, won the 10-mile bicycle race at Springfield last Saturday as the best amateur. This prize is a $300 gold badge studded with four diamonds. Mr. Burnham also competed in the 20-mile race; his time being less than one hour.

The Boston Ideal Uncle Tom's Cabin Company will perform at Elliot Hall this afternoon and this evening. We can assure our readers that this company will give high-class performances.

Again, some malicious person has taken delight in destroying the stained glass windows at the North Congregational Church at Nonantum. Surely Newton needs detectives as well as policemen.

On Monday the horses on Jonathan's express wagon took fright and ran down Prospect st. to Washington st. where they came in collision with Dr. Crockett's buggy, injuring the arm of the doctor's wife.

The Newton Horticultural Society's annual exhibition will be held at City Hall on September 22 and 23.

Fruit and hen thieves are committing depredations at Newton Centre. Jeffrey Connell had seven hens and a bushel of pears stolen from his place early last Saturday morning.

The bicycle should no longer be called a toy or plaything. Twenty-five high school students are riding to school on their every morning. The bicycles are stored in the sheds behind the school and secured by locking the two wheels with chain and padlock.

A destructive fire occurred early Wednesday morning, burning the barn and stables at the Edmunds estate on Centre st. The fire was incendiary, as no light or fire had been in the buildings for some time. The fire was discovered by a neighbor who was returning from Cambridge about 3:15 a. m. Neighbouring the neighborhood he observed that the fire was on the Edmunds estate. He awakened Mr. Lawrence Edmunds and his brother. They rushed to the buildings and saved the coach horses, carriages and harnesses. A farm horse and valuable calf were burned and twenty pigs in the basement of the stable were roasted alive. The alarm was not sounded until early 4 o'clock by an employee of Mr. Edmunds. The Newton Centre engine was the first to arrive. The Newton engine arrived several minutes later. Had there been a proper police patrol the fire would have been discovered and an alarm sent in from Box 13 at Centre and Sargent sts. The neighbor who discovered it first saw the glare as he was leaving Cambridge.

NEWTON 25 YEARS AGO

From Newton Graphic, September 16, 1910

John Alden of 547 Centre st., Newton, a direct descendant of the original John Alden of Plymouth, died at his home last night at the age of 75.

Spontaneous combustion in a pile of rags in a closet brought the fire department to the home of Congressman John W. Weeks at 97 Valcutt st. on Tuesday. The fire was discovered by servants and was extinguished by chemicals before it had a chance to spread.

One of the questions to be decided on the ballot at the coming state election by the voters of Newton is a proposed change in our charter giving the Mayor the power to remove city officials without the approval of the Board of Aldermen.

The new, sanitary drinking fountain has been finally installed in the Roger Wolcott School through the efforts of the Waban Woman's Club. The school opened with a record number of pupils, including three pairs of girl twins in one of the rooms.

Powers' Paragraphs

According to press dispatches from Geneva on September 13th the voice of France, which with that of Great Britain is crucial in the matter of the Italian threat to peace, was heard on that day in the League of Nations assembly. The dispatch stated: "There is none of hesitation or compromise in the words that, precise and succinct came from Premier Laval today. They rang clear—a declaration and a promise." Premier Laval said—"Our obligations are written in the covenant. France will not fail to discharge them."

What also could be expected of France? She is idealistic as she ever has been. Even as she has been, and is in her obligations written in the covenant between France and the United States in which France promised to repay the United States the huge sums loaned to her to prevent coaquies by Germany between 1914 and 1917, and for rehabilitation in the years after the World War. Honorable France! "Ami de cour."

Senator McAdoo, 71, on his third honeymoon asserts (according to press reports) that he is as full of vigor as a man of 30. Cuck-a-doodle-do, Mr. McAdoo.

One phase of the much-discussed controversy regarding the radio broadcast by a Boston station in which an announcer spoke of the expected appointment of a judge to the Councillor Baker by Governor Curley did not receive much publicity. Following the broadcast Tully, the young news service reporter for the radio broadcasting station, was summoned before Governor Curley and the Executive Council. Tully was questioned as to where he obtained the alleged information about Baker going to be rewarded by being made a superior court judge. He replied that eight or nine persons had told him of this report but he could not recall their names. Among those who took a lending part in interrogating Tully was Hon. Daniel Conkey, the former bitter castigator of the Governor, but, since almost the beginning of the present administration, Mr. Curley's champion and co-worker.

After Tully had been questioned at considerable length without any definite information having been obtained from him as to who gave him the information regarding Councillor Baker, the interrogation ceased and Tully departed from the Council chamber. In less than an hour he returned and told the Governor and Council that he could remember the name of one man who had told him of the report regarding the alleged contemplated appointment of Baker to a judgeship. He named Councillor Frank A. Brooks of Watertown. Questioned by Mr. Brooks, Tully admitted that during his absence from the council chamber he had been talking

The witches' cauldron is seething in Europe and the dogs of hell may soon be turned loose, less than 17 years after the "War to end Wars" was won. Isn't it too bad that this country is not tied up in that great body which was to have guaranteed peace, the League of Nations, so that the U. S. A. would become involved in another European mess begotten of centuries of racial enmities, duplicity and economic competition between Old World nations.

England and Italy would not pay the U. S. A. their debts, but can finance another war.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By L. D. G. BENTLEY

Will They Ever Learn?
Followers of horse and dog racing have been allowed a "breathing spell," which was probably good for them after so much breathless experience. They got it ahead of "Big Business" and from what I hear, needed it as much or more. In their case, however, it was made mandatory by the Legislature. Soon, however, we may expect that the crowds will again be flocking to Suffolk Downs and Revere. I wonder if it was an act of sublime wisdom when the Solons decided to specify the number of days on which dog and horse racing should be held in Massachusetts and that there should be a cessation in other words a let-up on betting?

Well, those who want it will voluntarily suffer a relapse of the gambling fever. Not that I oppose individual liberty, not being a merchant or professional man with a lot of bills uncollected. I wonder if our lovers of wagering have taken advantage of the "breathing spell" to make substantial provision against the winter and also to purchase Christmas gifts for family and friends. If they haven't and again find themselves cleaned-out, as they probably will, it is bound to be a cheerless season for many.

He Did His Best
A group of Orientals called to pay their respects to a prominent official. As far as the "great man's" office was concerned it was only another appointment. The big chief, unfortunately, was out-of-town but the callers, nevertheless, expected some sort of ceremony. One of the secretaries left his desk to do the honors. He seemed somewhat embarrassed. In fact, the speech he undertook to make, was halcyon, if that's the word. But he stammered and coughed until one of his fellow secretaries whispered, "That's good enough. Don't try to address them in their native tongue."

Taking Their Word
You may not find any heart throbs or subjects of palpitating interest in the annual report of the State Department of Public Health but there are contained in that volume oodles of interesting facts. Not that I got steamed-up over over-activated sledge, average solids, trickling filters, etc. Nevertheless, the volume set forth the greatest variety of data regarding food inspections and detection of adulterants which is alarming in one sense and reassuring in another. What pleased me most was the well-

Is This a Fact?
It is possible to pick up philosophy, if you wish to call it that, here, there and everywhere. From a Boston politician—one of those practical fellows who keeps his car to the ground, especially in his own district—I gleaned something of his brand of psychology. Said he:

"You know, we all like to do things because we see somebody else do them. Ain't that a fact? Just to illustrate. Suppose they are passing the hat or the collection plate. You see the fellow next to you put in a quarter. Well, that makes you put in a quarter, too. Whereas, if you were alone you'd probably put in 10 cents."

How Foolish to Cry and Bluff a Traffic Cop. At least, it's been my observation that few get away with it. Take the case of a young man—he may have been 20, but no older—who was stopped for disobeying signals. As a humble pedestrian I was obliged to witness the scene from the sidewalk. I thought the officer was mild, if anything too mild, and was surprised when the youth waxed indignant and threatened to "get" him. Of course he was afraid his young girl companion would think him a quitter if he didn't act that way. It wouldn't have surprised me if the cop had done something pretty extreme, but he was a wise bird and knew a better way to put the kid in his place. Waving his hand, he said, "Drive along, sonny, and don't be naughty again. Remember, papa spank."

Rotarians Told Business Is Improving

A vigorous forecast of returning prosperity, with general business recording an encouraging upturn during the remainder of 1935 was made by Creighton J. Hill, of the staff of the Babson Statistical Organization at the regular weekly luncheon of the Newton Rotary Club at the Braclinn Country Club last Monday. Mr. Hill gave special attention in his remarks to the labor situation. He said in part: "Business is better today than many realize and far better than some are willing to admit! The fundamental trend of business is up. The general volume of business today is 41% greater than it was at the low point in 1933. It is 12% above a year ago and is only 19% below normal. The Dow Jones Industrial Average has advanced over 90 points from its low, an increase of 219%. The value of all stocks and bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange has appreciated over $33,000,000,000.

Wholesale commodity prices have advanced 30%. Industrial production 51%, steel production that dropped as low as 10% of capacity in 1932 is now around 52% capacity, automobile production this year will more than double the low point in 1932, with an estimated production of 3,200,000 cars, farm income this year is 10% above 1934, and 43% above the depression low, the banks are overflowing with more than $2,000,000,000 excess reserves, and 334 cities out of 361, or 92%, show a gain over a year ago. "What business needs today from within is more attention and less talk. No matter what agitation is taking place, some one must carry on business. He who stands behind the counter and waits on the customer gets the business. He who attends the noonday luncheon gets full of pessimism, revolution and dictatorship. If business men would only let others spend their time telling the world what dire things are going to happen to it, the first thing that would happen would be a substantial increase in the present recovery.

"Both factory employment and payrolls are already moving up. This improvement should be quite vigorous during the last quarter. Unusually noticeable gains should be recorded in the automotive, chemical, and electrical equipment lines. The building industry will likewise call thousands back to work. Since the depression low point in March, 1933, factory employment has gained 35% and payrolls have moved up 81%, although both factors are still somewhat below normal levels.

"Hourly wage rates, which are now at approximately the highest levels on record, will be a focal point of management-labor relations during the coming year. There will be no general stampede for wage increases during the period immediately ahead. Companies and industries doing an increasing volume of business will be the first to feel an upward pressure. All concerns should watch living costs, as a signal indicating what may be expected in this connection. As they reach higher levels, wage increase demands will follow.

"A slight increase in living costs is now beginning to be felt, partly from seasonal strengthening. This will probably continue during the rest of 1935. Wholesale prices have been rising steadily, and early in September were at the highest point since 1930. This of course is bound to seep through to retail prices. Living costs are now 16% above the depression low-point and still 18% below the 1929 levels.

"A definite increase in strikes is already being noted as business is picking up, and there will be sporadic labor troubles evident in the months ahead. No major strikes, however, should occur to cripple any vital industry. The enactment of the Guffey Act has prevented any walkout in the bituminous coal industry for at least six months.

"So far this year, through August, we have recorded 553 strikes, which is well below the total of 1388 in the same period of last year. Strike totals last month were 102 compared with 170 in August a year ago. Look for more strikes—but not for more serious strikes—during the rest of this year."

Traffic Report Urges Public Relations Bureau To Aid Enforcement

Recommends More Thoughtful Handling by the Police of the Numerous Problems of Violations

The comprehensive report of the traffic survey made in Newton under ERA auspices states that even though physical hazards are eliminated and adequate vehicle and pedestrian facilities provided, maximum safety cannot be attained unless intelligent supervision and constant guidance are provided. Certain recommendations are presented to officials responsible for the administration of traffic enforcement laws and ordinances in Newton.

Under the heading "Law Observance and Enforcement" Chapter 4 of the report contains the following paragraphs: "The responsibility for the observance of traffic regulations and their enforcement is shared by three agencies—the police, the courts, and the Registry of Motor Vehicles. Of these three, the police come in contact with the average motorist most frequently."

"The financial and moral support of the citizens of Newton will have an important bearing on the success or failure of any corrective measures undertaken by the police. Modern equipment must be provided to combat the problem effectively, and the police must be free to carry out disciplinary measures on an equitable basis. In this connection, it should be pointed out that a remarkable opportunity exists for the police department to gain the confidence and good-will of the public through the medium of traffic safety. This topic provides a common ground for the public and the police since it has a personal bearing upon every citizen. A thorough understanding of what the police are trying to accomplish will insure a sympathetic response on the part of the general public."

"To this end a public relations bureau should be established to serve as a contact between the police department and the newspapers, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and similar civic organizations. These duties might well be delegated to one or two officers whose personal qualifications and experience best fit them for this work. In this way the proper kind of publicity may be obtained and the department will not be measured entirely by its unpleasant duties, but will be credited with the good that it accomplishes."

"To carry such a plan to a successful completion it is recommended that the police give serious consideration to the modern treatment of traffic violators. The average offender is usually a respected member of the community whose support is vital to the interests and welfare of the police organization. If he is antagonized by what he considers unethical or discriminatory treatment at the hands of traffic officers, he cannot be expected to lend his wholehearted support to these measures designed to improve the working conditions of the department. It is believed that this antagonistic attitude on the part of the motorist is due largely to a misunderstanding as to the reasonableness of the warning or arrest. To correct this situation as far as possible, the International Association of Chiefs of Police has suggested that warnings and arrests be related to an accident basis rather than to the legal technical approach now generally used."

"As a step in this direction, the majority of warnings and arrests should be made where experience has shown there is a definite correlation between recurring accidents and certain traffic violations. In order that this data may be available, it is essential that comprehensive records of accident reports be kept at police headquarters. If it may be assumed that adequate police records are available to furnish this information, the next step is the handling of the violator. At present it is customary in most cities for the officer merely to inform the offender that he is being warned or arrested on a certain charge. In most cases, the individual feels — particularly if the reason for the regulation is not obvious, that he was merely unlucky enough to have violated some technicality when a police officer happened to be present. It is therefore suggested that the officer emphasize the conditions and not the law. Under this plan the officer would inform the driver that he is being warned or arrested for a particular violation which during the previous year was the direct cause of so many accidents and so many deaths at that particular location. It is felt that if the motorist is thus given some logical reason for the action taken, he would be, less antagonistic toward police enforcement methods. Unfortunately, the term 'enforcement' is generally associated in the mind of the average motorist only with penalties, such as fines and jail sentences. These measures might be more properly termed punitive enforcement measures, since they are a negative process by which people are taught what not to do by penalizing them for what they have done."

"The general policy of the police everywhere to attempt to enforce traffic regulations strictly and exactly as written and with no regard for circumstances or the degree of the offense has engendered dislike for them and their methods. Strict, rigid enforcement means wholesale prosecution, which in turn means the alienation of public sympathy. An unsympathetic public finds ways and means of interfering with the work of limiting the powers of the police and hampering the courts. A hampered body of enforcement officials is a burden on the taxpayer because it cannot perform the functions for which it is employed. It is time to face the fact that the public is opposed to this kind of enforcement, and that for this reason such enforcement methods cannot be relied upon to obtain the desired results. In the past much reliance has been placed upon the idea that the proper way to accomplish safety is to make the unsafe thing unlawful, and then to catch and punish everyone committing an unlawful act, that one may even feel as though all hope is lost if this system is admitted to be inadequate."

A further study was also made of three of the most common driving violations at thirteen intersections. From these data taken by observers the total violations during a whole year were calculated. The results, shown in the following table, reach the staggering total of 4,876,300.

"To establish concretely the burden that strict enforcement would place on the police department, the courts and the public in Newton, two violations—stop sign and traffic signal observance — were checked at various intersections over a test period of two hours. The results are shown in the following tables:

While these studies on the observance of traffic regulations consider three violations—failing to stop at a through way, passing on red signal, and passing on red-and-yellow signal—there are many other violations which were not tabulated, such as driving with defective lights or brakes, failing to yield the right of way, operating at excessive speeds, and similar offenses. However, a total of nearly five million violations at only thirteen intersections in Newton involving the three driving rules listed seems convincing evidence that ample justification for the objections the public may voice to any program demanding rigid enforcement and wholesale prosecutions. The utter futility of a small force of officers attempting to cope with such a tremendous number of violations is obvious, and the need for using police officers more effectively very evident.

Camp Mary Day Closes

Camp Mary Day, the Newton Girl Scout Camp at Natick, closed after a very successful season on August twenty-ninth. One hundred and twenty different girls attended camp this summer, each staying from two to eight weeks—weeks which were full of adventure and fun. Highlights of the season were many and varied—from the Pirate Breakfast to the banquet which climaxed the season.

In July, eight campers were selected from among the most experienced to go on a Gypsy Trip to Camp Bonnie Brae, the Springfield Girl Scout Camp near Otis in the Berkshires. Mrs. Craig Pattengill, chairman of the camp committee, Mrs. Henry Skelton, also of the camp committee and Miss Margaret Adams, Assistant Camp Director, accompanied the girls. The trip was made by car—a bench wagon laden with packs and food supplies and a private car. The girls were received most hospitably by the Bonnie Brae campers and enjoyed the three days spent there in spite of the downpour which ceased for only a few hours during the period.

Overnight hikes to a farm two or three miles from camp were a very popular camp activity. The hilltop, just above an old reservoir, made an ideal place to unroll a pack and pitch a poncho shelter.

The theatre, with its natural amphitheatre and log seats, was used for many very effective plays and ballads during the summer. Each two week period, there was a visiting day when parents and friends were entertained by members of the three different units. Scenes from Alice in Wonderland, Winnie the Pooh and Robin Hood were enacted, and several delightful plays were presented. Among the latter was "The Princess Marries the Page," by Edna St. Vincent Millay. Costumes were cleverly devised from bits of ribbon and colored paper, green ferns, and borrowed rubber boots. Indefatigable scene shifters made stone walls and wells, thrones and gardens with realistic results.

The waterfront was again the most popular place in camp. The swimming chart showed rapid progress from beginner to advanced swimmer, and several campers were able to complete the American Red Cross Junior Life Saver project. Canoeing and boating for both profit and fun filled many hours. A few experts were delighted to complete the Sailor Proficiency badge. Miss Sally Tarbell, Waterfront Director, conducted a Swimming and boating play day in August. Relay races, obstacle races and games, stunts and form paddling were features of the program. Swimmers raced, reading aloud from newspapers, or carrying an egg in a spoon, or took part in a cock fight—an attempt to throw one's opponent from the shoulders of her partner, while she is trying to work the same trick against one.

Outdoor cooking, pioneering, nature crafts and signaling all claimed a part in the life of a camper—with the result that there were very few unoccupied moments.

The day before camp closed, all the girls who had been at camp during the entire season were invited to attend the banquet, with the result that one hundred persons sat round the festive board. After a delicious meal, there were toasts and speeches over which Miss Carolyn L. Freeman, Camp Director, presided.

GIRL SCOUTS HAVE NEW FIELD CAPTAIN

The Newton Girl Scout Council feels very fortunate in the appointment of Miss Eloise Barber, of Newton, as the new Field Captain. Miss Barber is a Golden Eaglet and a former member of Troop 2. She is a graduate of Boston University and has been engaged in Y. W. C. A. work for the past five years. During the past summer, Miss Barber has been directing Day Camp Programs for the Brookline and Natick Girl Scout Councils. She has been preparing for her work in Newton by studying at Camp Edith Macy and Pine Tree Camp, two of the National Girl Scout training schools. Miss Barber will take the place of Miss Margaret Adams, who will be assistant director of the Newton Girl Scout Council. Girl Scout Headquarters will open September 16. Miss Caroline Freeman, Director and Miss Barbara Dales, secretary, will again be members of the staff.

Bigelow Junior H. S.

Club meetings were held in the first regular club period Thursday. Pupils had a choice of the following clubs: Bird, Cooking, Camera, Debate, Dramatic, Glee, Handicraft, Illustrators, Junior Red Cross, Printing, Sports, Stamp, Travel, and Typewriting. Next week the clubs will elect their officers.

Last Friday the 7th grade had its first get together home room program in the music hall. Patricia Turchon was chairman. Marjorie MacNeil led the grade in the recitation of the 23rd Psalm and the Lord's Prayer, and William Macklin led the Flag Salute. A violin selection was given by Jean Milliker and piano selections were given by Helen Powers. The program concluded with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

At the second school assembly a concert was given by the ERA Orchestra. The school enjoyed this orchestra's program last year and was pleased to have them again this year. Parents are always welcome at assemblies held in the school auditorium at 9 a. m. every Wednesday. Mr. Cronin, of the Newton Library, will tell stories at the next assembly.

The officers of the Bigelow Banner were chosen as follows: Janet Smith, editor-in-chief; Clinton Wilson, vice-chairman; Robert Gallant, secretary; Jean Kruger, business manager. As there is a new printing press in the school with new equipment, the Bigelow Banner Board is going to publish three volumes instead of two as last year, and the volumes will be of increased size.

Home room soccer and touch football schedules for the school begin Sept. 23. Each home room is coached by a member of the faculty.

Weeks Jr. High

Parents' Day will be observed on the first Tuesday of each month. At that time, parents are encouraged to visit school directly following the dismissal of classes at 2:19 when they may confer with the home-room and subject teachers in regard to the progress of their individual children. A discussion and mutual understanding between teacher and parent of the child's problems will often-times anticipate and eliminate later difficulties. Notices of Parents' Day will be sent home by the pupils a few days in advance in order that plans can be made to interview the various teachers.

The enrollment in the school has increased from 301 on the opening day, September 9, to 332 as of Monday, September 16. By grades, the figures are announced as follows: seventh, 348; eighth, 296; and ninth, 288.

The boys' intramural soccer leagues got under way with the opening games played on Thursday. The following have been elected captains of their respective home rooms: Grade 9—101, George Thorne; 204, Bruce Spilman; 208, Brown Powers; 209, Robert Liming; 210, Jack Lane; 211, Clifford Goodband; 213, Tersina D'Ester; 215, Tom Burkhardt; Grade 8—111, Bill Thompson; 211, Schuyler Royce; 218, Antonio Rozzi; 304, Louis MacLennan; 307, William Harley; 310, Walter Harley; 313, Donald Garland; 314, James Basler; and 319C, Joe Cappadona. Grade 7—107, Purk Stuart; 113, Sidney Vickers; 205, John Murphy; 207, Albert Pellegrini; 212, William McIntyre; 305, Tony Lombardo; 309, Roy Grubbaugh; 311, Aurelio DiMuzio; 312, Arthur Greene; 318, Stanley Collinson; and 320, William Buxter.

TWILIGHT BASEBALL LEAGUE HOLDS BANQUET

The tenth anniversary banquet of the Newton Twilight League was held last Thursday evening at the Newton Catholic Club Hall, West Newton. An enthusiastic gathering of more than a hundred baseball players and fans were present to greet the guest of honor "Babe" Dahlgren of the Boston Red Sox. Excellent music was provided by the Newton ERA orchestra through the courtesy of Mr. Webber, their managing director. Alderman John Barwise, chairman of the banquet committee, proved to be a tactful toastmaster and following an eloquent tribute to the league management by Manager Fielding of the Centre A. C. gave a representative of each other team a maximum of two minutes to pay their tributes.

A letter from Mayor Weeks was read by Chairman Barwise stating that because of an accident which confined him to his bed his honor would be unable to be present. Chairman Barwise also read a telegram from Mayor Edwin O. Childs stating that he would be unable to attend because of a death in his immediate family. Jim Dempsey, secretary to the Mayor, was observed in the rear of the hall and called upon for a few remarks. General Daniel Needham regaled the audience with anecdotes and incidents from his own baseball experiences both here and in France.

Alderman Cronin recalled the baseball rivalries of other years when Newton had but a few poorly equipped playing fields. Alderman McCahe had a good word to say for the benefits the league was bringing to the young people of the City and Alderman Guzzi told of his predicament during the recent series when he as officer of the Catholic Club was suspected of being disloyal to his countrymen on the "Aces."

Rev. Fr. Bohand speaking for the Catholic Club told of the enthusiasm with which his club had entered the league and later the championship series of amusing anecdotes.

Superintendent Ernest Hermann of the Playground Department reviewed the early history of the league under the able guidance of "Rufe" Bond and stated that he felt the league had obtained the desired results. He stated that in no city he had visited in his recent tour through the middle west had he found the baseball diamonds as numerous and well constructed as those of Newton. We have, he stated, 14 major baseball diamonds of first-class construction with raised infield and skinned area and 19 lesser diamonds.

Following a brief talk by John J. Lane, executive director of the league, gold baseballs were presented by Superintendent Hermann to the Newton A. C., city champions and silver baseballs to the Newton Catholic Club, league champions.

Following this presentation six excellent acts of vaudeville were presented through the courtesy of Thomas DeSour and Louis Tabaldi, father of the star short-stop of the "Aces" and himself a former star N. A. A. ball player.

Plans are underway for the launching of a basketball league to continue athletic activities for these young men. It is hoped to have teams at the Newton Catholic Club, Our Lady's, Upper Falls, and Newton Centre. A meeting is to be held in the near future at the Y. M. C. A. to perfect plans for this league.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

NEWTON AFTER WIN IN FOOTBALL OPENER

While Coach Ralph M. Sanborn will make no statements about his Newton High football team that he has not made every year at this time of the season, Newton must be regarded as a favorite over Arlington in the season's opening game tomorrow, 3 P. M., at Arlington High field. Newton's line is ponderous but not awkward, and the backs are veterans, although lacking possibly the individual brilliance of the Arlington ace, Bart Madden.

The Newton line, heaviest in years to wear the orange and black, will line up at the kickoff with Bob Prowten, 186, and Ralph Salvucci, 165, on the ends, Allen "Ox" Wilson, 203, on the Howard Milner, 198, at the tackles, Jerry DeNapoli, 165, and Carl Davis, 145, at guards, and Jim Packard, 175, at centre. Aside from routine bruises, the squad is in perfect shape.

Ernie Savignano Ready

Calling the Newton plays from the quarterback position will be Ernie Savignano, captain and veteran ball-carrying ace. He has John Reardon as fullback and Ernest Maelood and Burt Woodward as halfbacks. These four are just as experienced as the Arlington backs, who nevertheless seem to have greater versatility at this point.

Newton took on Belmont in a practice scrimmage Tuesday, working about 45 boys in against the hilltoppers, and Sanborn spent most of his time on pass defense and straight offense. Warren Wittens, state champion and record-holder in the low hurdles, returned to the squad as second-string end, although it was said a week ago that he had given up foot-hall in the interest of his hurdling. Jack Horrick, second team halfback, broke his nose a week ago today but is ready to go against Arlington, wearing a leather proboscis attached to his helmet.

Reserve Strength Good

On the bench at the opening whistle tomorrow Sanborn will have a goodly string of reserves, some of them varsity lettermen last year, and all with some experience. The second eleven comprises Jim McEwen and Warren Wittens, ends; Bob Whelden and John Reel, tackles; Howard Gross and Jim Newcomb, guards; Brad Thomson, centre; Charles Callanan, quarterback; James Joyce and Lloyd Walker, halfbacks, and Al Thomson, fullback.

Newton will show a decided innovation against Arlington in the way of a shift sequence from the huddle to the start of the play; the shift has never been used much at Newton, and will be given the acid test tomorrow. Sanborn's boys take the field with the knowledge that they must keep a heavy hand on Madden, and the Arlington ace will probably do more damage by passing than by carrying the ball personally. All in all, it looks like a real football game.

Newton's schedule for the season follows:

Sat., Sept. 21--Arlington at Arlington.
 Sat., Sept. 28--Cambridge H. & L. at Newton.

Drove Bride and Groom Too Fast

Noisy, speeding processions of automobiles which characterize some weddings will be discouraged in Newton if the appearance in the Newton court last Friday of Salvatore Campisi, 142 Calvary st., Waltham, acts as a deterrent. Campisi was charged with speeding and driving so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. The case was continued until Sept. 26th. Patrolmen Monroe and Taffe, the complainants, stated that they chased the wedding motorcade of 8 cars from Newtonville to Newton Corner before they stopped the car operated by Campisi, who was leading the allegedly reckless parade and serving as chauffeur for the happy bride and groom.

Young Burglars Are Sentenced

Two Watertown youths, who broke into the office of H. H. Hawkins & Son, rear of 238 Washington st., Newton Corner, on the night of May 30th last, received sentences on Friday in the Superior Court, Cambridge, James Hovey, 17, of 21 Linden way, Watertown, was sent to the Concord Reformatory. His brother, John L. Hovey, 16, was sent to Lyman Industrial School. The two stole $517 from a safe in the Hawkins' office.

Better Buicks For 1936

The well-known slogan of the Buick Motor Car Company -- "When better cars are made, BUICK will make them" -- is exemplified on the new 1936 BUICK models which will be officially displayed on Saturday, Sept. 28th. Many striking improvements have been made in the styling of the 1936 models and the constant betterment of the mechanical features of Buick is in evidence. The sales force of the Newton Buick Company returned last week from the convention held at the Buick plant in Flint, Michigan, and they will be pleased to explain all the new features at the Newton Buick Company showroom, 371 Washington st., Newton, corner of Thorton st., where the 1936 models will be on display.

ARLINGTON LINE IS LIGHTER THIS YEAR

Last year Arlington had a steam-roller line that pushed the Newton eleven east and west on the Dickinson Stadium turf almost at will. But the situation is just about reversed this year, and Newton's line will outweigh Arlington's more than 10 pounds to the man when the teams line up for the first whistle of the season at Arlington.

Only two boys who started games in the line for Arlington last fall will be out there tomorrow. They are co-captain Paul Dorrington, 160-lb. center, and George Bourget, 155-lb. tackle. The others are Dave Kennedy, 145, and Bob O'Reilly, 155, ends; Vincent Suhr, 155, or William Lane, 160, tackles; John McNally, 155, and Stelk Schroder, 155, guards. The line averages under 163 pounds at this reckoning, while the Newton forwards average 175. Bill Lane, a brother of last year's Princeton captain, will get the call at right tackle if he can shake a cbarley horse huise before game time.

Bart Madden the Kingpin

Coach Ostergren has a backfield at Arlington which can equal anything Ralph Sanborn can combine. The kingpin of their veteran quartet is quarterback Bart Madden, a triple-threat ace, who is regarded not as "another George Ford" or "another Warren Huston," but just Bart Madden. Spectacular half-carrying and kicking are second nature to him, but in tomorrow's game it is likely he will be most dangerous on the starting end of a dozen beautiful passes.

With Madden in the Arlington backfield will be Al Lennon at fullback, Winnie Oliverio and Art Oliverio at the halfback positions. All three are veterans in Arlington hockey, baseball and football conflicts, and their coolness under fire will do much to steady the green line. Much will depend on the brother halfbacks if those Newton off-tackle slants begin clicking.

Neither Newton nor Arlington can regard this opening game as a practice workout or a pushover. Unlike other suburban schools, who import small school opponents to try out their power attack in their first games, these rivals start off with a bang. Arlington will face Leonminster, Fitchburg and Malden in successive weeks after the Newton game, while Newton has almost as rugged a list, meeting Cambridge Latin, Lynn English and Everett.

To Start Classes in First Aid and Home Hygiene

Would you like to help some one who has met with an accident, perhaps broken a limb or severed an artery, or burned himself?
 Would you like to know what to do when a person has been saved from drowning, electric shock or gas poisoning?
 Do you know how to give a bath to a patient in bed? Bathe a baby? Take temperature and pulse? Protect your family from preventable disease? And stay well?
 If not, learn now.
 Register for courses in "First Aid" or "Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick" at the Newton Chapter American Red Cross, 12 Austin st., Newtonville, telephone Newton North 2717.

Fails To Get Liquor Permit

Santi DiPuccio of 97 Elm st., West Newton, was again refused a license to sell liquors at his luncheon at that address by the Newton License Commission last Monday. Several months ago DiPuccio was turned down when he made an application to the local commission for a license to sell beer and wine. He took an appeal to the State Board and again failed. Undaunted, he recently made another application — this time asking for a license to sell all alcoholic beverages.
The Newton License Commission also refused applications for common victualer licenses to J. C. Foley, Jr., and D. W. Smith who operate an ice cream store at 348 Centre st., Newton, and to Joseph Sala, who runs a small store at 122 Adams st., Nonantum. Neither of these places qualified as being properly equipped to serve food and the commission was of the opinion that the common victualer licenses are wanted to enable these stores to be kept open Sunday days. A common victualer permit was granted to Mrs. Isabelle Davis at 301 Auburn st., Auburndale.

Recent Deaths

Geo. F. McNamee,
Well Known War
Veteran, Dies

George F. McNamee of 21 Thaxter rd., Newtonville, died on Sept. 16 at the Soldiers' Home, Chelsea, after a long illness. He was born in Somerville, 47 years ago, and resided in Natick before coming to this city to live 12 years ago. During the World War he served overseas in the 117th Engineers. He had been in the employ of the State Department of Public Health as an x-ray technician. He was a past commander of Eugene Bailey Post, V. F. W., of Newton, and a member of Newton Post, American Legion, and Chaplain of Wm. Farrell Post, Disabled Veterans. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mildred (Doirant) McNamee; his mother, Mrs. Mary McNamee, and a brother, James H. McNamee, of Natick; and two sisters, Mrs. Isabelle Kadlin of Boston and Mrs. Charles E. Thornton of Springfield, Maine.

The funeral service, held at Our Lady's church yesterday morning at 10 was one of the most imposing seen in this city in recent years. A procession composed of large delegations of veteran organizations and their auxiliaries formed at the McNamee residence and escorted the body along Nevada, Watertown and Adams sts. to the church. The organizations marching included Eugene Bailey Post, V. F. W., Newton Post, American Legion; Elsie Janis Post, American Legion; Wm. Farrell Post, Disabled Veterans; and Sons of V. F. W. of Newton and Watertown. Following the solemn requiem mass the procession reformed and marched along Washington st. to a point opposite the Levi Warren School, West Newton. The casket was there transferred from an artillery caisson to a hearse, and the marchers entered automobiles and rode in the funeral cortege to Natick, where they alighted at the State Armory and again escorted the body to St. Patrick's cemetery, Natick, a firing squad from Fort Banks accompanied the military honor of three volleys, and taps were sounded by four buglers.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late JACOB W. KING, JR. acknowledges with grateful appreciation the kind expressions of sympathy from their many neighbors and friends.

Mrs. Mary Alexander, 23, of 332 Elliot st., Newton Upper Falls, was fined $50 in the Newton court last Friday for driving an automobile so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. On Aug. 14, a car driven by the young woman hit the motorcycle of Officer Dwyer as it was parked on the Worcester turnpike at Newton Highlands, knocking it against the policeman and injuring him. Dwyer had stopped a car on the turnpike for speeding and was standing alongside of it when the car driven by Mrs. Alexander came along.

According to the police testimony, Mrs. Alexander first stated that the glare of the sun prevented her from seeing the motorcycle. She denied having said this and testified that a speeding car had forced her towards the motorcycle. Patrolman Joseph Kelly testified that following the accident he inspected the brakes on Mrs. Alexander's car and found the emergency brake out of order.

Representatives of the petitioners at past hearings have stated that the company needs facilities to store oil to serve its customers in this vicinity, and that it has been denied permits both at this location and in Crystal Lake. Three Drivers Charged With Drunken Driving

Several motorists were arraigned in the Newton court on Tuesday following their arrests for alleged drunken driving. Stuart Shepard, 89 Rawson rd., Brookline, was in court Tuesday morning. He was arrested at 5 a. m. that morning by Patrolman Condrin and Walker. According to police records Shepard had been convicted before on a similar offense. His case was continued to September 27. Theodore Lemieux of 51 Westchester rd., Newton, was also arraigned in court on Tuesday for driving while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested Monday afternoon by Patrolman McMahon. His case was continued until September 26.

Frank Cunningham of Charles st., Auburndale was arrested Monday afternoon by Sgt. Leelan and Patrolman Dowling charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, and leaving the scene of an accident without revealing his identity. It is alleged that a milk truck driven by Cunningham hit a car operated by Richard Bartlett of Natick. The accident occurred at Commonwealth ave. and Melrose st. and the truck then disappeared. Cunningham was found by the policemen driving the truck on Charles st. His case was continued until September 26.

Circus Fair At Newton Centre

Headed by Mrs. S. Hardy Mitchell, the women of Trinity Church, Newton Centre, will hold on Tuesday, Sept. 24th, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., their annual money-making event.

This year the intriguing title "The Merry Go Round Circus Fair" is expected to draw hundreds of young and old together to investigate the mysteries of the big 30x60 tent, covered with gay posters, which will be located on Homer st., corner of Centre st. Novel methods of display as yet unrevealed but fully up to previous standards, so well remembered, will greet the eyes of the prospective customers as they enter this huge tent. All wares will be well advertised on the posters which are in themselves works of real art. A very antique decorative scheme is to be used in keeping with the title.

For the children a real merry go round, ponies, balloons, pop corn, grabs, and an entertainment.
For their elders, "An Old-Fashioned Sapper" at 6 p. m. "The Big Parade," an evening's entertainment at 8 p. m. A lovely garden and "A Sidekick Cafe" will provide charm and refreshment for all ages. (If raining postponed to next day.)

The names of the officers and chairmen of committees follow: Hon. Chairman, Mrs. Edward T. Sullivan; Acting Chairman, Mrs. S. Hardy Mitchell; Vice Chairman, Mrs. Rodney W. Stratton; Secretary, Mrs. Lois H. Fitch; Treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Johnston; Chairmen: Messrs. W. Cornell Appleton, Louis H. Fuller, Earle E. Tilton, Albert B. Cram, Ralph E. Houghton, Elmer M. Enter Claims Against City

Among recent claims against the City of Newton is one from Josephine Estabrook of 283 Central st., Auburndale for water damage to her house which was flooded in the cellar on July 6 by water which backed in from a clogged sewer pipe in the street. Margaret White of 57 Metacomb rd., Waban asks for payment for damage to her watch. She fell while crossing Wamesit rd. at Beacon st. and states that stones on the road caused her to fall. Edna Roberts of Brighton asks for payment for injuries received when she fell on an alleged defective sidewalk on Kenrick st.

Studio of Expression Re-Opens in Wellesley

The Studio of Expression conducted by Sarah Brodner at 210 Walnut st., Wellesley Hills, will reopen for its second term on Saturday, Sept. 28th. The aim of this expression work is to develop poise and personality through the use of prose, poetry, plays, and pantomime study. The natural fondness of the children for the make-believe is an aid to the development of talents that are pleasurable and useful to the child throughout life. Although the studio will specialize in the work for children there will be private lessons in interpretation and delivery available for adults. Private speech corrective work is also offered for children with serious speech handicaps.

The Scout leaders of the Norumbega Council Inc., are planning to hold a big get-together at the Boston Council Scout Camp at Loon Pond on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 28th and 29th.

The leaders will be placed in troops as the Scouts are and go to camp as Scout Troops. These troops are made up according to the district:

Sachem District — Newton Centre; Leadership of Mr. A. F. Noble.
Squanto District — Newtonville, Newton, Nonantum; Leadership of Mr. W. M. Howe.
Viking District — West Newton, Auburndale; Leadership of Mr. M. P. Gaddis.
Quinobegun District — Waban, Newton Upper Falls, Newton Highlands; Leadership of Mr. R. P. Ashley.

These leaders will be the Scoutmasters of the troops made up of the Scout leaders in the above-named districts. The Scoutmasters will be the Patrol leaders of the patrols made up of the members of the committee and fathers of boys in the troops.

These four troops will have all the fun of a week-end in camp. There will be boating, archery, rifle shooting, games of all sorts. The men are doing their own cooking as regular Scouts would do in camp.

On Saturday night, the 28th, there will be a large campfire. This will be run by one of the famous leaders in the country, Mr. Charles Smith of Columbia University. Mr. Smith has written a number of books on Scout-ing and games. He is one of the leading men in the founding of the training program for the Boy Scouts of America. Soon after the founding of the Cub program he devoted much time and thought to this new venture. In fact he is one of the best all-around men in the National Council—a camper, author, leader of boys, educator.

On Sunday, the 29th, there will be a Scouts' Own Service followed by a number of group discussions. Mr. Smith will speak to the group and tell about the new training program. Mr. Ralph H. Nodine, the regional Scout Executive for New England, will also speak. Mr. Nodine lives in West Newton and has been a Scout, Patrol Leader, Scoutmaster, and in fact has grown up in the game of Scouting.

Men who have attended these meetings in former years have had a wonderful time and it looks as if it is going to be all the better this year.

building permit to reconstruct the building. The permit was refused by Building Commissioner Hageman and the Newton Board of Appeal sustained his decision. Another application has been made by the owners asking for a permit to reconstruct the apartment building as a three story structure instead of four stories as formerly applied for. Waban Hill residents also protest against this and will appear at a public hearing next Tuesday night at City Hall to voice their objections. They claim the apartment house will depreciate the value of their properties.

The owners of the property involved, through their attorney, question the right of the city to rezone the locus so that an apartment building cannot be erected on it. They state to so change the zone will be equivalent to confiscation of the property as it is not suitable for a two-family dwelling.

Expect Increase In Nash Sales

The outlook for new car sales in most sections of the country this Fall is the brightest it has been since 1929, according to an announcement made this week by C. H. Bliss, vice-president and director of sales of the Nash Motors Company.

"Reports from our own distributing organization as well as retail sales surveys show that the prospect for Fall business is better this year than it has been in the last five years," said Mr. Bliss. "In the agricultural sections such as the midwestern grain belt and the northwestern states, good crops promise a healthy improvement in all lines of retail merchandising," he continued.

The automobile business, which has been a pace maker in establishing sales records this year, is certain to share in this generally improved sales outlook, according to the Nash sales director.

Opens Memorial Studio In Newton Centre

In opening the Pitbladdo Memorial Studio in Newton Centre, Mr. G. Willard Pitbladdo brings with him 25 years' experience in this art plus a background of a family of craftsmen who have followed this interesting trade since the early 1800's.

In 1836 William Pitbladdo, a stone cutter in Scotland, came to America to continue the family art and in 1842 erected his first shop at the entrance of the Greenwood Cemetery in New York.

Later his son Thomas continued the Memorial Art and expanded into stained glass work.
In 1900 Grant R. Pitbladdo took over the craft his father and grandfather had so successfully carried on. The business grew and the name Pitbladdo had become one of the best known in the trade.
In 1910 G. Willard Pitbladdo, the fourth generation, was admitted to the company. His natural skill in design gave impetus to a still newer trend in the Memorial Arts. Instead of the staid memorials of the past—a personal motif was added. Patrons' ideas were incorporated in the design and carried out through the medium of Stone, Glass or Bronze. Again the name Pitbladdo led the way toward correct design in Memorial Art.

Guzzi Seeks Resolutions On Gas Rates

He asked the Board to vote in favor of his resolutions. The matter was referred to the Committee on Legislation. The resolutions were as follows:

"WHEREAS: A petition has been filed by the Boston Consolidated Gas Company with the Department of Public Utilities requesting a large increase in the monthly cost of gas which will bear most heavily upon the small household user of gas, therefore be it

"RESOLVED: That the Board of Aldermen of the City of Newton protest against the granting of said petition and be it further

"RESOLVED: That a copy of this resolution be sent to His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to the Senator and Representatives of this district, to the Department of Public Utilities of the Commonwealth, to the mayor and to the city solicitor."

George Raft Heads Paramount Theatre Bill

Displaying his talents in an entirely new kind of screen portrayal, George Raft comes to the Paramount Theatre in Newton starting Sunday for four days in "Every Night at Eight" as an egotistical, yet humorously sympathetic dance-band leader.

The film, a romantic comedy drama set to music, is the screen's first presentation of a radio amateur hour. Allee Faye, Frances Langford, Patsy Kelly, the Three Radio Rogues and Walter Catlett are in the supporting cast.

This film releases six new song hits to the lovers of good music. On the same program is Jean Arthur and Victor Jory in "Party Wire." Opening Thursday the attraction will be

Ida Lupino and Kent Taylor, in "Smart Girl." The companion feature stars Lew Ayers and Mae Clark in "Silk Hat Kid."

Starting Sunday, September 29th, is the opening of the "New Season Show World" with all the latest pictures one after another. Wait and see the big hits of the year at the Paramount Theatre in Newton.

To Discuss Plans For New Branch Library

A joint meeting of the incorporators of the new Newtonville Library Association, Inc., and the executive committee and the district representatives of the Newtonville Improvement Association, will be held at the Newton High School, Monday evening, September 30th.

The object of the meeting is to arouse interest in the new library project which has the endorsement of the Improvement Association as shown by its gift of $500, the first money to be received for the library fund.

Nothing will be started in the way of a campaign for funds until the completion of the Community Chest, but there will be a mobilization of forces to carry out the purposes of the Newtonville Library Association, Inc., so that work on the library project may begin with the close of the Chest drive.

Newton Forum Committees Are Well Organized

Many Prominent Citizens Are Co-Operating

That the City of Newton will have its own Community Forum, patterned after the famous Ford Hall Forum of Boston, was the announcement made yesterday by Prof. Kirtley S. Matheson, president of the Adult Educational Council, after a Steering Committee meeting in which prominent citizens of Newton pledged their co-operation and definite plans were formulated for the coming season.

The Forum will provide the City of Newton for the first time with a means whereby all classes and groups of citizens may meet on a common ground of open and free discussion of public affairs and movements. It is stated that a number of nationally known speakers will appear before the Forum during the course of the seven Sunday afternoon gatherings which are being arranged for the coming winter. Such speakers as John Haynes Holmes, Smedley Butler and Margaret Shattuck are among those on the preliminary list. The address of the speaker will be followed by a question period and general discussion from the floor.

A broadly representative group of Newton residents will direct the activities of the Forum through the Steering Committee. Professor Matheson is President. The Executive Committee includes Julius E. Warren, of Newton Highlands, Superintendent of Newton Schools; Mrs. Francis J. Flagg, Newtonville, of the Professional Women's Club of Boston; Dr. William T. O'Halloran, Newton Centre; Waldo C. Peabody of Newton Centre; and Walter M. Taylor, West Newton, of the Newton High School faculty, who has been appointed Executive Secretary-Treasurer of the Forum. Committee memberships include: Finance, Frederic B. Eastman, Newtonville, chairman; A. Graham Bates, (Continued on Page 6)

Aldermen Want Police Relieved Of Extra Duties

A recent petition presented to Chief Hughes by many of the members of the Newton Police Department asking that they receive compensatory time off for performing school traffic duty one day each week, had a sequence at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night when Alderman Cronin argued in favor of relieving policemen who perform night duty from also having to perform traffic duty during day hours.

Cronin called the attention of the Aldermen to this condition. He went into details about the patrolmen being compelled one week to work from 6 p. m. until 1 a. m. and then do traffic duty the following day from 8 to 9:30 a. m., 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 3 p. m. until the children have departed from the schools to their homes. He said the night patrolmen should be relieved from this additional work to improve the efficiency and morale of the department, and that more patrolmen should be appointed to the force, or unemployed men given work as special officers for school traffic duty. He also suggested that traffic signals be installed in front of schools and operated by someone in the school building.

Alderman Atkins agreed with Cronin. He said that he had heard some complaints made about the Newton police which he would not repeat in public. Atkins commented that he would not blame Newton policemen for taking refreshments when they have to work 24 hours a day. He asserted that the policemen will not make arrests nights when they are forced to do the extra traffic duty because they don't want to lose further sleep by having to appear in court the following morning to testify against persons whom they might have arrested. He urged that men be appointed to the department as a reserve force, and thus provide sufficient men for school traffic, and relieve the night men of the added duty.

Alderman Guzzi concurred with Cronin and Atkins. He said the report made of traffic conditions in Newton under ERA supervision stated that ten additional men should be appointed to the Police Department and be assigned to traffic work. Guzzi said that Mayor Weeks had replied to this suggestion by saying there is no money available.

Auto Pushes Man, Baby Into River

Jefferson Bender of 1261 Beacon st., Brookline and his 21 months old son were pushed into the Charles River opposite Norwiche Park Sunday afternoon by an automobile which rolled down the slight slope toward the stream. The car had been parked about 35 feet from the edge of the river by George Loving of Robbins st., Waltham. Loving started to walk toward the cove where Bender and his child with others were feeding the ducks at the edge of the river. The brakes on the car failed to hold and the machine slowly rolled into the water pushing Bender and the little boy ahead of it. Both received a wetting and the child was slightly cut about the face. The automobile came to a stop after its front wheels had been submerged.

Hill May Run For Alderman

Donald M. Hill of 16 Madison ave., Newtonville, who is serving his fourth year as Ward Alderman from Ward 2, informed the GRAPHIC yesterday that he may be a candidate for reelection to the Board. He has not yet made his decision, and the report that he will not be a candidate was unauthorized.

During the past ten days three additional cases of infantile paralysis and one suspected case have been reported in Newton. All these cases are reported as being mild and the four children who have the disease are being treated at the Newton Hospital.

Beano Party At Our Lady's School

The first of a series of beano parties in aid of the parish fund of Our Lady's parish at Newton was held in the parochial high school hall last Monday night. It was very successful, over 100 persons attending. Fifty valuable prizes were awarded. Rev. Russell Haley was in charge assisted by a large committee of members of the parish. These parties will be held each Monday night in the school hall, the second party to take place next Monday night at 8:30.

Aldermen Vote To Take Land At Oak Hill For School and Playground—Authorize Bond Issue

Aldermen Vote To Locate School Near Greenwood Street—Most of Land To Be Donated

The largest school and playground area in this city became a certainty on Monday night when the Board of Aldermen voted to take by right of eminent domain 7 acres of land at Oak Hill for school purposes, and to accept the gift of 33 acres of land adjoining the school site for playground and other public purposes. The land where the school will be located is situated off Greenwood st. and is part of the farm owned by the Barry estate. It is high land. The 10 acres which are being donated to the city is meadow land between Parker and Dedham sts.

Alderman Bowen, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Aldermen said that the Public Works and Finance Committees approved the taking of the land and the authorizing of a bond issue of $255,000 to pay for the costs of the new Oak Hill School and an addition to the Angier School at Waban. He explained that in addition to this amount, the city expects to receive at least 30% of the costs of the two school projects from the Federal government as PWA grants. The cost of the Oak Hill school is estimated at $225,750, and that of the addition to the Angier School—$32,900. These costs include the school furnishings and work on the school grounds. It is expected that the PWA grants will amount to at least $92,000.

Alderman McCabe said he is in sympathy with Oak Hill getting a new school, but consideration should be given to new schools to replace the Franklin, Elliot and Lincoln schools, which serve a larger number of children. He stated he had been assured that the need for new schools in these districts will be taken care of next year, and so he would vote "Yes" on the Oak Hill matter. Alderman Bartley said that delay by the Aldermen in taking action on the Oak Hill school would prevent the city obtaining the Federal grant. He argued that a new school for small children is needed on the North side of Ward 1 so that these children would not have to cross Washington st., compared with which he said Boylston st. is a country lane. With the belief that the school to replace the Elliot and Lincoln schools will be built next year, he said he would vote for the Oak Hill school. Alderman Atkins said he would not stand in the way of improvements in other parts of the city, but the Elliot and Lincoln schools should have been condemned and replaced years ago. He commented that Ward 1 should organize an improvement association similar to that of Oak Hill. Alderman Guzzi of Ward 3 who has consistently opposed the substitution

Keller To Run In Ward 6

Harold R. Keller of 47 Oxford rd., Newton Centre, has announced his candidacy for Ward Alderman from Ward 6 to succeed Paul M. Goddard who is a candidate for Alderman-at-Large. Mr. Keller was born in Omaha, Nebraska, in 1889.

He is an industrial engineer, and a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy. Before resigning from the service, over ten years ago, he had reached the rank of Lieutenant-Commander which office he held during the World War. He was stationed in the war zone throughout the duration of the war.

He has owned his own home in Newton Centre for seventeen years, where he now resides with his wife and two sons, Russell and Wilbur Keller. He was one of the organizers and early scoutmasters of Troop 20, has served on the Community Chest, was president of the Trinity Church Men's Club, and has been an election officer in Precinct 3 for the last six years. He has the endorsement of many of the most representative citizens of the ward including some of the members of the ward committee and several previous aldermen.

TRAFFIC CONTROL AT SCHOOL TIME

The petition of Newton policemen on night duty to receive extra time off in return for extra duty during school hours has considerable merit. The attitude of some of the members of the Board of Aldermen in urging the appointment of additional officers as a reserve force for school duty will not enhance the possibilities of arriving at a desirable solution of this perplexing problem. The obvious fact is that it is expensive to equip and maintain a reserve force to use as relief men or as additional officers in control of traffic at school time. Although the officers assigned to school traffic duty are doing every bit that can be expected of them we have frequently commented upon the fact that there are numerous other crossings where officers might well be placed when the traffic at school times is heavy. The possibility of developing a small corps of part-time officers trained as a traffic squad from unemployed who are receiving welfare aid is appealing. Creating such a force from such a source would mean little additional expense inasmuch as the welfare costs would be decreased to some extent. Although it is possible that there are numerous difficulties of a legal or practical character to be surmounted it seems as though there should be some way to accomplish the desired end.

A NEWTON COMMUNITY FORUM

The announcement of the organization of a Community Forum in Newton will be received with widespread enthusiasm. The programs being arranged by the committee in charge will bring speakers of national prominence to the assembly hall at the Newton High School. The inadequacy of auditorium facilities in Newton has been proven at the graduation of the senior class at the high school and the feeling has frequently been expressed for the need of a large auditorium for community and civic purposes. The popularity of the programs to be offered this winter by the Forum should aid in determining the need of such facilities. A group of Newton residents, broadly representative of the citizens of Newton, will direct the activities of the Forum. There is a wide field for the fostering of a more unified and centralized community spirit by the focusing of public attention upon live questions of a non-political and non-sectarian character. The Newton Community Forum, we are certain, will receive the hearty endorsement and support of all.

A COUNCIL FOR MODERATION

An educational campaign against excessive drinking among American people was launched this week in New York by the Council for Moderation. The council is a group who believe that moderation is better than excess and emphatically asserts that it has no intentions of participating in a wet or dry political controversy. Many outstanding men and women are actively engaged in furthering the activities of the council, which they believe gives the best promise of any organization attempting to educate the American people regarding the use of alcoholic liquors. The council will not attempt to reform the drunkard, nor will it attempt to prosecute drunkards or drunken drivers. It will not encourage the use of liquor by young or old, nor will it attempt to define moderation in terms of amounts consumed. The council believes that total abstinence is an entirely satisfactory way for many persons, individually, but it frankly points out that "to attempt to enforce abstinence by law always will defeat its own ends. . . total abstinence is a consciously adopted personal attitude and not a rule of living dependent upon coercive action." The council believes that boys and girls are better off when they abstain from the use of liquor but it points out that parental influence and example governs the problem in this direction. All in all the council seems to hold a broadminded view of the problem of intoxicating liquors and we believe that it will go a long way in its endeavors to educate the American public toward moderation.

STORES TO OPEN FRIDAY EVENINGS

The decision of some of the retail stores at Newton Corner to open on Friday evening is in line with modern trends. In many business centers Friday has superseded Saturday as the busiest shopping day of the week. This has largely come about through the adoption of the five-day week where many factories and business concerns do not open on Saturday at all. Saturday closing has meant that Friday has become pay-day for thousands of employees and they are gradually getting into the habit of shopping on Friday evenings if given the opportunity. We trust that the experiment by Newton business men will meet with the support of the public.

It has now reached the point where two men are being given one state job. We refer to the appointment of two managers for Governor Curley's district employment bureau in Worcester County. Is this a new way of providing "work and wages"?

Daylight Saving ends Sunday morning at two o'clock. Set your clocks back an hour.

There once was a man named Bey
Who killed a policeman, they say.
They hunted day after day—
Now Bey is no longer at bay.

The State Department of Public Works is preparing to allot a considerable amount of money to cities and towns under Governor Curley's highway bond program of $13,000,000 which was enacted at the last session of the legislature. The allotments now being prepared are for sidewalk work on state highways on such projects throughout the state as have been approved by Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan. Work was received this week that Newton was to receive a share of this work in the construction and repair of sidewalks along the Worcester turnpike. It is planned to provide a sidewalk along the north side of the pike from the Boston line to the Wellesley line, a distance of approximately three and three-quarters miles.

The sidewalk will be of a black concrete surface and will have granite curbstones. While there are sidewalks at various points along Boylston st., there is much of it with either none or inadequate provision for pedestrians.

Newton officials are not cognizant of the use of local unemployed lists in the selection of workmen for this project and it is practically certain that those employed on the work will be selected from the state unemployed lists. Under these conditions it is probable that only a small percentage of Newton unemployed will receive much benefit. There have been numerous instances where these employed on state projects have been sent from Boston and other places to the site of the job by trucks with only a few men from the local city involved being employed. One of the alleged reasons governing the situation is said to be the larger number of unemployed in the larger cities. Another reason is undoubtedly the fact that those in sympathy with the administration are given an opportunity to share in the patronage being handed out.

There is a great amount of interest in the final disposition of the property at Newton Centre on the edge of Crystal Lake, formerly occupied by the old ice house. This property is in a manufacturing zone. All other property on the shore of the lake is in a residence zone of either single or private residence character. There are eight lots on Norwood ave. and Lake ave. bordering the lake in private residence zone and an effort will be made to place these in the single residence zone. If this is done the old ice house site will be the only remaining property on the lake shore not in a single residence zone. Various petitions have been presented to the Board of Aldermen in the past year or two seeking to continue to use this land for business purposes as well as to restrict it to residential use. It is a live question, particularly in Newton Centre, and the ultimate outcome may be for the city to take the land over as a park.

The dramatic season is again becoming active throughout Newton. It is almost impossible to estimate the number of Newton people interested in this form of entertainment and recreation. In almost every village there is at least one club and in many cases more, to say nothing of the church societies and organizations, that are planning dramatic programs. The members of these many organizations devote hours of time to participation in dramatics and in many instances it is remarkable to what extent the thespian art has been developed locally. Frequently some of the productions upon which the amateur actors embark result in performances equal to that of a professional cast. There is little question that Newton is deeply conscious of its dramatic opportunities and many pleasant evenings are assured for the fall and winter.

A little bit of politics. A group of five Republican state Senators have formed a Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee for the immediate purpose of aiding in the election of a Republican Senator from the 2nd Essex District to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Albert Pierce of Salem. The outstanding issue will probably be anti-Carleyism and as a number of Republican Senators voted for Democratic measures at times during the past session the group may continue in existence until after the next primary to campaign against those Republican Senators who have shown themselves as favorable to Governor Curley's plans. Senator Samuel Wragg of Needham is chairman of the committee, Senator Angier L. Goodwin of Melrose is vice-chairman, and Henry Parkman, Jr., of Boston treasurer. Senators Arthur H. Hols of Newton and Joseph Cotton of Lexington are the two other members of the committee.

It is possible that within a few years Newton may have a tennis player wearing some of the titles now being worn by such stars as Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs. Miss Elena Ciccone, 16-year old Newton Centre girl, has made rapid strides along the path to tennis glory in the past two years. As the girl champion of Massachusetts she went to Philadelphia about two weeks ago to compete in the girls' national tourney. She came close to capturing the national title by reaching the finals after a decisive sweep in preliminary matches. Eighteen year old Patricia Henry of Los Angeles conquered the local girl but with two more years of eligibility her many friends expect to see the girls' national title brought home to Newton Centre.

The political situation in the 8th Congressional District increases in interest. The contest is between Ex-Governor Claflin of Newtonville and Mr. Chandler of Brookline. Brookline has elected Chandler delegates. Let Newton send a united delegation for Mr. Claflin.

The 22nd annual fall exhibition of the Newton Horticultural Society was held in City Hall Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The collections of apples and vegetables were the largest. Several gentlemen who have been the largest contributors of pens were not represented this year.

J. P. Cebb's Vocal Club will resume its rehearsals on Monday evening, October 5, at his music room in Elliot Block. It is desirable that it be understood that this club is not a church affair, neither is it sectarian, but a club to which all good singers are welcome.

We hope our citizens of all denominations will not forget that Dwight L. Moody, the Evangelist, will hold a two days' meeting at Elliot Church on Thursday and Friday, October 1 and 2. All those who attend are requested to bring their Gospel Hymns.

The performances advertised to take place at Elliot Hall last Saturday failed to come off; the Boston Ideal "Uncle Tom" company not putting in an appearance. Some 500 or 600 gathered for the afternoon performance and no doubt the evening would have brought a larger crowd had the company come to time. It was rumored that the troupe was crippled by meagre support elsewhere.

The highway committee of the Board of Aldermen has been unjustly censured for the present condition of the streets of the city. Last year after a most careful study the committee estimated that $22,000 would be needed for reconstruction work on streets this year. The Finance Committee of the Aldermen cut this amount to $19,000. The Common Council, not to be outdone in economy further cut the figures to $15,000.

The illumination on the Charles River on Thursday evening was a grand success in every respect and the Newton Boat Club is to be congratulated upon the inception and accomplishment of one of the most unique and novel displays that has ever taken place in this vicinity, or even on this side of the Atlantic. A vast crowd witnessed the scene and were emphatic in expressions of approval. The boats in line in the procession were of every conceivable design. Every residence along the river banks was handsomely illuminated with Chinese and Japanese lanterns. Captain Calkins and his associates of the Newton Boat Club had charge of the Newton portion of the carnival. The affair was so successful that it is now proposed to hold the carnival annually in conjunction with the Waltham boat clubs.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night a petition was received from Albert Brackett for the establishment of telephone communication between Engine 1 house and the central fire station.

The proposed lawn at the junction of Cypress and Parker sts. has been surveyed and the subscription for the purchase is very encouraging. The area which is about 2500 square feet will be brought to grade of abutting streets, the stone wall removed and the triangle on which stands a young elm included. The Improvement Society will have charge of the work.

Mayor Hatfield gave a hearing Wednesday morning on the petition of Jacob Leavitt to run a motion picture show in Lincoln Hall, Newton Highlands. In view of the protests received the hearing was postponed until Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Not in 42 years has the water in the Charles River been so low. It has become impossible to paddle a canoe between Riverside and Newton Lower Falls. Many citizens of Newton and Wellesley have complained of the filth which has become exposed on the river bottom. A bill to meet that condition was presented to the last Legislature. It sought an appropriation to have the river dredged but action was postponed. Many cases of malaria reported in Newton and Wellesley this summer are declared by physicians to be caused by the condition of the river.

Powers' Paragraphs

Criticisms are being made of the reckless way in which automobiles are being operated by students traveling to and from Newton High School. The other day on Walnut st. we observed a small roadster being driven away from the school. In it were nine youths and girls. Newton police and the school authorities should cooperate to stop this practice.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night a permit was granted to the Jordan Marsh Company to build a 2-car garage in front of the "prize winning house," which will be erected on Westchester rd., Chestnut Hill. The Licenses Committee objected to the location of the garage, projecting as it will about 20 feet in front of the house to which it will be attached as a wing. But, the committee yielded and voted to grant the permit with the Board concurring; Alderman Inches objecting. The explanations of Chairman Hill of the Licenses Committee and President Gordon of the Board are given in the news columns. We do not take issue on the merits of granting this permit, but the attitude of the Board, as evidenced by the explanations struck us as being sort of cream puff and wishy-washy.

Complaints are being made of a large number of electric street lights which have been broken in sections of Newton the past week by boys using sling shots. They buy the sling shots in local stores. The sale of these "toys" should be prohibited to stop malicious mischief. It is a serious matter to smash street lights.

The proposed conversion of the old Bassett estate at 264 Centre st., Newton into sites for gasoline stations marks the passing of the last and one of the fine old residences which in the last century were located on Centre and Galen sts. between Newton Corner and Watertown. The only one which will then survive will be that of Mrs. Mary Fuller Murdock at the corner of Centre and Carleton sts. Mrs. Murdock is a direct descendant of John Fuller, one of the first settlers of Cambridge Village (later Newtowne) who came here in 1641.

The granting of a permit by the Aldermen on Monday night for a gasoline filling station at 264 Centre st., Newton (the Bassett estate) marks another step in the evolution of the transition of the section along Centre and Galen sts. between Newton Corner and Watertown from a residence to a business district. During the 19th century the thoroughfare between Newton and Watertown was lined with fine, old residences. Now, only two remain, the Bassett home, in front of which it is proposed to locate the filling station, and the residence of Mrs. Mary (Fuller) Murdock at 261 Centre st., adjoining Carleton st. Mrs. Murdock is a direct descendant of John Fuller, one of the first settlers of Newton. He came to Newtowne (then Cambridge Village) in 1644.

The fact that 83,462 of the more than 90,000 persons who attended the Buer-Louis fight in New York on Tuesday night paid nearly $1,000,000 to witness that bloody spectacle proves the contention that this is the most highly civilized country in the world. That prize fighting is new accepted as a proper social diversion was proved by the attendance at the gory battle between the modern gladiators of Anna Roosevelt Dall Boettger and other ladies of high social standing.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Harding of Park ave., Newton have not a large estate but in their garden is pre-eminently many varieties of beautiful flowers and fruit which attest to the skill and industry of Mrs. Harding in floriculture. In addition, the garden is a rendezvous for many birds, attracted there by the food and water which are provided for them.

The efforts now being made by a certain resident of Chestnut Hill to have land along Boylston st. changed from private residence to business zone impress us as being a consummate manifestation of gall. As a member of the Board of Aldermen several years ago we had a part in refusing to permit adjoining land on Boylston st. to be used for a business enterprise, although the land was then in a business zone. We remember that this land was subsequently changed from business to residence zone and we recall at these instances the change was made. We also have a distinct recollection as to who the person was who took the lead in demanding the change of route on the Hammond Pond Parkway; a change which caused this highway to be constructed over a steep grade and around curves instead of the more practical route selected by the State and City engineers and at a large increase in cost. Remembering the arguments of the proponents of this change and the deference shown them by members of the Newton and State governments, we can now chuckle at the demand for the change in zone of part of the area which was so carefully safeguarded from intrusion by business and the "hei pollei."

By L. D. G. BENTLEY

Our Birthday Dozen

Crowded as is this week with important events such as the autumnal equinox, Monday night, when Summer ended and Fall began; the Buer-Louis polemic Tuesday night and the setting clocks back an hour programmed for tomorrow night, it is nevertheless necessary that this column historicize. Therefore, without further delay, let the fact be stated that it marks the twelfth year of "One Thing and Another." It is not that a bid is herein made for words of praise or condemnation. Either would be an embarrassment. The significance of the anniversary is sufficient.

Levity aside the writer is inexpressibly grateful to him, no longer among us, who urged its creation as a feature of the GRAPHIC and whose encouragement was as priceless as his friendship; to those he has left to carry on, to the readers who tell of their interest week by week; to such as have contributed by suggestions, letters, phone tips and the like and to those who have patiently put the words into type and read the proof—indeed, to all who have made its preparation not a task but a chat between friends, sincere thanks is bereft of friends.

Duty Calls

Several readers have spoken pretty sharply about disparaging reference in this column to old dress clothes. "What are you knocking my dress suit for," asked one. "It's 30 years old and while I'd like to have a new one I hate to throw it away." Others were equally severe. One man admitted his wife put him up to calling me down. Maybe the others were nagged into it, too. As a matter of fact the ladies should thank me, for my one purpose is to improve the appearance of their companions or, rather, their escorts.

For the sake of not being misunderstood I should like to repeat that I have no interest in the growth of the tailoring industry beyond a wish that all who follow it may have plenty of work at fair and equitable wages. The manufacture of cloth is something that does not concern me. No, I have no selfish motive beyond a yearning that all mankind should look neat and natty, especially on occasions when all should appear as festive as possible.

To those who have found fault with my article on men in evening clothes, whether they have conveyed their feelings to me or not, all I can say is that I have started forward on a march of progressive reform. It is too late to turn back. My banner is held aloft and there it shall remain, providing I succeed. Spend before the world is my motto, "Tidier Times."

Oddments

A day off, a life-long friend with a speedy new car, fine roads and mild weather made up the combination that last week brought me to the summit of Mount Wachusett. To dwell upon the glories of the view would, to most Newton people, be a duplication of their own experiences. Instead, I should ask myself why, as a native of Massachusetts, I never got there before. But then, how many of us can truthfully say we have seen all the sights worth seeing "right around Boston?"

For years strongly opposed to the radio and all its works, a friend of mine caused me surprise last week when he said he had installed an eight-tube set, imposing loud speaker and the rest of the essential contraptions. "Come up to the house and see, if you don't believe me," he urged. And I did, there to find that the set-up had been placed in his bedroom and adjacent to his downy couch. Said I, "I had an idea you'd come to it sooner or later but I didn't think you'd take it to bed with you." He looked squarely at me as he replied, "I still hate it, but manage to swallow a dose or two of it when I'm lying down."

Newton has always had a feeling that its conduct in political matters was far superior to that of Boston. Let's not waste time in arguing that. Listen instead to the Boston politician who told me he thought of running for the City Council. The question, he explained, was one of finances. "How much money do you need, a thousand?" he inquired. "Man," he replied, "if I had $1000 for a campaign fund I'd run for Governor."

Baffling Botany

It may be a little late for a Summer story but this one just floated in and, besides, I like it. One of those fresh-air fads had provided a group of underprivileged little girls, say 10 to 12 years old, with an outing in the country. City-bred and raised, they were thrilled by commonplace rural sights. The geranium garden, profuse and brilliant under the tender care of the farmer's wife, aroused deep admiration on the part of a skinny and shy little miss. With big, wondering eyes, she turned to her playmate and asked, "What do they call those wonderful flowers?"

With an air of haughtiness and superiority, the other child replied, "Geraniums, you poor nut, anybody knows that."

Yes!...

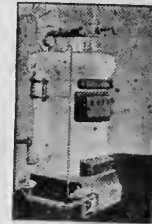

We've changed over to
AUTOMATIC GAS HEAT

... and here's why:

"Before we changed over, we investigated every other method of house-heating... and found that GAS compared favorably in cost with all the others. Then we weighed all the advantages
... and found that GAS offered a far greater dollar-for-dollar value than any other fuel.

"Figure it out yourself! With Gas Heat, you don't have to run up and downstairs all day tending fires. There are no ashes to sift... no soot, no smoke, no odors. There are no whirring noises... no moving parts to get clogged up or need replacing. With Gas Heat, you don't have to worry about fires going out on cold nights, and you don't have to fear a fuel shortage when delivery trucks get delayed in storms. In fact, Gas has so many advantages that my husband says that it's just as economical and far, far more efficient than all the old-fashioned methods of heating. I strongly advise every woman I know to look into this matter of Gas Heat herself... and talk it over with her husband."

Take this hint. Investigate the possibilities and advantages of Gas Heat. Get in touch with our House Heating Department

THAT Son 'OF YOURS

Is he away at school or college this Fall? If so, remember after a hard-won football game, a tough exam passed, or perhaps fraternity initiations, that telephoned congratulations from you will sound pretty good to him.

And if he is late with his laundry, remiss with his letters, or if you have a question or uncertainty for him to clear up, remember that no matter how many miles away he may be, he still is as near as your telephone.

AND THAT Daughter

If she is away at school, too, or travelling, or visiting, the voice of her mother or dad is going to sound mighty good to her, many times. A triumph in dramatics, a well-written composition, a sorority election, call for personal words of praise.

Or she may encounter situations and problems a little beyond her depth. Encourage her to telephone home when such needs arise. Let her be sure that, although she may not be able to see you, she will never be beyond the sound of your voice.

Women's Club Activities

Edited by EMMA D. COOLIDGE

Plea to Clubwomen

An arresting fact is that on Tuesday, September 24th, from two sources came an urgent appeal to women to work actively for peace. They are especially asked to work to keep the United States from being led into another war. The folly of war was hit forcibly by the First Lady of the Land at Washington, when asked her views in a Press Conference. Declaring war-fronts as well as pioneer frontiers a thing of the past, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said two oceans would be no barrier to a war that involved this country, and the time is here to decide if civilization is worth saving.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who recently wrote "In Defence of Curiosity," also stated with spirit:

"I think this is a very good moment for all women everywhere to think about war. From my point of view it is clearly proved that force never did settle any question. It has just bred new questions."

"It never does settle anything. It simply destroys and destroys until a point is reached where there is nothing left to destroy, and then people can begin to build again."

"I can not see why women, the conservers of the race, don't see this and exert more real practical pressure against that way of settling difficulties."

And at the same time in Providence, with the Italo-Ethiopian situation growing more acute, delegates gathered at the New England Conference of the State Federations of Women's Clubs were urged to express themselves strongly at once as opposed to any American interference in the war.

Mayor James E. Dunne of Providence sounded the warning as he addressed the gathering of 400 delegates, pointing out that the strength of the women of the nation, especially the women organized in clubs, is the desired force needed to preserve the American policy of neutrality.

"It is the duty of the women," he said, "to keep us from meddling in this Ethiopian situation. They are the ones who can do it."

He encouraged the women, on the other hand, to "wage a war" in behalf of their Resolution calling for Highway Beautification and for more rigid enforcement of rules preventing the erection of billboards.

The Billboard Resolution was slated to be adopted at the second-day session of the Convention Wednesday, Mrs. Florence Paul of York Village, Me., is the author of the measure, which recommends that the Conference call to the attention of the Member Federations any violations of the statutes relating to the control of outdoor advertising.

Flower Exhibit Attractive

An appreciative group of friends of the Newton Highlands Garden Club shared with the members in their enjoyment of a very unusual and interesting Flower Show, put on by the Garden Club at the Workshop on Wednesday, September 18th.

A special exhibit of Dahlias, by Mrs. John J. Fogg, showed to what perfection of color and form these flowers could be grown under skilled care.

The three Arrangement Classes received high commendation, and proved what lovely things can be done with the simple fall flowers when used with thoughtful choice of forms and colors, and with appropriate containers.

In Class IV, An Arrangement of Mixed Flowers, first prize was won by Mrs. W. Herbert Stetson for a mixed bouquet arranged in an ivory-white vase on a teakwood stand, and with a silver background, also in an ivory vase and against silver; and Mrs. Albert H. Elder won third prize for marigolds and zinnias in orange and brown shades, arranged in a blue-green pottery jar.

Class V called for Arrangements in Blue Containers, to be placed in niches of deep-cream color, and in this class, first prize was won by Mrs. L. Harris for red, single dahlias in a container of rich, deep blue. Second prize was won by Mrs. Albert Elder for marigolds in a blue jar; and third prize by Mrs. Donald B. McKay for her arrangement of red, white and blue flowers in a blue pottery jar.

In Class VI, Arrangements of Vines in green prune-jar bottles, used on the window shelves, and limited to five entries, were all so lovely it was hard to decide which three were the best. First prize was finally given to Mrs. Emil F. Habersroh for her arrangement of nighshade; second prize to Mrs. H. C. Harris for a beini vine with its red flowers and hanging pods; and third prize to Mrs. Percy I. Merry for nasturtiums. Mrs. Ward I. Cornell's arrangement of wisteria leaves, and Mrs. Warren B. Kennedy's clematis vine also were much admired.

In the Horticultural Classes exhibits, Class I, calling for a Single Specimen of a New or Unusual Flower, and Class III, for a Bouquet of the Outstanding Flower of the garden, were centres of keen interest. Class II, for Roses, had fewer exhibits, but Mrs. W. Herbert Stetson's showy won three prizes, a first for Lady Alice Stanley; a first for her collection of roses, and a second for her Mrs. E. P. Thom. Mrs. Raymond H. Wisner won third prize in this class for a very lovely pale pink rose, unnamed.

In Class I, first prize in the Annual section was won by Mrs. Donald McKay for her thionia speciosa; second prize by Mrs. B. Walter Goulet for her clematis, Orange Shaggy and third prize by Mrs. Percy Merry for her marigold, Yellow Supreme.

In the Percutaneous section, the first prize went to Mrs. Percy Merry for her stalk of verbeena venosa, and Mrs. Emil Habersroh won second with her coneflower.

In Class III, Mrs. Percy Merry again won, receiving first prize for her orange cosmos, shown in an amber glass vase, and second prize for her vase of yellow marigolds. Third prize went to Mrs. E. D. It will be called to order by the new chairman, Mrs. John A. Jennings, promptly at 10:30 a. m., after which the doors will be opened only between speakers, when one minute will be allowed for prompt seating. Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, president of the State Federation, will open the Club year officially as well as the Club Institutes. Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth, second vice-president and Club Institute adviser, also will welcome the clubwomen, and Mrs. Herbert F. French, fourth vice-president and Subscription chairman of "Federation Topics" will speak briefly. This year the fifteen minutes of Parliamentary Procedure will be presented by Mrs. George E. Hutchins.

The subject of the Forum will be "My Club Objectives for the Coming Year," and the speakers will be the following presidents: Mrs. Edgar W. Farwell, of Brockton Woman's Club; Mrs. Edwin Troland, of Old and New of Malden; Mrs. William H. Tague, of Amherst Woman's Club; Mrs. Russell A. Cone, of Winthrop Woman's Club; Mrs. Charles H. Danforth, of Community Club of Roslindale; and Mrs. Charles S. Clifford, of Woman's Club of Harvard. These presidents also will answer any questions on the subject during the discussion which will precede the regular question period.

For the convenience of those chairmen who may care to use it, there will be a Bulletin Board placed between the two doors leading into the Auditorium, opposite the elevators. Mrs. Jennings will post any notices sent to her before the first of the month, and accepted by her, beginning October 3rd at 9:30 a. m.

These Institutes, where every phase of Club work is discussed, are planned to be a helpful and instructive medium for all clubwomen who desire to attend. Convening as it does at the same time when State committees are in session in the building it affords an opportunity for clubwomen to contact officers and State chairmen before and after the Club Institute.

Recent Weddings

BECKFORD—CONGDON

On Saturday evening, Sept. 21st, at 8 o'clock at the Union Church in Waban, the marriage of Miss Pauline Congdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Congdon, to Fred Alexander Beckford, Jr., was solemnized. The Rev. Joseph C. MacDonald officiated. Clibthum fern and white gladioli decorated the chancel.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess style ivory satin gown. Her veil, which was worn by her mother at her wedding, fell from a cap of Brussels and rose point lace and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilacs-of-the-valley. Miss Drucella Moorhouse of Brussels, Belgium, was the maid of honor. Her gown was of peach satin and she carried a bouquet of peach and white gladioli complemented with sprays of delphinium. The bridesmaids were gowned in pale delphinium blue satin and carried bouquets of peach gladioli. In the group were Miss Edith Chaudler of Brookline, Miss Rhoda Palmer of Hamilton, Ontario, Miss Virginia Hanson and Miss Frances Willing of Waban.

Mrs. Congdon, mother of the bride, was gowned in plum velvet. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Beckford, wore black silk mirlouette over satin. The bride's brother, Dr. Palmer Congdon was best man for Mr. Beckford and the usher group consisted of Messrs David Cobb of Dedham, Ralph W. Coffin, Jr. of Mendon, a cousin of the bride, William H. Raye of Newton Centre, and F. Stedman Snow of Brookline.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents on Vnban ave. immediately followed the ceremony.

The bride was graduated from Dana Hall and from Wellesley College with the class of 1934. The bridegroom attended Amherst College and is a member of Theta Delta Chi. After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Beckford will make their home in Cambridge.

RYDER—COLTART

Miss A. Veeda Isabel Coltart was married to Edwin F. H. Ryder on Tuesday evening, Sept. 17th, at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. MacFarlane of Aberdeen st., Newton Highlands. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. C. P. Hiller of the Clinic Memorial M. E. Church of Newton Highlands. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Elsie Nagel.

Wide white satin ribbons formed an aisle through which the bridal party came to the living room where the ceremony was performed. A large white wedding bell and festoons of flowers formed the background. The home was decorated with autumn flowers.

The bride's gown was of white satin with a panel train. Her veil was of tulle held in place by a cap trimmed with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white and Talisman roses and baby's breath. Mrs. Marguerite Stiles the matron of honor, wore green satin and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Sampson, who wore pink brocade satin, and Miss Charlotte Burdette, who wore blue brocade satin. They carried bouquets of Talisman and pink roses and baby's breath. Miss Jean Mitchell, a cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a ruffled frock of changeable silk taffeta shaded from yellow to orange and carried a basket of Sweetheart roses and rose petals.

Ransom Stiles was the best man and the ushers were Wendell Colpetts, cousin of the groom, Ralph Runkin, and Burton and Edwin Mitchell, cousins of the bride.

At the reception which followed the ceremony the couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Ryder, parents of the groom.

SWIFT—WHEELER

Miss Jane Howell Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Wheeler of Suffolk rd., Chestnut Hill, was married to George Paschall Swift, son of Judge Parton Smith and Mrs. Smith of Buffalo, New York, on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 21st, at the home of her parents. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Rt. Rev. John LaFarge of New York performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin with a veil of tulle and carried an old-fashioned bouquet. Miss Elisabeth T. Wheeler, sister of the bride, who was the maid of honor, and only attendant, wore hydrangea blue brocade cloth with a hat of a darker shade of velvet and carried a shower bouquet of Fall flowers.

Parton Swift, Jr., was the best man, and the ushers were Harlan Justin Swift and Robert Randolph Swift, both of Buffalo, all brothers of the groom.

A reception was held following the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to Yama Farms in New York State, Mr. and Mrs. Swift will reside on Summer st. in Buffalo and will be at home after October 1st.

Cello Is Popular

Instrument at Music School

The fact that the 'cello has become very popular in music circles during the last few years was further demonstrated at the registration held at both branches of the All Newton Music School this past week. Many inquiries and applications for 'cello lessons prove that people in general are recognizing the true value of the instrument for solo work as well as its important place in all ensemble playing. It has also been found that progress on the 'cello is usually rapid and that the music parts for orchestral and trio work are more simple and easier to read than most of the other instruments. All of this seems to account for the growing popularity of the 'cello department at the All Newton Music School with Miss Ruth Masters in charge. The school opens its doors for its twenty-fifth season. The Music School has the cooperation and support of the Newton Community Chest, Inc., of which organization it is a charter member.

Aldermen Meet

The regular meeting of the Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night started at 8:10 with Vice President Floyd presiding in the absence of President Gordon. Hearings were announced on petitions of the Edison and Telephone companies for pole locations on Old Field rd., Braintree, Sheldon rd., Montrose and Vernon sts. No persons appeared to protest against these petitions. Neither did any opposition develop against the petitions of the Surety Cleansing Shop for a permit to increase the storage of varnishes at 957 Watertown st. from 100 to 500 gallons, and to store 250 gallons of gasoline at the rear of 961 Watertown st.; the Colonial Oil Company to keep 1,000 additional gallons of gasoline at 1742 Commonwealth ave., West Newton; Stephen Mugar for a permit to build a 3-car garage at 448 Newtonville ave.

Alderman Holden, reporting for the Claims and Rules Committee, recommended that leave to withdraw be given to the petition of Robert Curran to change land at Lindberg ave. and Henshaw pl., West Newton, from single to private residence zone. Holden said that 36 persons had opposed the petition and that some other means would probably be found to give Curran a waiver of a set-back requirement so that he can build a house on a particular lot. The committee's report was adopted.

Alderman Hill, reporting for the Licenses Committee, recommended leave to withdraw on the petition of Catherine Karalekas for a permit to establish a gasoline filling station at 1365 Centre st., near Crystal Lake. He said the same objections which caused the refusal of a similar petition last year still obtain. The Board sustained the committee. A petition of Edward Devlin to deal in second hand motor vehicles at 306 Langley rd. was refused because the locus is not in a business zone. The Aldermen voted to hold a public hearing on October 7 on the petition of Truman McLean for a permit to have an automobile repair shop at 873 Walnut st. A "short recess" was then taken which lasted from 8:20 until 10:54.

When the Board resumed its open meeting, President Gordon had arrived at the hall and relieved Alderman Floyd of the duty of presiding. Alderman Hill, chairman of the Licenses Committee, explained that this committee had voted favorably on the petition of the Jordan Marsh Company for a permit to build a 2 car garage on Westchester rd., Chestnut Hill. This garage will be attached to the house to be erected there by the Boston department store. Hill said that the location of the garage, in front of the house, does not meet with the committee's approval, but the proposed residence was selected from hundreds of designs submitted by architects in a prize-winning contest. The architect had travelled from Connecticut to confer with the committee, and the Newton Public Buildings Department had already granted a permit for the structure and preliminary work on the house is in progress.

Alderman Inches of Chestnut Hill opposed the recommendation of the other members of the committee. He said there are 15 houses on Westchester rd. which set well back from the street. The garage, which will rise two stories (with its gable roof) will stick out 25 feet in front of the residence to which it will be attached, and 12 feet in front of other houses on the street. He argued that if the Aldermen permit this garage to be erected sticking out in front of houses on the street, others will demand the same privilege, saying—"You let Jordan Marsh Company do it." Inches commented—"We will be cursed with this for sometime." The Board voted to grant the permit. President Gordon stated that "While the Licenses Committee feels it is not the right thing to do, it has informed the Public Buildings Department to tell applicants for garage permits that the aldermen do not like garages located in front of houses."

Anchor Line To Increase Service

As its share in the development of the port of Boston, the Anchor Line will bring more of its ships both east and westbound during the next year, according to a schedule announced Monday night by William F. McGrath of New York, Passenger Traffic Manager of the Anchor Line. In an address before 200 travelling representatives and freight shippers of New England, at a dinner given by the Boston office of the Line at the Parker House.

Mr. McGrath extolled the facilities the port of Boston has to offer. He said the Anchor Line has definitely decided to construct two new vessels which will be operated both in the North-Atlantic and Indian services, and to recodition the steamer Cameronia to take her regular place in the North-Atlantic during the next few months, thus assuring the travelling public of a weekly service between this country, Ireland and Great Britain.

Mr. McGrath expressed his appreciation for the support given the Anchor Line since its change in management, and feels sure that the travelling public will continue its patronage to justify the increased service planned.

The gathering was welcomed by John A. Aiken, New England Passenger Manager. The feature of the evening was the serving of dinner at a large table in the shape of an Anchor.

Mayor Weeks Back At City Hall

Mayor Sinclair Weeks returned to his official duties at City Hall after an absence of three weeks. His right foot, which had been severely infected for about two weeks, had improved sufficiently to permit the Mayor to walk with the assistance of a cane, although he could not wear a shoe over the bandage swathed foot. The Mayor scalded the foot at his Lancaster, N. H., summer home just before Labor Day and removed the bandages too soon when he returned to Newton early this month.

Elcker, principal of Newton High School, will preside and introduce Mr. Edward M. Rowe who will give a practical talk on the Course, outlining in detail the points to be covered. Newton Forum

Well Organized

Auburndale, Frank A. Day, Jr., Newton, and Kenneth S. May, Newton Highlands; publicity, George N. Morrill, Newtonville; chairman, Leonard A. Monest, West Newton; and Edward Powers, Newton; music, D. Ralph MacLean, Waban; Mrs. Mary Snyder of Newton Centre; and Walter P. Marsh, Newton; committee on ushers, Mrs. Ellis Spear, Newton Centre. The Steering Committee includes the foregoing and H. W. Hascom, Secretary Newton Y. M. C. A.; Mrs. Herbert N. Blair, Chairman of the Educational Committee of the Federated Women's Clubs of Newton; Russell Barkard, Principal F. A. Day Junior High School; Mrs. Charles B. Floyd, Auburndale; Mrs. Ruth Wolf Fuller, Waban; Mrs. Charles S. Grover, Auburndale; Julius Lucht, Librarian of the Newton Public Library; Fred W. Rust, Newtonville; A. C. Webber, Counsel, Mass. Public Utilities Commission; Albert C. Diefenbach, representing the Association of Protestant Ministers in Newton; Mrs. Endicott Saltonstall, Chestnut Hill; Prof. A. Philip Gules of West Newton; Newton-Andover Theological School; John W. Murphy, Nonantum, Chairman of the Board of Assessors of Newton; Miss Louise Walworth, Newton Centre, chairman of the International Affairs Committee of the Federated Women's Clubs; Donald McKay, Newton Highlands; Dr. Guy M. Winslow, President of Lasell Junior College; and Miss Cornelia Brown of Newton Highlands, representing the students of Newton High School.

The Newton School Committee has agreed to extend the use of the High School Auditorium, seating 1,200 people, to the Forum. It is planned to sell a limited number of tickets admitting the holder to the entire series of talks. As in the Ford Hall in Boston, ticket-holders will be admitted first and thereafter the doors will be thrown open for free admission to all comers.

The Forum will be non-sectarian, non-political, and will invite participation by all nationalities, groups and creeds. Owing to its division into eleven villages, Newton is almost unique in the extent to which it has developed small "discussion groups" meeting at private houses in various sections. It is planned to link these discussion groups with the Forum so that topics received at the Forum will in turn receive the consideration of the smaller groups. In this way it is expected that Newton will be benefited by fostering a more unified and centralized community spirit than has heretofore been possible. To this end the cooperation of churches, libraries, and senior student organizations will be invited.

Oak Hill Gravel Pit Continues

The widespread gravel pits at Oak Hill again were the subject of a discussion by the Newton Aldermen on Monday night. For seven years these pits have been the cause of controversy in successive Boards of Aldermen. For the past couple of years permits for the continuation of the operation of machinery at the pits have been limited to six months each and conditions have been specified requiring the refilling of big holes in the area.

When the report of the Chalmers & Rules Committee was received, recommending another extension of the permit to operate the pits, Alderman Holden again expressed his objection to gravel pits in this city, asserting that nothing else is so detrimental to the future of Newton. He said he would vote against the recommendation.

Alderman Temperley said he would vote for the extension of the permit with the understanding that excavating activities will be confined to land owned by George Wilbur, the petitioner. Temperley said he has been told that Wilbur has not only been excavating on land adjoining his, and owned by the Esty family, but also on land owned by another person. Temperley said Wilbur should be prevented from extending his operations or the gravel pits at Oak Hill will go on indefinitely.

Aldermen Walker and Rawson said they had visited the pits and had been informed by Wilbur that he has only excavated on his own and the Esty land. Alderman Temperley said he would check up to ascertain if the information given him is correct. The permit was granted with Alderman Holden voting in the negative.

A Lecture on Christian Science

Entitled

Christian Science: Some Rudimental Applications

By PROFESSOR HERMANN S. HERING, C.S.B., of Boston, Massachusetts

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church,
The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts

The audience that filled all seats in the church auditorium and overflowed to the Sunday School rooms of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Newton, last evening listened to a lecture on Christian Science delivered by Professor Hermann S. Hering.

Mr. William E. McKee, First Reader, introduced the lecturer with the following words:

Friends:

On behalf of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Newton, Massachusetts I extend to you a most cordial welcome to this lecture on Christian Science.

In the first chapter of the Acts of the Apostles it is related that just prior to his ascension Jesus said, "... and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." (Acts 1:8)

Christian Science, or the Christ Science, the religion taught and practiced by Christ Jesus, and discovered and founded in this age by Mary Baker Eddy, is being preached and practiced today in all countries "unto the uttermost parts of the earth."

Mrs. Eddy established the Christian Science Board of Lectureship thirty-seven years ago. The twenty lecturers who comprised that Board last year delivered over three thousand lectures in the United States, Canada, Alaska, Great Britain, Europe, the Orient, India, Australasia, Africa, and Central and South America. The attendance at these lectures was estimated to be over 3,000,000 people.

Many specific healings of sickness and sin were reported to have taken place as a result of these lectures. Some occurred at the lectures, others a little later.

The prophecy of Jeremiah, "And they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them..." (Jer. 31:34), is being fulfilled more and more every day as a result of these Christian Science lectures. Our church services Wednesdays and Sundays which are so well attended, and by the study of the Bible in conjunction with the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, by the unnumbered thousands who are seeking a better understanding of God and man.

Our lecturer this evening received his first appointment to the Christian Science Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, thirty years ago. He is still actively engaged in this work and in the practice and teaching of Christian Science.

His subject this evening is:

"Christian Science: Some Rudimental Applications"

It is now my pleasure to present Professor Hermann S. Hering, of Boston, Massachusetts.

It is generally understood that Christian Science is concerned with healing, and many admit that it has done remarkable work in physical, mental, and moral restoration and that it has also been the source of happiness and blessedness to many. The Discoverer of this Science, Mary Baker Eddy, calls it the "divine Science of Mind-healing," the "Science of divine metaphysical healing," the "Science of Christian healing," the "divine Science of Christianity." To many persons it no longer seems incongruous to use the term "Science" in connection with Christianity, or any religious question. The dictionary defines "science" as coming from the Latin root "scientia," which means "knowing," and so the fundamental or root meaning is "knowledge." Consequently, if there is any religious truth or spiritual truth, then there must be the knowing of it. The dictionaries elaborate this term "science," stating that it means exact knowledge, demonstrable knowledge.

While the statement that divine Mind-healing is scientific may not yet be recognized by all as true, still it is correct to use the term "Science" in connection with Mind-healing, because divine truth or knowledge has been found to be capable of proof, of demonstration. Mrs. Eddy was the original demonstrator of this Science, and it is being demonstrated by her followers.

The Science of Mind-healing means, in substance, the exact, systematized, demonstrable knowledge of the spiritual facts and laws involved in the healing of physical, mental, and moral disease through the operation of the law of divine Mind, together with an understanding of what constitutes material existence, wherein disease seems to have its development and activity. Thus may divine Truth be known and intelligently applied, and discordant conditions thereby remedied.

ASSOCIATION WITH MRS. EDDY

I have had the privilege of being acquainted with Mrs. Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, and for a time was closely associated with her and with many of her students, as well as with members of her household. I consider this intimate acquaintance with Mrs. Eddy's life and work, together with much instruction received during interviews with her, to have been a most sacred privilege.

It became very evident to me that Mrs. Eddy was not only a master metaphysician, but also a woman of unique, of rarest characteristics,—that she was a genuine Christian, having not only the highest, purest sense of God but also the deepest affection for mankind; a Christian warrior with undaunted courage, wielding in her pioneer work the sword of Spirit, and fighting the good fight of Truth against error, while at the same time, as a sweet, gentle, highly cultured, and very loving woman, showing the tenderest solicitude for the welfare of her followers, and even of those who persecuted her "for righteousness' sake."

While in her presence I felt that I was with the truest of all friends, with a veritable mother in Israel, an expounder of "the deep things of God," a dependable counselor, a wise mentor, a marvelous discerner of the thoughts and intents of the human mind, which always made me feel while with her as transparent as a piece of glass. She was an accomplished housekeeper, not only directing the details of a great movement but incidentally those of an involved household. She was also a perfect mental housekeeper in the realm of physical and moral conditions, and in the purification and Christianization of character, practicing and advocating faithful metaphysical housecleaning,—the removal of all that does not come from God.

It interested me deeply to observe how Mrs. Eddy talked with God and listened for His answer. I well knew her beautiful hymn,

"I will listen for Thy voice, Lest my footsteps stray," written when she was made pastor of her church, but I had never realized her conscious closeness to God, her feeling that she could talk with Him, could ask for and find inspiration and guidance. No one on earth had so clear and scientific a sense of God's Incorporeality as infinite Mind, as Love; but there was nevertheless that human nearness and appeal, as from a little child to a parent, due to her wondrous humility—her whole-souled, continuous obedience to Jesus' example when he prayed, "Not my will, but thine, be done."

I was also interested to observe how closely she endeavored to follow, not only the teaching, but also the life of Jesus; for she told me how it helped her, when she had an important decision to make, to wonder what Jesus would have done under such circumstances. Although realizing her great responsibility as the divinely ordained Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science and Leader of this great movement, she had a simple childlike feeling and attitude, when asking for divine guidance. Her humility and selflessness were far beyond what would seem to be humanly possible.

GOD NOW KNOWABLE

The most important of Mrs. Eddy's teachings is that concerning the true nature of God, for through this teaching God is now knowable.

The defective human concept of the one and only God has gradually improved through an ever ascending apprehension of what God really is. This concept has advanced from the primitive belief in many gods, both good and evil, to Abraham's recognition of one invisible God; thence to Jesus' teaching of God as Father; later, to St. John's concept of God as Love; and finally to the God revealed to Mrs. Eddy as infinite Truth, the Father-Mother God—the Truth which Jesus promised through the Comforter, through divine Science.

Some people fancy that humanity is not thinking of God as much as formerly. This may be true with a few; but, on the other hand, many now have a higher, clearer sense of God, in accordance with an enlightened interpretation of the Bible.

The omniscient nature of God, divine Mind, as well as the true character of His Son Christ Jesus, of man, and of the universe, can now be learned through a study of the Christian Science textbook, entitled "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," which was written by Mrs. Eddy. Herein will be found full and satisfying explanations of these deep questions. The verity, simplicity, and grandeur of these subjects will grow upon the thought of every reader and student who is earnestly seeking Truth and is measurably unhampered by those material misconceptions which hinder the expansion of human thought toward spiritual reality.

It must be quite evident that one who wishes to understand or practice this Science of the Christ-healing must acquire a reasonable amount of knowledge of spiritual truth. This means that his thought must turn away from materialism and reach toward divinity, toward a spiritualized consciousness, because God is Spirit and can be known only spiritually.

ATTITUDE

In order to make substantial progress in this spiritual growth, and in order to avail ourselves effectively of the opportunities offered by Christian Science in this direction, the following three essential points are quite necessary. First, attitude; second, study; third, application. The attitude of our thought towards Christian Science, towards its teachings, towards its demonstration, is of prime importance to our progress. Without an honest recognition, firstly, of what Christian Science is, secondly, through whom it came, and thirdly, of its mission and redemptive power, we are not looking in the right direction to find and perceive the revealed God and His Christ. The correct attitude turns us to the full light of revelation; and honesty of intent will enable us to reflect this light.

STUDY

It is evident that we cannot progress or become successful in any subject, occupation, or purpose in life without proper study. Therefore, a faithful, thorough study of Christian Science is essential, in order to acquire an understanding of its teachings. Occasional reading of the textbook and Mrs. Eddy's other writings, a mere perusal of the weekly "Bible Lessons," as given in the Christian Science Quarterly, and a scanning of the Christian Science periodicals, is not sufficient in Christian Science any more than in any other subject.

In Science and Health Mrs. Eddy writes in answer to the question, "How can I progress most rapidly in the understanding of Christian Science?" "Study thoroughly the letter and imbibe the spirit" (p. 45). She also refers to the Christian Science weekly Bible Lesson as "a lesson on which the prosperity of Christian Science largely depends" (Mannual, p. 31). It has accordingly become a custom and habit for earnest students to study the weekly Bible Lesson each day, in whole or in part. This indicates some appreciation of the benefit to be derived from acquaintance with these Lessons.

Headquarters of The Christian Science Publishing Society

The subjects of these Bible Lessons were selected by Mrs. Eddy and cover in a comprehensive way the Christian Science teaching on the fundamental features of this Science.

These subjects begin with God, followed by several of the synonymous names for God, including Life, Truth, Love, Spirit, Soul, Mind. These Lessons also deal with other important teaching relating to Man; Christ Jesus; Sacrament; Substance; Matter; Reality; Unreality; Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real? Is the Universe, including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force? In addition to these there are several Lessons dealing with more doctrinal questions, as Doctrine of Atonement; Probation after Death; Everlasting Punishment; Adam and Fallen Man; Mortals and Immortals; Soul and Body; Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism; Denounced; God the Only Cause and Creator; God the Preserver of Man. There is also one Lesson devoted to Christian Science as a subject by itself, and one prepared especially for the Thanksgiving Day service.

This list of subjects covers six months' study, and is repeated for the remaining six months of the year. Year after year students of Christian Science study these Lessons. So inexhaustible is this Science, that the Lessons never become hackneyed nor does one's interest wane nor one's store of understanding fall to increase. The infinite nature of Truth is seen in the ever new light upon old and much studied subjects. Each repetition of a Lesson brings a higher and clearer grasp of the teaching presented.

Jesus said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." It is the knowing of the truth that gives one spiritual freedom,—salvation from all error. This knowing includes understanding, and understanding makes possible that imbibing of the spirit to which Mrs. Eddy refers, and which is attained only through genuine study, coupled with prayer.

APPLICATION

In all walks of life it is the universal experience that the achievement of success in any direction requires application and much practice. We cannot become proficient in any line without this. In order that we may increase our understanding of Christian Science and experience its blessings, there is great necessity for an intelligent, scientific, and persistent application of the teachings. Thereby we gain an understanding of the modus operandi of Christian Science healing. The application of the truth, as revealed in Science and Health, is of vital importance, not only for our immediate welfare, but especially for our spiritual progress. If we cultivate a mental attitude towards Christian Science, and towards existence, that will bring us in line with divine truth, if we study this truth and apply it constantly in our daily lives, then we shall become "transformed through the renewing of [the] mind," as St. Paul puts it, and then, when confronted with error, we shall find ourselves able to overcome it quickly.

EXACTNESS OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Throughout her writings Mrs. Eddy teaches the fact that Christian Science is an exact Science, and that, in order to be demonstrated, it needs exactness of thought and correctness of application. Very few of us have been educated or trained to think accurately, analytically, and logically; consequently, the general thinking regarding religious matters has not been very orderly. In mathematics we know that it is essential to think correctly, to apply the rules exactly, and to work out each problem without regard to any human opinion. This process is even more important in the Science of Christianity, which requires absolute exactness in analysis and application.

Christian Science, being the revelation of Truth, being exact Science, its truth can be definitely known, deductions can be definitely made, conclusions can be definitely drawn, and the rule of truth can then be correctly applied. Christian Science teaching defines what is absolutely real and what is absolutely unreal; meaning. This can now be grasped by any sincere thinker who is looking for the truth and turning to God, and who, in addition, will look up the words in the two Concordances to Mrs. Eddy's works, and then carefully read and ponder in the textbook the sentences in which such words are used. A special endeavor should be made to note carefully how Mrs. Eddy uses words, in order to understand exactly the meaning with which she uses them.

This meaning can be perceived only through the spiritual vision, or perception, which the heart inspires in an earnest seeker. While we can study the etymological meanings of words in the dictionaries, and thereby see why Mrs. Eddy uses those words, we can get their scientific and practical meaning only by seeing how she was divinely led to use them. Spiritual things must be spiritually discerned.

In addition to revealing the underlying spiritual meaning of words, Mrs. Eddy introduced a system of capitalization which is of immense value. Using, among others, the word "Mind" as a synonym for God, this word, as used in Christian Science, is always spelled with a capital "M" when it means God; and with a small "m" when it means the mortal, human mind. This is a great aid in reading Mrs. Eddy's writings, for it enables us to distinguish between the Mind which is God, and the counterfeit carnal mind.

Before Mrs. Eddy presented Christian Science to the world, the word it declares Truth. "For the word of God [Truth] is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discern-er of the thoughts and intents of the heart." This does not mean the printed word which reaches the eye, nor the spoken word which reaches the ear; it means the spiritual truth of the expressed thought which reaches understanding.

SUBSTITUTION

Christian Science, with its "Key to the Scriptures," enables us to grasp, appreciate, and in a degree to understand, all the teachings of the Bible. This it does by giving us a spiritual sense of the terms used and of the ideas which the Bible teaching is intended to convey.

One very practical and immediately effective application of the teaching of Christian Science is found through Mrs. Eddy's interpretation of the twenty-third Psalm, given in Science and Health, page 577. Here she uses the word "Love" for words meaning "the Lord." This is well worth reading and studying.

Again, by applying this plan of word substitution to the twenty-seventh Psalm, verse one, we receive a wonderful enlightenment that at once dispels the mist of materiality and dispels a personal sense of God. It then reads: "Divine Love is my light and my salvation: whom shall I fear? Divine Love is the strength of my life: of whom shall I be afraid?"

Applying further this method of Mrs. Eddy's to impersonalize the sense of "the Lord" we shall find it a great help to take the definition of God as given on page 465 of the same book. "God is Incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love." Substituting, in these Psalms and other verses in the Bible, for "the Lord," any of the seven synonyms or names for God is very helpful, especially when one adds the very essential qualifying terms, "Incorporeal," "divine," "supreme," "infinite."

RELATIONSHIP

The question of a seeming relationship between what we call our material universe and the spiritual universe has puzzled many. It is impossible, outside of Christian Science, to account for two universes which directly contradict each other, namely, the first and second records of creation, and difficult to identify ourselves with the spiritual universe and the real man. Perhaps some illustrations or analogies may be helpful. Take the mathematical value two, for example. This is a mathematical idea which exists everywhere—there is no place where there is not the idea two; it is mathematically permanent, indestructible, unchanging; everyone can use it and it never wears out; there is no envy or jealousy over it; the mathematical rule back of it sustains it and maintains its value.

This idea, however, is invisible to the physical senses and known only through mathematical sense; but, in order to bring this value or idea to the cognizance of the corporeal senses, it is presented by means of a finite line called a figure two. Evidently this numeral is not the idea two and does not contain its value. Should the numeral be destroyed, the idea two would in no way be affected, so proving that its existence is in its truth, and not in the visible numeral. The mathematical value is, therefore, the idea back of the figure, which the figure merely indicates, and which is seen and discerned only through mathematical understanding. The physical eyes do not see the idea two.

In the case of the spiritual universe and the material impression of it, it is necessary to recognize that the physically unseen spiritual universe is the true idea, and that the material is but a false conception of it, a counterfeit or misrepresentation. The substance and value of the real universe are spiritual, not material. The apparent physical universe and the actual spiritual universe appear on entirely different planes of thought, the former being akin to a dream state, as it were, while the latter alone is divinely true.

There is actually no relationship between Spirit and matter, between the real and the unreal. The seeming relationship is that of association, such as exists between a genuine ten-dollar bill and its counterfeit; and also that of impression, as when an object seems blue while looking at it through blue glass.

COUNTERFEIT SUBSTANCE

Physicists look for reality in what is called the material universe and the testimony of the physical senses. Changing their belief in regard to the nature of matter in accordance with recent discoveries does not change their belief that there exists a so-called material universe. Although some physicists are venturing to assert the unreality of matter, yet this is only in theory, for it is impossible intelligently to assert the unreality or nothingness of matter without an understanding of the reality or somethingness of Spirit, the divine actuality,—which understanding they of course do not yet possess. To be sure, some of them have a vague philosophical belief in a possible invisible force or immaterial existence, but they have nothing substantive to take the place of sense testimony, or of what they call the external world.

The insubstantial, supposititious, immaterial nature of matter and of material objects can perhaps be seen through an illustration drawn from the following simple and practical application of one of the Einstein formulae: If we move a brick, for example, it will become smaller in the direction in which it is moved as its velocity increases. In other words, the brick actually becomes thinner and thinner, the faster it moves, and when moved, theoretically, at the velocity of light or approximately 186,000 miles per second, the dimension of the brick, in the direction in which it is moved, becomes zero. If the thickness of an object becomes zero, how much matter is there left of the object? Thus we see that velocity is one of the dimensions or factors which determine the size of an object. This proved theory shows that matter is not a fixed substance, but is variable and phenomenal; and in Christian Science it is found to be unreal.

Here is an important point: Denying matter scientifically, knowing its unreality according to Christian Science, does not destroy our present sense of existence. This don't this, or reads, the material veil that hides Spirit, lets more light into consciousness, and thus illumines everything with a spiritual hue, which is the hue of harmony. Mrs. Eddy considers this of great importance. Hence she writes: "Become conscious for a single moment that Life and intelligence are purely spiritual,—neither in nor of matter,—and the body will then utter no complaints" (Science and Health, p. 14). All of this emphasizes the great need of unseeing matter and its products, and realizing that spiritual existence is the real existence and is entirely independent of matter.

COUNTERFEIT POWER

How then are we to estimate this material existence, which seemingly is so very real? Mrs. Eddy teaches us that it is a counterfeit or dream state and must be seen as such in order to experience harmony. But how about the power that it seems to have? We have just seen that matter is not substance, and if it is a counterfeit, how can it seem to have so much power?

It is evident that a counterfeit bill has no intrinsic value of its own; but so long as it is believed as entirely genuine it seems to have the value of the genuine bill which it counterfeits. In other words, it gets its transitory seeming value or purchasing power from the genuine bill. Just as soon as the counterfeit is recognized as a counterfeit, its value and power disappear. This applies to counterfeits of any sort, showing that the temporary value of the counterfeit, or its power, is always stolen from the genuine article which it counterfeits.

In an analogous way, a vivid dream may impress consciousness as entirely real in incident and powerful in action. But where does the dream incidents and actions come from? A moment's thought will show us that these were in the waking experiences which were counterfeited by the dream.

Christian Science teaches that material existence itself is akin to a dream condition. It does not express real, spiritual being. Mrs. Eddy calls it the Adam-dream. The fundamental teaching of Christian Science is that since God is All-in-all, then that which is real is the infinite Mind and its infinite expression. Consequently, the material sense of existence which Mrs. Eddy calls mortal mind, and which St. Paul calls the carnal mind—the state of thought which believes in the reality of matter, material phenomena, evil, and so forth—is unreal; it is a false sense, a dream.

Continuing our analogy, we will see that, manifestly, since mortal existence is only a dream experience, it can have no power, substance, intelligence, nor reality. Just as in the case of the counterfeit bill where the seeming value of the bill is in the genuine bill which it counterfeits, and as the seeming power and substance of a dream is obtained from the material existence which it counterfeits, so the apparent power, substance, intelligence, and action of material living is only in the real spiritual universe which it counterfeits.

This latter fact has been recently corroborated through the mathematical discoveries and demonstrations of eminent physicists who have stated that there is neither cause nor effect in electrons, in elementary matter, nor in material existence, causation being something outside, or beyond, materiality.

Beginners in Christian Science who are taught the unreality of matter and material living, are often puzzled when they begin to take in the fact that matter is unreal and then try to figure out why it seems to have such power.

Those who can comprehend the revealed spiritual reality instantly, without human reasoning, do not need any analogies or aids to reason. But others who have a rather strong belief and conviction of the reality of matter, may find it a help to see that, even from a human standpoint, Mrs. Eddy's teaching of the dream nature of material existence is logical and demonstrable.

CHEMISTRY

The mental chemistry of Christian Science is very interesting. According to the dictionaries, the term "chemistry" means the science that treats of the composition of substances and of the transformations which they undergo.

Mrs. Eddy's references to mental and moral chemistry evidently pertain to the mental composition of things and the transformations which take place therein. Since existence is mental and things are thoughts, there must be — in mortal thought — a mental chemistry of disease and a moral chemistry of sin, which concern the composition of these beliefs and also bring about changes.

Mrs. Eddy's use of the word "chemicalization" as defined in the textbook, page 401, would seem to refer to fermentation and transformation which take place when one thought changes another, just as when an alkali destroys an acid, thereby resulting in purified and simplified conditions. Putting soda into sour milk produces a decided foaming while the sour, or acid, elements are being destroyed.

Analogously, when a strong moral thought of right is applied to an evil, sinful thought or habit, which the sufferer may or may not desire to be

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 29.

The Golden Text is: "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning" (James 1:17).

rid of, there is often a mental disturbance, an aggravation or change of the condition itself, a resistance to the healing, a reaction against the healer or against the truth.

It is sometimes puzzling to beginners to see how it is possible to change a nature, a physical structure, a condition, or a quality, through mental means; namely, through spiritual prayer, as the Bible teaches. The removal of abnormal conditions, structural, organic, or functional, has so frequently resulted from the study and application of Christian Science that there is no longer any question as to whether or not these so-called natural changes can be brought about through divinely mental means. In partial explanation of this we can see that since all discord is error, because it is outside the realm of divine Truth, the healing comes about when a thought of truth touches a thought of error in human consciousness. Also that when divine Truth is brought to bear upon an ill trait of character, a temporary mental condition, a disease, or some indulged wrongdoing, a change is brought about and right conditions are established through "the alchemy of Spirit," to use Mrs. Eddy's words (Science and Health, p. 422).

She also uses the term "leaven" when referring to the uplifting and transforming effect of truth upon the human consciousness, and refers to Jesus' parable of the leaven which a woman hid in three measures of meal, —this leaven being spiritual Truth operating through the spiritual chemistry of divine Mind and its action. A careful study of the term "leaven" in Mrs. Eddy's writings will be found most enlightening.

STIMULANTS

While we are talking about chemistry, we might with profit discuss some chemical substances that have been the seeming cause of perhaps the greatest amount of sin, disease, and death produced in the world.

It is held that these chemical materials affect the body injuriously, dull the moral sense, arouse the animal nature, and predispose towards disease through weakening of the tissues.

Mrs. Eddy enumerates some of these poisonous elements and the depraved appetite for them at the bottom of page 406 of the textbook. These appetites are evidently called depraved because they demand stimulants, not foods, and the desire for these is due to the conscious or unconscious craving for the stimulating effect.

The alcohol evil is a very serious one and needs to be looked squarely in the face for what it is. Otherwise mankind must find itself being detrimentally influenced by the mentally that wishes them to indulge in it, or that lacks courage to handle this question effectually. One has to be only partially observant to see plainly the effect of the use of alcohol upon the minds and morals of mortals, and to find clear evidence that the indulgence in alcohol is a monstrous evil.

Mrs. Eddy handles this throughout as a moral question. Instead of handling it on the basis of economics or policy. A study of her writings discloses the fact that Christian Science heals this appetite and its effects. This shows conclusively that this sin is healed only through the moral and spiritual influence of divine Science. It will be helpful to read what she says about it in "Retrospection and Inspiration" (p. 65), "The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellaneous Writings" (p. 297).

Mrs. Eddy writes in her "Miscellaneous Writings" (p. 283): "Whatever intoxicates a man, stupefies and causes him to degenerate physically and morally. Strong drink is unquestionably an evil, and evil cannot be used temperately; its slightest use is abuse; hence the only temperance is total abstinence."

Christian Scientists are blessed with a degree of spiritual understanding that enables them to recognize evil as evil and to destroy the desire for it, on the basis of the Christ, Truth, as Mrs. Eddy plainly teaches, and which she has made possible of proof.

"ABSENT FROM THE BODY"

We are told in the Bible "to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord." Mrs. Eddy often refers to this admonition in her writings, making it applicable to the everyday world. A study of these references is very helpful.

Being "present with the Lord" means to be present with God, therefore, present with Truth and Love in consciousness. It means having the consciousness of divine Mind, which naturally is outside the material body.

It is most profitable to see that we do not live in matter nor in a matter body. This is readily grasped when we realize that our existence, as we have already seen, is our consciousness, and that our consciousness therefore includes everything that we are conscious of. Humanly, it includes our awareness and knowledge of physical existence, of the universe and everything in it. If we doubt this let us think what existence would be without a universe! It is manifest that this vast consciousness cannot be confined in a matter body—there simply would not be room for it. This shows that we really live in Mind and not in matter, in thought, not in material things. St. Paul says, "For in him [God] we live, and move, and have our being." When we are thus absent from the body, from the sense of limitation and confinement, thought expands and consciousness can reach out to infinity.

One practical effect of being absent from the body is illustrated by the following: If we twist tightly a chain or rope, it becomes tense and stiff.

Then, if we release it, it resumes its normal condition. So with the matter body; when it is held in fear, in the bondage of laws of matter, laws of physiology, pathology, fatalism, etc., it is thereby twisted and distorted. The organs cease to function properly and the faculties are impaired, resulting in morbid conditions and often in calamity. If we then become absent from the body, by knowing that we live, move, and have our being in Mind instead of in matter, that we are governed by the law of God, the law of good, instead of evil, the strain is taken off the body and it has a chance to become normal, which it does.

When St. Paul tells us to be absent from the body he means absent mentally from a sense of a corporeal structure, and present with the consciousness of divine Mind, present as a spiritual idea of God, embodying the ideas of Soul. This Truth illumines consciousness and externalizes harmony.

SUPPLY

The Psalmist says, "The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein." The earth is evidently the dwelling place of man — seemingly, the material earth for material man; actually, the spiritual earth for spiritual man. In reality, there is but one universe, because the material is only the counterfeit, or false appearance, of the spiritual. Since man includes all right ideas, there can be no lack of any kind in him, because all that he is belongs to God—man being God's expression. The human sense of lack is necessarily a dream condition and not a reality.

It is a great help to see, from this Scriptural statement, that all ownership is vested in God and that we are but His stewards, or trustees. However, we possess all good by reflection. We are told that the earth was made for man's use, and that he was given dominion over it, which means that man, in his real being, has all that he needs.

For example: Consider the fact that there is but one two, or one of anything. We can all have that two, or any other value or idea, and we can use it whenever we need to; it never wears out and is always ready for us; we have only to know it in order for it to appear. Just so the real man has all by reflection, and possesses every idea as he knows it and needs it.

Surely, God is mindful of His own, provides all necessities, and takes care of every contingency; His is the law of salvation from discord and lack. Can we not trust God's law to adjust everything and thus make it possible for all to be governed by God, the infinite Mind? The difficulty is that we seem to interfere with our consciousness of God's reality and government by thrusting in mortal fears and doubts, by believing that we own material things and that these are endangered or limited. When we realize that we are but stewards, we can then pray for the necessary wisdom to rightly look after everything that is entrusted to us.

The human sense of source, supply and need implies limited space, a time element, and a sense of lack, which calls for a transfer of something to meet that lack. Seeing that infinity is omnipresence, there can be no place where the substance of Truth is not; and consequently there can be no lack. Because man is the expression of God, he expresses infinite substance; hence, he already has all that he needs, in reflection. God is not the source but also the omnipresent supply, and man does not have to go elsewhere to obtain it, or fill a supposed vacuum; so man is really a harmonious being.

MAN'S PERFECTION

Jesus said, "The kingdom of God is within you," from which it follows that there can be no discord in man—either in consciousness, in structure, in activity, in functioning, in supply, nor in resourcefulness. Right where discordant condition seems to be there is actually the kingdom of heaven, which proves the inharmonious to be an illusion.

Mrs. Eddy strongly emphasizes the spiritual fact that man is already perfect and immortal. (See Science and Health, p. 428.) This, together with her oft-repeated statement that man is the expression of God, enables us to see that in reality man is the present reflection of God, that he expresses nothing but God, and that he is therefore not in any way the product of the past. It is profitable to see that time is just as unreal as matter; and it is marvelous what harmonizing effect this truth has upon the human consciousness.

St. John writes, "Beloved, now are we the sons of God." This verifies Mrs. Eddy's teaching just referred to. He goes on to say that this fact "doth not yet appear," is not yet manifest, but when God "shall appear," he will be manifest, "we shall be like him," he says, "for we shall see him as he is," understand him as he really is, —reflect him. Then St. John goes on to tell us the result of knowing God aright, by showing us the scientific, metaphysical healing truth that "every man that hath this hope in him," in God, "purifieth himself, even as he [God] is pure." That is, through well-grounded expectancy to know God aright, one will become conscious of his God-bestowed spiritual purity, because God is the essence of purity.

This knowing that man is the present reflection of God naturally heals the evils of so-called heredity, and also the seeming effect of past experiences. I know a case of a serious accident, the effects of which disappeared in three days, when dealt with on this scientific basis.

Truly can we appreciate the Psalmist's statement, "I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness." When we see what two satisfaction is, we can understand that we shall be truly satisfied with the consciousness of divine truth when we awake to that consciousness.

LOVE

Any thoughtful student, or careful reader, of Mrs. Eddy's writings must be strongly impressed by her teaching in regard to the nature of Love—its divinity and its human expression; he must also see how essential this is to a Christian Scientist, that he may understand, appreciate, and live the teachings, and how vital is the reflection of divine Love in successful healing work.

Mrs. Eddy uses the word "Love" with a capital when it stands as a synonym for God, and when the word God can be used in its place. With a small letter it refers properly to the reflection of divine Love. This differentiation enlarges our grasp of the meaning of the term, and enables us to apply the loving nature of God more naturally, and more correctly.

In his gospel, St. John says, emphatically, that "God is love," and I must confess that I never could grasp the meaning of that phrase, because I construed the statement as meaning human love, and I thought God was more than the human view of love, which the statement seemed to convey to my sense at that time; but in her textbook, page 465, Mrs. Eddy gives the seven cardinal terms for God with their several wonderful qualities, which satisfied me.

For example: in answer to the question, "What is God?" which, by the way, is the beginning of class instruction in Christian Science, Mrs. Eddy defines God as Love and says that this word is synonymous with the other terms or names for God, which she gives. This term "Love" not only expresses God's nature as infinite goodness but also the wholeness of God, and consequently includes all there is of God. Love is, therefore, divine Mind, infinite Spirit, incorporeal Soul, supreme Principle, immortal Life, eternal Truth. Love includes and expresses the entire nature of God, and is the nature of Deity, which is most difficult to realize, and since Love conveys the most important and potent healing thought, it is very necessary that we obtain a clear realization of Love, that we actually feel its presence, and companion with it.

It is evident, then, that we need to clear our thought and rise to the consciousness of this pure love. If at any time we notice that it is difficult to do this, it will be helpful for us to think of all the attributes or qualities of Love and then rest there, allowing them to lift our thought toward divine, infinite Love, which they invariably do.

To be divine, love must be unselfish, selfless, and self-sacrificing. It must be immaterial, impartial, immutable. It must be constant, firm, indestructible. It must be pure. Mrs. Eddy's inspired article on "Love" in "Miscellaneous Writings" (p. 249) contains a most practical elucidation of this subject and is well worth careful study.

St. Paul wrote in his Epistle to the Romans, "All things work together for good to them that love God." Mrs. Eddy quotes this passage several times and refers to its teaching frequently. She often quoted these words in her letters, and usually followed St. Paul's statement, "to them that love God," with an equivalent statement, "to them that love good." Is it not important for us, then, to be able to love God right—to love good, and thus to have all our experiences work together for our good? Christian Science enables us to do this.

"The little prayer of Mrs. Eddy's in 'Miscellaneous Writings' (p. 100), over assures a daily harvest from divine Love:

"Father—Mother good, lovingly Thee I seek—
Patient, meek,
In the way Thou hast,—
Be it slow or fast,
Up to Thee."

Boy Soprano To Give Recital At Auburndale

Master Dewi Jones will give a song recital at the Church of the Messiah, corner of Auburn St. and Commonwealth Ave., Auburndale, October 1st, at 8 p. m. Newton is fortunate in having this celebrated Welsh boy soprano come to Auburndale through the friendship of Mr. Derek Inman, his manager, and Rev. Harold Hallett. There will be no admittance charge but a collection will be taken.

Master Dewi Jones was born in Pontaldu, South Wales, in 1923 and made his first public appearance as a soloist at the age of three. When he was but seven years old he sang before an audience of seven thousand people at the Welsh Easter Festival. This is one of the most outstanding events in Wales of the musical season.

He has given recitals in most of the larger cities of Great Britain, Canada and eastern United States, always attracting overflowing audiences. The Canadian Radio Commission has featured him on twelve occasions over their coast-to-coast network. Incidentally Master Dewi is the only boy ever known to have undertaken a half-hour broadcast alone.

Mrs. Allen Hubbard, violinist, of Newton Centre, will also play several selections.

Woman's Ass'n To Hold
First Meeting of Fall

The Woman's Association of Central Congregational Church will hold its first meeting of the year on Wednesday, Oct. 2. There will be singing in the morning at ten o'clock under the direction of Mrs. George Hinman. Mrs. Fred Rust's Circle will serve the luncheon with Mrs. Frank R. Clark chairman.

Activities which are being planned for the coming year, will be discussed, which promise to make the business meeting one of unusual interest.

The programme of the afternoon will be outstanding with two prominent Newtonville speakers. Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, who is president of the association, and well known in church and club circles will give a bird's eye view of the Northfield Conference of last summer where she attended as delegate.

Dr. Wynne C. Fairfield, a secretary of the American Board of Missions will tell of his trip to the Far East during last winter and spring. His subject is "Seeing China and Japan with Fairfield." Films will accompany the address.

COOLIDGE CORNER BROOKLINE

R. WHELDEN'S 250 LBS. MAY BALK LATIN LINE

Unless Cambridge Latin shows a much more potent attack than is expected, Newton players will see action in this first game of the Suburban League series. Coach Ralph Sanborn used all of his better reserve strength at Needham in a practice scrimmage Wednesday, and several of these boys are certain to undergo their baptism under fire on the Newtonville Stadium turf tomorrow.

Sanborn will start McEwen and Salvucci, ends, Wilson and Milner, tackles, Davis and McNamara, guards, and Brad Thompson, center. Jim McEwen earned his spurs at Arlington, replacing big Bob Frowen, who will fill in either at end or tackle when the occasion arises. Jim Packard, regular center, may be on the bench at the kick-off, due to a face wound suffered last Saturday. The first backfield will again be Savignano, MacLeod, Woodward and Reardon.

New Backs To See Action

Bill Daniels, a quick-thinking quarterback, has been brought up from the fourth string to understudy Captain Savignano. Jack Herrick, who played a part of the Arlington game, will again be used at halfback, as will Paul Forte and Jim Joyce, two newcomers who Sanborn is anxious to see working under pressure. Forte is a speed merchant, although very inexperienced, and Joyce a hard-hitting, shifty ball carrier. Red Callahan, a dependable kicker, will spell Reardon at fullback, since Al Thompson is recuperating from a head injury incurred in the Needham scrimmage.

Sanborn is light in reserve line material, although there are several good second-stringers. Pete Donovan distinguished himself last week by showing the rest of the team how Bart Madden ought to be tackled, and will wear an orange jersey tomorrow as second-string reserve end, as will Bob Steinsieck. Thuy Whelden, the 250-lb. tackle, who got numerous calls from the stands at Arlington, "We want Number 42!" will surely be let loose against the Cantabrigians. So will John Reche, a tackle, and Howard Gross, Bill Newcomb and John McHugh, guards.

Church Plans Service Recognizing Teachers

The Channing Unitarian Church of Newton is planning to recognize those in the teaching professions on Sunday, October 13th with a service of worship. Mr. James Barth, pastor of the church, believes the church has a duty to perform in recognizing the importance of vocational groups in society and that the church can give support to the efforts of such groups in achieving their ideal in the community. Letters of invitation are being sent out to the teachers of Newton to attend the service. Although especially planned for the teachers of the Newton public school system, all teachers in public and private schools are welcome.

THE WEEK IN NEWTON SPORTS

By JACK MORRIS

LIGHT CAMBRIDGE TEAM IN STADIUM TOMORROW

Cambridge Latin, the team that will attempt to stop the Newton eleven tomorrow at Dickinson Stadium, started its season last Saturday with a scratch victory over little Woburn, winning 7-0. The single touchdown came when Joe Manke took a pass from halfback Tom Fratto and passed laterally to Captain Coady, who ran forty yards to a touchdown.

Woburn retaliated with a 60-yard march to the Cantab 6-yard line, but bogged down for want of a scoring punch. However, they held the upper hand during the second half, forcing the Latin team to play defensive football a large part of the time. Cambridge Latin was unimpressive enough, and did not show the power required for defeating Newton in their first league contest, especially since Newton has invariably found Cambridge the easiest team on the list since Sanborn took over the coaching reins several years back.

Cambridge Sadly Outweighed
The Cambridge eleven will average about 157 lbs., more or less, or from ten to twelve lbs. less than the Newton average, which comes down from 175 to 167 when Frowen and Packard are shifted. Chalmers is recognized as the high scorer of the hockey league last winter, while the Coady-Manke forward and lateral combine that beat Woburn worked the same sort of mischief against Newton in basketball last winter.

The Cambridge first line of defense is as follows: Ray Gifford, 150, and Francis "Dutch" Glacken, 160, ends; Capt. Frank Coady, 176, and Bill Sullivan, 165, tackles; Emilio Gargano, 145, and John Cmeo, 165, guards; and Con Sullivan, 162, centre. The light Cantab backs are Albert D'Entremont, quarterback, Ray Chalmers and Tom Fratto, halfbacks, and Joe Manke, fullback. Manke is a sinewy 160-pounder and the other three are close to 145 lbs.

With as light a team as this, and undernourished as to reserves, the Cambridge offensive will certainly not go butting its headgear against the Newton line, which held Arlington for downs at the goal line last week. Jack Sheehan has been working his boys hard on passes, and only by the sort of legdemain they hope to defeat Newton. But it is reasonable to conclude that the team that was not undone by Arlington's well-oiled aerials will not be overwhelmed by any Cambridge passes. Newton is a 3-1 favorite.

St. Bernard's Field Day A Success

The field day of St. Bernard's Parish held last Saturday on the grounds of the Newton Catholic Club was attended by thousands. The doll carriage parade was won by Joan Fanning; Jean Fahey, 2nd; Marion Parsons, 3rd. Frances Foley, daughter of Patrolman John Foley, was adjudged the prettiest baby; Shirley McGurrlin the best appearing; Jack Walters and Carol Brocklesby the healthiest. John Brocklesby was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair and he was assisted by Nora O'Sullivan, Bernard McCarthy and Joseph Edwards.
